Secretary Perkins Offers Proposal For Settling Differences

SUGGESTS COMMITTEE OF 13 SHOULD BE AGREED ON

Neither A. F. L. Nor C. I. O. Makes Immediate Response

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The Roosevelt administration's first concrete proposal for ending labor's three-year-old civil war failed today to produce any immediate signs of acceptance by either the American Federation of Labor or John L. Lewis' C. I. O.

Secretary of Labor Perkins advanced the proposal in an address before a labor audience at Columbus, O. She suggested that the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. each select five representatives, that these representatives in turn choose three disinterested persons, and that the committee of thirteen thus formed proceed to mediate the controversy.

Neither Lewis nor William Green, president of the federation, would comment at once upon the proposal.

This fact alone was not particularly discouraging to advocates of labor peace, who said the rival leaders could hardly be expected to act on the spur of the moment regarding such an important question. They acknowledged, however, that the bitterness engendered by the long conflict would make a settlement extremely difficult.

In an interview granted just prior to Miss Perkins' address, on the occasion of the third anniversary of the C. I. O.'s conception, Lewis declared the Committee for Industrial Organization would continue as "labor's most progressive and active force."

"The progress we have made from a comparatively small beginning has

FOUR FINED FOR ACTS OF FASCISM

Alexandria Judge Tells Defendants Men Of Their Type Not Needed

ALEXANDRIA, La., Oct. 15.—(AP)—City Judge Gus A. Voltz today fined four men $100 each and sentenced them to serve 90 days in jail here on charges of "peddling and selling without state license" in connection with the distribution of pamphlets and circulars here allegedly promoting fascism and attacking the Catholic church.

The judge suspended the jail sentences on condition that the men pay the fines and leave Alexandria within six hours. Those fined were listed by court as Eric W. Ruckman, Los Angeles; Clement Mathis and Robert Graham, Baton Rouge, La., and Carmen Golden, New Jersey.

A fifth defendant, B. A. Godeau of Godeau, La., was discharged.

"Our state, parish and city are made up of God-fearing people—people of all faiths and creeds, who enjoy friendship of each other regardless of religious beliefs," Judge Voltz told the defendants from the bench.

"The court has reached the conclusion that this community does not, nor does any American community, need men of your type."

FRENCH PRESS HITS WEAKNESS IN AIR

PARIS, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The French press launched a campaign today designed to show weakness in France's air defense.

The press drive came as Britain's air chief, Marshal Sir Cyril Newall, and his staff departed for London from a six-day inspection of the nation's air force and aviation factories.

The independent newspaper Paris-Soir said that in the midst of the Czechoslovak crisis France had "only a few dozen modern bombers and even fewer modern fighting planes" to match Germany's powerful air fleet.

The rightist weekly Aux Ecoutes advised the government to order 2,000 fighting planes from the United States to augment purchases already made in that country.

Aux Ecoutes also called for mobilization of workers in French aviation factories to speed up production at home.

The senate aviation committee threatened on October 6 to resign in a body unless production of plane motors was accelerated.

LATIN AMERICA CONSIDERS ARMS

May Join United States In Preparing To Combat Aggression

By Charles P. Nutter
(Associated Press Writer)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Reports received here from Latin America suggest that this country's action in strengthening its whole defense system may be copied quickly below the Rio Grande.

The retreat of democratic protectors before Germany's threats against Czechoslovakia, and the economic inroads already made in South America by Germany, Japan and Italy, are reported to have alarmed many of the Latin American states as their future safety.

The United States government is profoundly interested, its traditional policy under the Monroe doctrine being to shield its new world neighbors from invasion, by arms if necessary.

More than six months before Hitler marched into Austria, Brazil—greatest and most powerful nation in Latin America—informed the United States of its "increasing concern with certain tendencies of the world political situation."

This advice was in connection with an effort to lease six ageing American destroyers to bolster Brazil's defense system, an undertaking which subsequently lapsed because Argentine suspicions were aroused by its neighbor's action.

GOVERNMENT MAY MAKE COTTON GOODS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Agriculture department officials said today that it might be necessary for the government itself to manufacture cotton goods if the textile industry declined a request that it cut costs to the bone on products made for sale at bargain prices to low-income families.

If the industry does not cooperate in the program for federal subsidization of cotton consumption among the poor, the government might lease idle textile mills or build its own plants, one high official declared.

The authorities generally expressed confidence, however, that cooperation would be forthcoming.

A departmental committee, headed by Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Harry L. Brown, is scheduled to meet Monday to go over the consumption subsidy proposal and possibly invite textile industry executives and labor leaders to participate in a conference soon.

In outlining the proposal recently, Secretary Wallace said the government could have about 1,600,000 bales of surplus cotton, acquired through loans to growers, made into cloth and clothing for sale at reduced prices to the "lower third" of the population.

By R. H. Hippelheuser

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Bernard M. Baruch, in an interview today in which he amplified his views on building America's defensive forces, advocated a special tax to meet the cost of increased armaments.

The tall, white-haired financier—who, as chairman of the war industries board, was in charge of mobilizing the nation's industry in the World war—said the levy "should be heavy enough to meet the cost of preparedness, whatever the cost may be."

"We should not pile the burden of paying for these armaments onto the shoulders of coming generations," Baruch contended. "We should pay the bill ourselves. Congress, I believe, should enact whatever form of levy it thinks best to pay for the new expenditures.

"I am not prepared, nor is it my business, to say how all of this money shall be raised. All of it may not have to be raised by taxation. But certainly we must provide for interest and amortization of the cost.

FIFTH DISTRICT TO CAST BALLOTS

Run-Off Primary Will Be Held Tuesday; Campaign Hard Fought

The attention of voters throughout the state will be focused on the Fifth congressional district this week when on Tuesday the 14 parishes in this district will participate in a run-off primary for congressman. The candidates are Newt V. Mills, incumbent, of Monroe, and State Representative Will Harvey Todd of Bastrop.

The campaign has been carried into the remotest corners of the various parishes by supporters of both candidates and has proved one of the most bitterly fought of any waged here in recent years. Talks have been delivered in cities and towns of the district almost nightly, sound trucks, billboard advertising and circulars have been circulated widely by the two candidates in an effort to show particulars merits or qualifications of the competitors in the race.

Members of the state administration have been pronounced in support of Will Harvey Todd as best qualified to carry out the extensive, constructive program, pointing out that this is utterly impossible were a congressman out of accord with the state administration elected to office.

WEATHER CONDITIONS REMAIN UNSETTLED

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Weather conditions remained unsettled over much of Florida today as moderate tropical disturbance virtually stood still out in the Gulf of Mexico.

The weather bureau, in a 3:30 p. m., central standard time, bulletin, said little change in intensity or direction had been noted since morning.

At 2 p. m., the bureau reported, the storm was centered about 175 miles southwest of Tampa, with "possibly a slow movement northeast or north."

An earlier advisory said winds of 40 miles an hour or more in squalls were reported near and north of the center.

The weather bureau ordered storm warnings down south of Fort Myers but the signals remained aloft north of Fort Myers to Cedar Keys. Small craft warnings were hoisted from Cedar Key to Carrabelle.

As a precautionary measure, the bureau advised small craft on the Atlantic coast from Jacksonville to Georgetown, S. C., to remain in port.

Ickes, Peeved, Will Not Speak At Boulder Dam

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes, reputedly offended at being advertised as the attraction at a scheduled Los Angeles meeting where admission was to be charged, passed up a speaking engagement at Boulder dam today and came to San Francisco five days ahead of time.

Amid a flurry of reports that the secretary was ill and had been taken to a hospital, Ickes said he had been indisposed because of the high altitude at Reno, Nev., where he had attended a reclamation meeting this week, but that he had not even consulted a physician.

Ickes explained that he did not go from Reno to Boulder dam, 400 miles south, because of the altitude there.

MONSKY ATTACKS NAZI OPPRESSION

Questions Whether Democracy Can Be Preserved By 'Silent Acquiescence'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Henry Monsky of Omaha, Neb., international president of B'nai B'rith, Jewish fraternal organization, denounced German oppression of minority peoples tonight and questioned whether democracy could be preserved "if we stand by and give silent acquiescence."

The Jewish leader spoke with Dr. John W. Studebaker, United States commissioner of education, in a radio broadcast observing the hundredth anniversary of the birth of John Hay, secretary of state under Presidents McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt.

Monsky declared it would have been difficult for Hay to have reconciled Germany's interest in the Sudeten minorities "with Germany's brutality and long continued persecution and oppression of hundreds of thousands of minority peoples in Germany and Austria."

"To observe nuns and clerics of the Catholic church, and Jews by the thousands languishing in prisons and concentration camps; to observe the devastation of all things sacred to mankind, would have been to John Hay an inconceivable tragedy," he added. "Perhaps the spirit of John Hay will yet prevail."

Monsky spoke from Washington, introducing Studebaker.

In an address prepared for delivery from Des Moines, Ia., the commissioner of education said:

"The statesmen of the world should give heed to the teachings of John Hay, the great peace-maker, who worked and hoped for the time when all nations would settle their differences peacefully in conference, and not in blood on the battlefields of death."

Jewish leaders who have been active in Washington this week reported, meantime, that more than 64,000 telegrams had been sent to the White House and state department urging the government to use its influence toward keeping Palestine open to Jewish refugees.

The telegrams urged intercession against the British government's reported intention to halt Jewish immigration into Palestine because of troubles there between Arabs and Jews.

The state department issued a statement yesterday saying it would take "all necessary measures" to protect American rights and interests in the Holy Land.

JAPS THINK WAR TO BE WON SOON

Assert Twilight Hour Of Chinese Resistance Has Arrived

SHANGHAI, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Spokesmen for Japan's forces of invasion in China expressed belief tonight that the twilight hour of Chinese resistance was at hand.

Spokesmen for the army and navy, summing up more than 15 months of warfare, said the Japanese were fastening a stranglehold on China in operations which, with the invasion of south China, now have reached the greatest dimensions since the undeclared war started July 7, 1937.

The south China drive, started Wednesday, appeared to be developing fast, promising a Japanese overlordship for 70,000,000 Chinese in southern provinces while armies, warships and planes hammered closer to Hankow, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's capital in central China.

Moreover, the Japanese army in north China, birthplace of the war, was reported prepared to enlarge operation westward into the untouched provinces of Shensi and Kansu or southward to the Yangtze valley to assist the Hankow campaign, if necessary.

The northern command reported that its anti-guerrilla campaign, now weeks old, had reduced communist hit-and-run fighters, organized around the famous eighth army, to impotence.

The Yangtze invaders were reported within 80 miles by river of Hankow. The Chinese said today that their shore batteries in that sector, southeast of Hankow, had sunk a Japanese munitions transport.

The Yangtze river fighting was in but one sector of a vast front arching from the Peiping-Hankow railway

Community Chest Prepared For Drive To Start Oct. 24

Mobilizing forces of the Twin Cities in the interest of supplying human needs as they are found by nine civic agencies, the Twin City Community Chest's initial campaign "to help those who cannot help themselves," will be initiated from October 24 to November 5, when a goal of $20,000 will be sought. While the campaign will not start for a week, every detail has been worked out with careful precision, stated W. R. Hatchell, president of the chest.

The entire personnel of the various leaders, committee members and all others who will cooperate to put over the biggest campaign ever waged to cope with civic needs here was announced Saturday. In another part of today's Sunday World, a page advertisement gives emphasis to the details of the project.

A. B. Clarkson has been named as colonel and general director; E. C. Gibson, lieutenant-colonel and assistant general director, and Bob Burns also lieutenant-colonel.

C. E. Woolman was named major in charge of special gifts and J. L. Ewing, major and director of publicity.

Under the special gifts there will be the following teams:

Captain, Company A, Ben Downing, assisted by W. D. H. Rodriguez, Louis Buckner and A. Blumenthal.

Captain Company B, Joe Durrett, assisted by G. B. Cooley, J. H. Trousdale, and J. T. Conger.

Captain Company C, Sid Moss, assisted by Wilson Ewing, C. E. Faulk and Harry Frazer.

Captain Company D, Clifford Strauss, assisted by Claude Harrison, R. Downes and A. O. Evans.

Captain Company E, Jack Selig, assisted by Louis Langford, Joe Marx, Sr., and Elmer Slagle.

Captain Company F, M. C. McDonald, assisted by T. O. Bancroft, J. W. Warren and Leon Sugar.

2 KILLED, 9 HURT IN BUS ACCIDENT

FOREST, Miss., Oct. 15.—(AP)—A day's outing at the state fair in Jackson today turned to tragedy tonight as a school-bus load of Newton countians turned over near here, killing two and injuring nine persons.

The bus, only a few miles from home, turned unexplainably off an eight-foot embankment three miles south of here, and the top was crushed in upon the 23 occupants of the bus.

The dead:

D. B. Collum, 78, Little Rock, Miss.
Mrs. Ida Lshee, 66, Newton county.

The injured, taken to Newton by Forest ambulances, included the bus driver, Delmer Simmons, Sheriff Duff D. Austin reported.

Others hurt, all of the Little Rock community, included:

H. L. Collum, L. T. Lshee, Jim Rowzee, Mrs. Inez Lshee, Mrs. Laura Laird, Mary Lou Collum.

ORLEANS NEWSPAPER OFFICIAL SUCCUMBS

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Paul Jones Thomson, 54, vice-president of the Item company, which publishes the New Orleans Item and the Morning Tribune, died suddenly today a few hours after he was stricken ill at work.

Born at Summit Point, W. Va., he came here in 1908 to join his brother, Colonel James M. Thomson, publisher of the Item. He became assistant circulation manager, circulation manager, and vice-president.

He was a graduate to Virginia Military institute at Lexington, Va., as was his father, a confederate veteran. Survivors are his widow, three sons, a daughter, his mother, two brothers and five sisters.

The funeral will be here tomorrow, with interment at Summit Point, W. Va.

GERMANS ASSAIL BARUCH WARNING

Assert His Purpose To Arouse Suspicion In South America

MUNICH, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Germany looked forward tonight to quick adaptation of Czechoslovakia to her hegemony and to settlement of Hungary's claims for Czechoslovak territory on the same basis as Germany acquired the Sudetenland.

At the same time the German press suddenly ceased all attacks on Czechoslovakia and opened up instead with a flood of criticism of Bernard M. Baruch, former chairman of the United States war industries board.

Even the semi-official Diplomatisch Politische Korrespondenz joined the chorus against Baruch for his statements in the United States.

(Baruch declared in Washington Friday that Germany had not gained all the raw materials or markets she needed and said "the threat to the United States from Germany is in South America and is real and immediate.")

"Baruch's charges," this publication asserted, "are along the same lines as the efforts of the bellicose clique unfortunately existing in England.

"His charges further constitute a systematic campaign of casting suspicion on the German Reich with the South American states and to disturb the beginnings of exchange of goods profitable to both."

It said it took satisfaction, however, in the fact that President Roosevelt did not associate himself with Baruch's strictures.

With the departure from Munich of Czechoslovak Foreign Minister Frantisek Chvalkovsky and former Hun-

TOT'S SIGHT TAKEN TO SAVE HIS LIFE

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Scientists tonight brought a dying 16-month-old baby boy back to the path of life—only to say he must travel it in total blindness.

Deep-searching high voltage X-rays apparently halted progress of glioma (a tumorous condition) in the left eye of little Jimmy Abraham, whose right eye was removed last night because of hopeless spread of the same malady.

"The chances of life are good, and while there is some sight remaining in the left eye, I think eventually that total blindness will result," declared Dr. Louis Schwartz of Boston City hospital, who said the lad's case was "identical to the point" to that of Baby Helaine Colan of Chicago who died earlier in the year.

X-ray treatment was used, Dr. Schwartz said, to "halt progress of the glioma" which had been "more progressive" in the removed eye than in the one now under treatment.

Doctors at first indicated retention of the remaining eye would mean death, but Dr. Schwartz said tonight the X-rays would "kill" the tumorous growth, leaving a sightless eye.

PLAN WILL FORM NEW FACTOR IN RECOVERY TASK

Broad Effects Should Begin To Be Felt By Middle Of Spring

HEAVY INDUSTRY TO GET EMPHASIS IN NEW SCHEME

Railroads Will Be Brought To Point Of Military Efficiency

By Henry Paynter

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The same business leaders who accurately forecast President Roosevelt's billion dollar rearmament plan a week in advance estimated today the program would stimulate industrial spending of at least $5,000,000,000 additional during the next 15 months.

The broad plans now being worked out in conference between business executives and government officials, they said, were designed to become the dominating factor in the recovery picture.

The huge scope of the program, they added, was not yet fully realized by the country at large.

The executives spoke candidly—as they did eight days ago in predicting the president's program—under a pledge that they would not be identified.

The rearmament program viewed economically, they explained, marks a basic change in the government's recovery program, a switch of emphasis—which many business leaders have long sought—from consumer goods to heavy industry.

A fundamental goal will be the removal from WPA payrolls to gainful private employment of a major portion of the unemployed by the end of the period—in 1940.

The figure of $1,000,000,000 quoted in Washington dispatches relates only to the total contemplated addition to the budget, they said, whereas the program as a whole, including non-budgeted federal loans and private participation, involves "not less than $5,000,000,000" additional.

According to their calculations, the broad effects of the rearmament program should begin to be felt by mid-

HUNGARY SPEEDS DEFENSE STEPS

Orders Mobilization Of Agricultural Workers To Assure Food Supply

BUDAPEST, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Hungary speeded up defense measures today by ordering mobilization of agricultural workers to ensure an adequate food supply in any emergency arising from her dispute with Czechoslovakia on minority claims.

The official Gazette will publish tomorrow far-reaching decrees supplementing the calling to the colors of five army classes of about 200,000 men, which boosted the number of Hungarians under arms to an estimated half-million.

Authorities were directed to muster all unemployed farm workers for transfer from farm to farm to ensure continuity of agricultural output. Another decree will hold employers of agricultural workers responsible for payment of adequate sums to safeguard the interests of families of these men called to arms.

Former Premier Kolomon Daranyi, who presented Hungary's case against Czechoslovakia before Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler at Munich yesterday, returned today with Germany's views on settlement of the territorial dispute.

The newspapers Esti Ustig declared that Italy also had been consulted by

ADVERTISING SHOWS SHARP UPWARD TURN

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The Bureau of Advertising, American newspaper publishers association, today reported a "sharp turn upward" in newspaper advertising.

New figures from Media Records, Inc., released by the bureau, showed retail advertising had increased from 86.8 per cent in August to 92.2 in September, with general product advertising jumping from 73.6 to 80.1 and automotive from 48.8 to 58.4 over the same period. Only financial advertising remained about the same as August.

Media said total display linage, retail and national, had increased from 81.6 per cent in August to 88.2 in September; classified from 87.8 to 90.1. All the ratios are relative to the volume of the same month in 1937.

The candidates are Newt V. Mills, incumbent, of Monroe, and State Representative Will Harvey Todd of Bastrop.

The campaign has been carried into the remotest corners of the various parishes by supporters of both candidates and has proved one of the most bitterly fought of any waged here in recent years. Talks have been delivered in cities and towns of the district almost nightly, sound trucks, billboard advertising and circulars have been circulated widely by the two candidates in an effort to show particulars merits or qualifications of the competitors in the race.

Members of the state administration have been pronounced in support of Will Harvey Todd as best qualified to carry out the extensive, constructive program, pointing out that this is utterly impossible were a congressman out of accord with the state administration elected to office.

The three other former candidates for congressman from this district

WEATHER CONDITIONS REMAIN UNSETTLED

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Weather conditions remained unsettled over much of Florida today as moderate tropical disturbance virtually stood still out in the Gulf of Mexico.

The weather bureau, in a 3:30 p. m., central standard time, bulletin, said little change in intensity or direction had been noted since morning.

At 2 p. m., the bureau reported, the storm was centered about 175 miles southwest of Tampa, with "possibly a slow movement northeast or north."

An earlier advisory said winds of 40 miles an hour or more in squalls were reported near and north of the center.

The weather bureau ordered storm warnings down south of Fort Myers but the signals remained aloft north of Fort Myers to Cedar Keys. Small craft warnings were hoisted from Cedar Key to Carrabelle.

As a precautionary measure, the bureau advised small craft on the Atlantic coast from Jacksonville to Georgetown, S. C., to remain in port.

Ickes, Peeved, Will Not Speak At Boulder Dam

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes, reputedly offended at being advertised as the attraction at a scheduled Los Angeles meeting where admission was to be charged, passed up a speaking engagement at Boulder dam today and came to San Francisco five days ahead of time.

Amid a flurry of reports that the secretary was ill and had been taken to a hospital, Ickes said he had been indisposed because of the high altitude at Reno, Nev., where he had attended a reclamation meeting this week, but that he had not even consulted a physician.

Ickes explained that he did not go from Reno to Boulder dam, 400 miles south, because of the altitude there.

MONSKY ATTACKS NAZI OPPRESSION

Questions Whether Democracy Can Be Preserved By 'Silent Acquiescence'

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Henry Monsky of Omaha, Neb., international president of B'nai B'rith, Jewish fraternal organization, denounced German oppression of minority peoples tonight and questioned whether democracy could be preserved "if we stand by and give silent acquiescence."

The Jewish leader spoke with Dr. John W. Studebaker, United States commissioner of education, in a radio broadcast observing the hundredth anniversary of the birth of John Hay, secretary of state under Presidents McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt.

Monsky declared it would have been difficult for Hay to have reconciled Germany's interest in the Sudeten minorities "with Germany's brutality and long continued persecution and oppression of hundreds of thousands of minority peoples in Germany and Austria."

"To observe nuns and clerics of the Catholic church, and Jews by the thousands languishing in prisons and concentration camps; to observe the devastation of all things sacred to mankind, would have been to John Hay an inconceivable tragedy," he added. "Perhaps the spirit of John Hay will yet prevail."

Monsky spoke from Washington, introducing Studebaker.

In an address prepared for delivery from Des Moines, Ia., the commissioner of education said:

"The statesmen of the world should give heed to the teachings of John Hay, the great peace-maker, who worked and hoped for the time when all nations would settle their differences peacefully in conference, and not in blood on the battlefields of death."

Jewish leaders who have been active in Washington this week reported, meantime, that more than 64,000 telegrams had been sent to the White House and state department urging the government to use its influence toward keeping Palestine open to Jewish refugees.

The telegrams urged intercession against the British government's reported intention to halt Jewish immigration into Palestine because of troubles there between Arabs and Jews.

The state department issued a statement yesterday saying it would take "all necessary measures" to protect American rights and interests in the Holy Land.

GREENBELT FULL AFTER THIS FAMILY ARRIVES

The last shall be first has more than Biblical meaning for Thomas McNamara (left, center), whose family was the last to sign for a home at Greenbelt, Md., the government's model village. After Mr. McNamara signed, O. K. Fulmer (center, right), assistant manager, announced that Greenbelt was "full," and the McNamara family posed for this picture.

JAPS THINK WAR TO BE WON SOON

Assert Twilight Hour Of Chinese Resistance Has Arrived

SHANGHAI, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Spokesmen for Japan's forces of invasion in China expressed belief tonight that the twilight hour of Chinese resistance was at hand.

Spokesmen for the army and navy, summing up more than 15 months of warfare, said the Japanese were fastening a stranglehold on China in operations which, with the invasion of south China, now have reached the greatest dimensions since the undeclared war started July 7, 1937.

The south China drive, started Wednesday, appeared to be developing fast, promising a Japanese overlordship for 70,000,000 Chinese in southern provinces while armies, warships and planes hammered closer to Hankow, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's capital in central China.

Moreover, the Japanese army in north China, birthplace of the war, was reported prepared to enlarge operation westward into the untouched provinces of Shensi and Kansu or southward to the Yangtze valley to assist the Hankow campaign, if necessary.

The northern command reported that its anti-guerrilla campaign, now weeks old, had reduced communist hit-and-run fighters, organized around the famous eighth army, to impotence.

The Yangtze invaders were reported within 80 miles by river of Hankow. The Chinese said today that their shore batteries in that sector, southeast of Hankow, had sunk a Japanese munitions transport.

The Yangtze river fighting was in but one sector of a vast front arching from the Peiping-Hankow railway

2 KILLED, 9 HURT IN BUS ACCIDENT

FOREST, Miss., Oct. 15.—(AP)—A day's outing at the state fair in Jackson today turned to tragedy tonight as a school-bus load of Newton countians turned over near here, killing two and injuring nine persons.

The bus, only a few miles from home, turned unexplainably off an eight-foot embankment three miles south of here, and the top was crushed in upon the 23 occupants of the bus.

The dead:
D. B. Collum, 78, Little Rock, Miss.
Mrs. Ida Ishee, 66, Newton county.

The injured, taken to Newton by Forest ambulances, included the bus driver, Delmer Simmons, Sheriff Duff D. Austin reported.

Others hurt, all of the Little Rock community, included:
H. L. Collum, L. T. Ishee, Jim Rowzee, Mrs. Inez Ishee, Mrs. Laura Laird, Mary Lou Collum.

PALESTINE ENDS LONG ISOLATION

Communications With Outside World Restored After 19 Hours

JERUSALEM, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Palestine, at grips with an Arab rebellion, regained communication with the outside world today after 19 hours of isolation.

Telephone and telegraph facilities were broken between 7 p. m. (11 a. m. central standard time) last night and 2 p. m. (6 a. m. central standard time) today after bands rebelling against the authorities brought down virtually every wire in the country.

Repair squads worked throughout the day to replace poles, slashed wires and broken insulators.

ORLEANS NEWSPAPER OFFICIAL SUCCUMBS

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Paul Jones Thomson, 54, vice-president of the Item company, which publishes the New Orleans Item and the Morning Tribune, died suddenly today a few hours after he was stricken ill at work.

Born at Summit Point, W. Va., he came here in 1908 to join his brother, Colonel James M. Thomson, publisher of the Item. He became assistant circulation manager, circulation manager, and vice-president.

He was a graduate to Virginia Military institute at Lexington, Va., as was his father, a confederate veteran. Survivors are his widow, three sons, a daughter, his mother, two brothers and five sisters.

The funeral will be here tomorrow, with interment at Summit Point, W. Va.

Community Chest Prepared For Drive To Start Oct. 24

Mobilizing forces of the Twin Cities in the interest of supplying human needs as they are found by nine civic agencies, the Twin City Community Chest's initial campaign "to help those who cannot help themselves," will be initiated from October 24 to November 5, when a goal of $20,000 will be sought. While the campaign will not start for a week, every detail has been worked out with careful precision, stated W. R. Hatchell, president of the chest.

The entire personnel of the various leaders, committee members and all others who will cooperate to put over the biggest campaign ever waged to cope with civic needs here was announced Saturday. In another part of today's Sunday World, a page advertisement gives emphasis to the details of the project.

A. B. Clarkson has been named as colonel and general director; E. C. Gibson, lieutenant-colonel and assistant general director, and Bob Burns also lieutenant-colonel.

C. E. Woolman was named major in charge of special gifts and J. L. Ewing, major and director of publicity.

Under the special gifts there will be the following teams:

Captain, Company A, Ben Downing, assisted by W. D. H. Rodriguez, Louis Buckner and A. Blumenthal.

Captain Company B, Joe Durrett, assisted by G. B. Cooley, J. H. Trousdale, and J. T. Conger.

Captain Company C, Sid Moss, assisted by Wilson Ewing, C. E. Faulk and Harry Frazer.

Captain Company D, Clifford Strauss, assisted by Claude Harrison, R. Downes and A. O. Evans.

Captain Company E, Jack Seilg, assisted by Louis Langford, Joe Marx, Sr., and Elmer Slagle.

Captain Company F, M. C. McDonald, assisted by T. O. Bancroft, J. W. Warren and Leon Sugar.

In the publicity department, Mr. Ewing will be assisted by the speaker's bureau headed by Thomas Dav-

GERMANS ASSAIL BARUCH WARNING

Assert His Purpose To Arouse Suspicion In South America

MUNICH, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Germany looked forward tonight to quick adaptation of Czechoslovakia to her hegemony and to settlement of Hungary's claims for Czechoslovak territory on the same basis as Germany acquired the Sudetenland.

At the same time the German press suddenly ceased all attacks on Czechoslovakia and opened up instead with a flood of criticism of Bernard M. Baruch, former chairman of the United States war industries board.

Even the semi-official Diplomatisch Politische Korrespondenz joined the chorus against Baruch for his statements in the United States.

(Baruch declared in Washington Friday that Germany had not gained all the raw materials or markets she needed and said "the threat to the United States from Germany is in South America and is real and immediate.")

"Baruch's charges," this publication asserted, "are along the same lines as the efforts of the bellicose clique unfortunately existing in England.

"His charges further constitute a systematic campaign of casting suspicion on the German Reich with the South American states and to disturb the beginnings of exchange of goods profitable to both."

It said it took satisfaction, however, in the fact that President Roosevelt did not associate himself with Baruch's strictures.

With the departure from Munich of Czechoslovak Foreign Minister Frantisek Chvalkovsky and former Hun-

TOT'S SIGHT TAKEN TO SAVE HIS LIFE

BOSTON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Scientists tonight brought a dying 16-month-old baby boy back to the path of life—only to say he must travel it in total blindness.

Deep-searching high voltage X-rays apparently halted progress of glioma (a tumorous condition) in the left eye of little Jimmy Abraham, whose right eye was removed last night because of hopeless spread of the same malady.

"The chances of life are good, and while there is some sight remaining in the left eye, I think eventually that total blindness will result," declared Dr. Louis Schwartz of Boston City hospital, who said the lad's case was "identical to the point" to that of Baby Helaine Colan of Chicago who died earlier in the year.

X-ray treatment was used, Dr. Schwartz said, to "halt progress of the glioma" which had been "more progressive" in the removed eye than in the one now under treatment.

Doctors at first indicated retention of the remaining eye would mean death, but Dr. Schwartz said tonight the X-rays would "kill" the tumorous growth, leaving a sightless eye.

PLAN WILL FORM NEW FACTOR IN RECOVERY TASK

Broad Effects Should Begin To Be Felt By Middle Of Spring

HEAVY INDUSTRY TO GET EMPHASIS IN NEW SCHEME

Railroads Will Be Brought To Point Of Military Efficiency

By Henry Paynter

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The same business leaders who accurately forecast President Roosevelt's billion dollar rearmament plan a week in advance estimated today the program would stimulate industrial spending of at least $5,000,000,000 additional during the next 15 months.

The broad plans now being worked out in conference between business executives and government officials, they said, were designed to become the dominating factor in the recovery picture.

The huge scope of the program, they added, was not yet fully realized by the country at large.

The executives spoke candidly—as they did eight days ago in predicting the president's program—under a pledge that they would not be identified.

The rearmament program viewed economically, they explained, marks a basic change in the government's recovery program, a switch of emphasis—which many business leaders have long sought—from consumer goods to heavy industry.

A fundamental goal will be the removal from WPA payrolls to gainful private employment of a major portion of the unemployed by the end of the period—in 1940.

The figure of $1,000,000,000 quoted in Washington dispatches relates only to the total contemplated addition to the budget, they said, whereas the program as a whole, including non-budgeted federal loans and private participation, involves "not less than $5,000,000,000" additional.

According to their calculations, the broad effects of the rearmament program should begin to be felt by mid-

HUNGARY SPEEDS DEFENSE STEPS

Orders Mobilization Of Agricultural Workers To Assure Food Supply

BUDAPEST, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Hungary speeded up defense measures today by ordering mobilization of agricultural workers to ensure an adequate food supply in any emergency arising from her dispute with Czechoslovakia on minority claims.

The official Gazette will publish tomorrow far-reaching decrees supplementing the calling to the colors of five army classes of about 200,000 men, which boosted the number of Hungarians under arms to an estimated half-million.

Authorities were directed to muster all unemployed farm workers for transfer from farm to farm to ensure continuity of agricultural output. Another decree will hold employers of agricultural workers responsible for payment of adequate sums to safeguard the interests of families of those men called to arms.

Former Premier Kolomon Daranyi, who presented Hungary's case against Czechoslovakia before Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler at Munich yesterday, returned today with Germany's views on settlement of the territorial dispute.

The newspapers Esti Ustig declared that Italy also had been consulted by

ADVERTISING SHOWS SHARP UPWARD TURN

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The Bureau of Advertising, American newspaper publishers association, today reported a "sharp turn upward" in newspaper advertising.

New figures from Media Records, Inc., released by the bureau, showed retail advertising had increased from 86.8 per cent in August to 92.2 in September, with general product advertising jumping from 73.6 to 80.1 and automotive from 48.8 to 58.4 over the same period. Only financial advertising remained about the same as August.

Media said total display linage, retail and national, had increased from 81.6 per cent in August to 88.2 in September; classified from 87.8 to 90.1. All the ratios are relative to the volume of the same month in 1937.

URGE COTTON IN WRAPPING BALES

Louisiana Cooperative Association Shows Practical Use For 300,000 Bales

The Louisiana Cotton Cooperative association of New Or ns is cooperating with farmers and the federal government this year in an effort to use cotton for the wrapping of cotton bales.

The AAA has provided cotton for the production of a million patterns of cotton bagging. This is being manufactured by cotton mills under government contract and furnished to gins and bagging firms at a rate competitive with other forms of bagging. The idea is to demonstrate the practicability of wrapping American cotton bales in cotton.

"If this could be adopted generally, it is estimated that more than 300,000 bales of American cotton would be used for this purpose," stated Mark W. Stroud who is the local representative of the Louisiana Cotton Cooperative association.

One reason that farmers have been reluctant to utilize cotton for wrapping of bales comes from the fact that cotton bagging is lighter and with American cotton on gross weight basis this meant the lighter bagging caused a loss to farmers. However, the Louisiana Cotton Cooperative association has announced that they will pay the under-tare allowance amounting to 7 1-2 pounds of cotton on each bale, thus paying the farmers full value for the cotton in the lighter wrapped bale.

Sam Bass, general manager of the Louisiana Cotton Cooperative association states that while this special consideration on bales wrapped in cotton will cost the association considerable in the form of extra bookkeeping and special handling of cotton wrapped bales, it is the opinion of the oficers of the association that this movement to use cotton wrapping, in view of our present large surplus, is so important that it behooves farmers and their marketing organization to give it every support. "We want to assure our members everywhere," says Mr. Bass, "that they will receive full allowance for the extra cotton in a cotton wrapped bale."

It is estimated that between 50,000 and 100,000 bales of Louisiana cotton will be packaged in cotton during the season.

DECREE NEW RULE FOR FROSH

Freshman boys of Louisiana Tech, who fail scholastically or are placed on absence probation this semester, will be required to continue to wear their red "Pup" caps and keep their hair cropped short, under a new decree of the freshman rules committee. The group setting that regulation is pictured above, as Freshman Travis D. Hammons of Choudrant stands by to learn the law. The committee, seated at the table, from left to right, is as follows: Clem Byrd, Bastrop; Alton Westbrook, Waco, Tex.; Clyde Stinnett, Gibsland; Dean W. L. Mitchell, adviser; Billy Thurmon, Ruston, chairman; Jack Wimberly, Ringgold; Raymond Carnahan, Dubberly; Forrest White, Lake Charles, and Owen Johnson, New Orleans.

Hit-Run Love

CHAPTER X

Pat was frightened, yet caught again in her old feeling of love when Larry unexpectedly arrived at the McGraw home late in the evening.

She tried to hide her emotions. Such a short time ago his coming would have been only joyful, filled with the thrill of their planning, the hundred small things that bound them together. Now she fought to make the situation easy.

Alone in the living room with the shaded lamps throwing the couch in shadows, Larry took her in his arms, buried his face in her hair. A wave of happiness flooded her. Poor Larry, so bemuddled, so confused, coming to her for comfort. She alone could help him, and now this must mean the moment had arrived that she had prayed for these last few days. He had seen his mistake, was engulfed in the net he had foolishly thrown around himself. He would admit it all, would, as she had begged, wipe the slate clean.

"I love you so," he said in a low voice. "I missed you so in all this mess. I can't seem to think straight."

"I know, dearest. I do know. But now it will all be smoothed out. You can have your lawyer change your plea. You can tell the judge the whole story: the true one, and he'll help you, Larry. You can probably get off with probation and restitution. What if we do have to postpone the wedding? I'll wait, I'll help. It won't take long to pay all those hospital bills. And then it will be behind you, and you'll know you did the right thing."

"It won't be that easy, though," he said. "You know it won't. I'd lose my job. I couldn't drive again. I'm not going to back down. But you can help."

She sat frozen within the circle of his arms. "What do you mean, Larry?"

"You can help. Church is a good lawyer. People with pull get a break in any court. You can work on Sweeney, tell him about us. Get him to go easy. He could even change the charge from involuntary manslaughter to negligent homicide. That's a lesser charge. I saw how he looked at you in court today. He'd do it for you."

Slowly she drew away, pushing his arms from about her, staring into his blue eyes, now cold and calculating.

"You say you love me in one breath, and then ask me to do this in the next. I can't understand you, Larry. I don't think I even know you."

"Don't dramatize the situation, Pat. You say you love me, too. Well, here's a chance to prove it. I'm not asking much. Church and I can prove alibis. You can tell about the drive to the dance. The fender was loose after we came out. Not before. We can break down those witnesses. All you have to do is get Sweeney to cooperate a little."

She moved away, walking up and down, up and down the room. At last she turned, her face white and drawn. "There's such a thing as honor, too, Larry. I won't lie for you. I won't go to Tom Sweeney and beg him to throw a case, because that's what it amounts to after all. You committed a crime. An entire family is suffering as a result. You didn't mean to, I know. But you can help them now, and you have to be square. You can't go on lying, you can't perjure yourself on the stand."

Larry got up, put on his coat and hat and went to the door. "All right then. We understand each other. You won't help. It isn't love. The first time I ask you to really go to bat for me you talk some senseless drivel. Well, I'll get help some other way."

Things went on as before. The boys were engrossed with preparations for final exams, with the novelty of the new car over which they worked in the back yard. Yet there was a new tenderness in their attitude toward Pat. The next night Joe bolted his final mouthful of pie and turned to her.

"How about a movie? I'll stand the treat, and there's a swell new show at the Capital."

She agreed, not because she wanted to go, but because she didn't want to refuse his invitation. The boys didn't want her to feel too badly about the recent events. While she hadn't explained the break between herself and Larry, she couldn't hide her utter hopelessness from the family who knew her so well. And then, too, any diversion was welcome if it meant less time to think about herself and Larry.

Yet it was always there. Even in the darkened movie with the make-believe story unrolling before her, with the music and fun around. There had been too many movies in the near past which she had seen with Larry.

Joe sensed her feelings. He tried with youthful roughness to make it easier. Out on the street in the soft darkness he swung along beside her with the gangling awkwardness of would-be authority.

"Let's finish up with something to eat. Gosh, I'm hungry. Let's get something at Tony's."

Smilingly she agreed. Tony's was popular with the young crowd and going there made Joe feel sophisticated. They were in and seated before she saw Joe's face settle in a stubborn frown. He sank deep in a concentrated study of the menu, then grew garrulous, demanding her full attention while he rambled on with some meaningless story of events at school.

His face was flushed; twice she saw his glance dart across the room until finally she herself settled back in the booth and looked around. Her breath caught and she fought to keep her own features from showing expression. Larry and Dottie Barnes!

Larry leaned across the table, smiling his old endearing smile, putting all his charm into his voice while he talked to the girl. Pat took a sip of water and said to Joe, "Larry and Dottie Barnes." It was pointless to ignore them.

Joe grunted. "How come she's bothering with Larry? He hasn't got what it takes to play around with in that set."

"I don't know. I'm not being catty, but I suppose it's something different for her. Maybe she likes to see how the other half lives. Maybe his recent publicity makes him a character in her eyes. He's probably sold himself as the persecuted victim of a half-cracked witness. Oh, I don't know what it's all about, but I'm tired and I want to go home."

Tears were near, and Joe, in sudden fright, drained his chocolate soda and got up to follow.

The whole thing was obvious, Pat thought back home in the privacy of her own room. Larry was stupid enough to think Dottie Barnes could help him. Just because her father was one of the town's important men he hoped he could swing power in court. "I'll get help some other way," he had threatened when they parted. Now he was trying to pull strings with the aid of an 18-year-old girl. She couldn't let him make such a complete fool of himself. Too soon he would realize the uselessness of the effort, would see what a ridiculous position he had placed himself in. If only memories of the love between them didn't keep coming back again to torture her. It wasn't easy to tear such things from one's heart.

Tom's presence beside her gave her a dull comfort during the day. Little things he would say, little things he would do to remind her that he was conscious of her.

"I passed these in a florist's window on the way down this morning," he said when she came in and hung up her hat and coat, "I couldn't resist buying them. They're the first proof of summer and I wanted you to have them."

She breathed in the fragrance of the big feathery red peonies and arranged them in a vase in her little office.

"They're grand, Tom I'm ever so grateful."

It was late that afternoon when she was finishing up her work that he came into her office.

"You're here late," she said, looking up from behind the spicy scented blossoms. "I thought you'd gone ages ago."

"I had, but I came back," he told her. "I thought you'd still be here. I wondered if you wouldn't like to stay down town for dinner. I have to work tonight and I'd be glad if you would be a Girl Scout and have dinner with me."

The expression in his eyes made her heart flutter. "I saw how he looked at you in court," Larry had said to her. Now Tom's eyes told her more of his feelings toward her than all the little gestures of the past weeks. She bent forward, hiding her face in the cool crimson of the flowers, trying to think.

"You can help—you can help. Sweeney would do it for you—give me a break. Get him to cooperate—" Larry's words came back with an incessant repetition.

And Tom was here now waiting for her to answer. Caring for her, wanting her company at dinner. Honest, sincere, striving to make his record before the election.

And some place else in the city was Larry, stumbling blindly in the morass of his own lies, trying like a frightened child to fight his way clear, not realizing the seriousness of his position.

"We can have a real meal for a change," Tom was saying. "No sandwiches and milk like lunch time. I'll have to work later, but if you feel you can give me a few hours—"

She looked up into his kind brown eyes, at the unruly lock of brown hair falling over his forehead.

HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING PROGRAM STARTS SOON

RUSTON, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—With the contract let for the construction of a domestic science building at Ruston, work is expected to start soon on the first of the local high school's building program, which will total nearly a half million dollars.

The M. T. Reed Construction company of Belzoni, Miss., received the contract for the first structure, at a bid of $26,933, the school board reported. The bid was low by $977.

The domestic science building will be a two-story brick structure, to be located just north of where the new main high school building will be built.

Money for the new school projects has been provided through bond issues and supplemented by PWA grants.

TECH STUDENTS FROM 13 STATES

55 Enrollees Out Of Total Of 1,784 Come From Distant Places

RUSTON, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—Out of the 1,784 students enrolled at Louisiana Tech this semester, 55 are from out-of-state, representing 13 states, according to Mrs. Ruby B. Pearce, registrar.

Arkansas claims the largest percentage with 21 enrollees, while Indiana ranks second with eight, and Alabama and Texas vie for third place with seven and six students, respectively.

Other states and the number of students from each are Mississippi, three; Pennsylvania, two; Tennessee, two, and Delaware, Florida, Illinois, Massachusetts, New York and Ohio, one each.

Lincoln parish sends 26 per cent of the Louisiana students, having 453 students enrolled. Union has 183 representatives and Caddo, 142.

Other parishes and the number of enrollees from each are: Allen, five; Ascension, one; Avoyelles, eight; Bienville, 86; Bossier, 28; Calcasieu, eight; Caldwell, 17; Cameron, two; Catahoula, 16; Claiborne, 98; Concordia, five; DeSoto, 28; East Baton Rouge, one; East Carroll, seven; Franklin, 54.

Grant, five; Iberia, one; Jackson, 126; Jefferson Davis, seven; LaSalle, 21; Livingston, two; Madison, 20; Morehouse, 41; Orleans, six; Ouachita, 116; Point Coupee, one; Rapides, 29; Red River, seven; Richland, 36; Sabine, four; St. John, one; St. Landry, two; St. Mary, one; Tangipahoa, two; Tensas, eight.

Vernon, two; Washington, one; Webster, 88; West Carroll, 27; and Winn, 37.

509 STUDENTS COMMUTE DAILY

RUSTON, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech's record enrollment of 1,784 students includes 509 who daily are transported by bus to and from college, it is announced. These students represent eight parishes. The number is an increase of 113 students over the drive-in enrollment of 1937 fall semester.

Last year's fall drive-in enrollment comprised 26 per cent of the entire registration figure of 1,515 students. This fall the drive-in element contributes 28.5 per cent of the students.

Of the 509 students who drive in on buses to Tech each day, 35 are from Ouachita parish, according to the records in the extension department office at Tech.

Lincoln parish contributes 156; Union, 126; Jackson, 91; Bienville, 42; Webster and Winn, 21, and Claiborne, 17 drive-in students.

MINDEN GIRL ELECTED MISS 'LOUISIANA TECH'

RUSTON, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—Miss Virginia Frazier of Minden has been elected "Miss Louisiana Tech," and will represent the college at the Tech-Normal game which will be played at the state fair in Shreveport on October 22.

The maids who will accompany Miss Frazier to Shreveport are Dona Gene Green, Lisbon; Grace Richardson, Minden; Evelyn Benge, Sicily Island; Louise Allen, Shreveport; Lois Sumner, Minden; Ruby Robison, Monroe; Amy Sue Furlow, Elizabeth; Helen Alford, Arcadia, and Rosemary Breed, Ruston.

Real Estate Transfers

Real estate transfers on record yesterday at the office of the clerk of court of Ouachita parish were:

The Monroe Building and Loan association sold to Mrs. Pauline G. Johnston lot 5 of block "V" of Austin and Eby's new western addition to West Monroe, and lot 6 of block 1 of Tippit and Cobb's second addition to Monroe for $3,950.

BIDS OPENED ON TWO STRUCTURES

Frank Masling, Inc., And Salley And Ellis Are Low Bidders

The Ouachita parish school board at a special meeting held Friday opened bids for construction work comprising auditorium - gymnasiums for schools at Fondale and Sterlington. Low bidder on the Fondale job was Frank Masling, Inc., whose figures were $21,000. Salley and Ellis, with figures of $34,055, submitted the low bid on the Sterlington construction.

The school board voted to accept the bids submitted subject to approval by governmental authority, which is furnishing 45 per cent of the construction cost.

The buildings will be of brick and of most modern construction. Plans for the structures at Fondale and Sterlington were prepared by the local architectural firm of J. W. Smith and Associates.

Bids will be opened on November 9 for the construction of a frame gymnasium and auditorium at the high school at Okaloosa, plans for which were drawn by L. Milton King of Monroe. The estimated cost of this structure will be about $20,000.

URGE COTTON IN WRAPPING BALES

Louisiana Cooperative Association Shows Practical Use For 300,000 Bales

The Louisiana Cotton Cooperative association of New Or ns is cooperating with farmers and the federal government this year in an effort to use cotton for the wrapping of cotton bales.

The AAA has provided cotton for the production of a million patterns of cotton bagging. This is being manufactured by cotton mills under government contract and furnished to gins and bagging firms at a rate competitive with other forms of bagging. The idea is to demonstrate the practicability of wrapping American cotton bales in cotton.

"If this could be adopted generally, it is estimated that more than 300,000 bales of American cotton would be used for this purpose," stated Mark W. Stroud who is the local representative of the Louisiana Cotton Cooperative association.

One reason that farmers have been reluctant to utilize cotton for wrapping of bales comes from the fact that cotton bagging is lighter and with American cotton on gross weight basis this meant the lighter bagging caused a loss to farmers. However, the Louisiana Cotton Cooperative association has announced that they will pay the under-tare allowance amounting to 7 1-2 pounds of cotton on each bale, thus paying the farmers full value for the cotton in the lighter wrapped bale.

Sam Bass, general manager of the Louisiana Cotton Cooperative association states that while this special consideration on bales wrapped in cotton will cost the association considerable in the form of extra bookkeeping and special handling of cotton wrapped bales, it is the opinion of the oficers of the association that this movement to use cotton wrapping, in view of our present large surplus, is so important that it behooves farmers and their marketing organization to give it every support. "We want to assure our members everywhere," says Mr. Bass, "that they will receive full allowance for the extra cotton in a cotton wrapped bale."

It is estimated that between 50,000 and 100,000 bales of Louisiana cotton will be packaged in cotton during the season.

DECREE NEW RULE FOR FROSH

Freshman boys of Louisiana Tech, who fail scholastically or are placed on absence probation this semester, will be required to continue to wear their red "Pup" caps and keep their hair cropped short, under a new decree of the freshman rules committee. The group setting that regulation is pictured above, as Freshman Travis D. Hammons of Choudrant stands by to learn the law. The committee, seated at the table, from left to right, is as follows: Clem Byrd, Bastrop; Alton Westbrook, Waco, Tex.; Clyde Stinnett, Gibsland; Dean W. L. Mitchell, adviser; Billy Thurmon, Ruston, chairman; Jack Wimberly, Ringgold; Raymond Carnahan, Dubberly; Forrest White, Lake Charles, and Owen Johnson, New Orleans.

Hit-Run Love

CHAPTER X

Pat was frightened, yet caught again in her old feeling of love when Larry unexpectedly arrived at the McGraw home late in the evening.

She tried to hide her emotions. Such a short time ago his coming would have been only joyful, filled with the thrill of their planning, the hundred small things that bound them together. Now she fought to make the situation easy.

Alone in the living room with the shaded lamps throwing the couch in shadows, Larry took her in his arms, buried his face in her hair. A wave of happiness flooded her. Poor Larry, so bemuddled, so confused, coming to her for comfort. She alone could help him, and now this must mean the moment had arrived that she had prayed for these last few days. He had seen his mistake, was engulfed in the net he had foolishly thrown around himself. He would admit it all, would, as she had begged, wipe the slate clean.

"I love you so," he said in a low voice. "I missed you so in all this mess. I can't seem to think straight."

"I know, dearest. I do know. But now it will all be smoothed out. You can have your lawyer change your plea. You can tell the judge the whole story; the true one, and he'll help you, Larry. You can probably get off with probation and restitution. What if we do have to postpone the wedding? I'll wait, I'll help. It won't take long to pay all those hospital bills. And then it will be behind you, and you'll know you did the right thing."

"It won't be that easy, though," he said. "You know it won't. I'd lose my job. I couldn't drive again. I'm not going to back down. But you can help."

She sat frozen within the circle of his arms. "What do you mean, Larry?"

"You can help. Church is a good lawyer. People with pull get a break in any court. You can work on Sweeney, tell him about us. Get him to go easy. He could even change the charge from involuntary manslaughter to negligent homicide. That's a lesser charge. I saw how he looked at you in court today. He'd do it for you."

Slowly she drew away, pushing his arms from about her, staring into his blue eyes, now cold and calculating.

"You say you love me in one breath, and then ask me to do this in the next. I can't understand you, Larry. I don't think I even know you."

"Don't dramatize the situation, Pat. You say you love me, too. Well, here's a chance to prove it. I'm not asking much. Church and I can prove alibis. You can tell about the drive to the dance. The fender was loose after we came out. Not before. We can break down those witnesses. All you have to do is get Sweeney to cooperate a little."

She moved away, walking up and down, up and down the room. At last she turned, her face white and drawn. "There's such a thing as honor, too, Larry. I won't lie for you. I won't go to Tom Sweeney and beg him to throw a case, because that's what it amounts to after all. You committed a crime. An entire family is suffering as a result. You didn't mean to, I know. But you can help them now, and you have to be square. You can't go on lying, you can't perjure yourself on the stand."

Larry got up, put on his coat and hat and went to the door. "All right then. We understand each other. You won't help. It isn't love. The first time I ask you to really go to bat for me you talk some senseless drivel. Well, I'll get help some other way."

Things went on as before. The boys were engrossed with preparations for final exams, with the novelty of the new car over which they worked in the back yard. Yet there was a new tenderness in their attitude toward Pat. The next night Joe bolted his final mouthful of pie and turned to her.

"How about a movie? I'll stand the treat, and there's a swell new show at the Capital."

She agreed, not because she wanted to go, but because she didn't want to refuse his invitation. The boys didn't want her to feel too badly about the recent events. While she hadn't explained the break between herself and Larry, she couldn't hide her utter hopelessness from the family who knew her so well. And then, too, any diversion was welcome if it meant less time to think about herself and Larry.

Yet it was always there. Even in the darkened movie with the make-believe story unrolling before her, with the music and fun around. There had been too many movies in the near past which she had seen with Larry.

Joe sensed her feelings. He tried with youthful roughness to make it easier. Out on the street in the soft darkness he swung along beside her with the gangling awkwardness of would-be authority.

"Let's finish up with something to eat. Gosh, I'm hungry. Let's get something at Tony's."

Smilingly she agreed. Tony's was popular with the young crowd and going there made Joe feel sophisticated. They were in and seated before she saw Joe's face settle in a stubborn frown. He sank deep in a concentrated study of the menu, then grew garrulous, demanding her full attention while he rambled on with some meaningless story of events at school.

His face was flushed; twice she saw his glance dart across the room until finally she herself settled back in the booth and looked around. Her breath caught and she fought to keep her own features from showing expression. Larry and Dottie Barnes!

Larry leaned across the table, smiling his old endearing smile, putting all his charm into his voice while he talked to the girl. Pat took a sip of water and said to Joe, "Larry and Dottie Barnes." It was pointless to ignore them.

Joe grunted. "How come she's bothering with Larry? He hasn't got what it takes to play around with in that set."

"I don't know. I'm not being catty, but I suppose it's something different for her. Maybe she likes to see how the other half lives. Maybe his recent publicity makes him a character in her eyes. He's probably sold himself as the persecuted victim of a half-cracked witness. Oh, I don't know what it's all about, but I'm tired and I want to go home."

Tears were near, and Joe, in sudden fright, drained his chocolate soda and got up to follow.

The whole thing was obvious, Pat thought back home in the privacy of her own room. Larry was stupid enough to think Dottie Barnes could help him. Just because her father was one of the town's important men he hoped he could swing power in court. "I'll get help some other way," he had threatened when they parted. Now he was trying to pull strings with the aid of an 18-year-old girl. She couldn't let him make such a complete fool of himself. Too soon he would realize the uselessness of the effort, would see what a ridiculous position he had placed himself in. If only memories of the love between them didn't keep coming back again to torture her. It wasn't easy to tear such things from one's heart.

Tom's presence beside her gave her a dull comfort during the day. Little things he would say, little things he would do to remind her that he was conscious of her.

"I passed these in a florist's window on the way down this morning," he said when she came in and hung up her hat and coat. "I couldn't resist buying them. They're the first proof of summer and I wanted you to have them."

She breathed in the fragrance of the big feathery red peonies and arranged them in a vase in her little office.

"They're grand, Tom I'm ever so grateful."

It was late that afternoon when she was finishing up her work that he came into her office.

"You're here late," she said, looking up from behind the spicy scented blossoms. "I thought you'd gone ages ago."

"I had, but I came back," he told her. "I thought you'd still be here. I wondered if you wouldn't like to stay down town for dinner. I have to work tonight and I'd be glad if you would be a Girl Scout and have dinner with me."

The expression in his eyes made her heart flutter. "I saw how he looked at you in court," Larry had said to her. Now Tom's eyes told her more of his feelings toward her than all the little gestures of the past weeks. She bent forward, hiding her face in the cool crimson of the flowers, trying to think.

"You can help—you can help. Sweeney would do it for you—give me a break. Get him to cooperate—" Larry's words came back with an incessant repetition.

And Tom was here now waiting for her to answer. Caring for her, wanting her company at dinner. Honest, sincere, striving to make his record before the election.

And some place else in the city was Larry, stumbling blindly in the morass of his own lies, trying like a frightened child to fight his way clear, not realizing the seriousness of his position.

"We can have a real meal for a change," Tom was saying. "No sandwiches and milk like lunch time. I'll have to work later, but if you feel you can give me a few hours—"

She looked up into his kind brown eyes, at the unruly lock of brown hair falling over his forehead.

HIGH SCHOOL BUILDING PROGRAM STARTS SOON

RUSTON, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—With the contract let for the construction of a domestic science building at Ruston, work is expected to start soon on the first of the local high school's building program, which will total nearly a half million dollars.

The M. T. Reed Construction company of Belzoni, Miss., received the contract for the first structure, at a bid of $26,933, the school board reported. The bid was low by $977.

The domestic science building will be a two-story brick structure, to be located just north of where the new main high school building will be built.

Money for the new school projects has been provided through bond issues and supplemented by PWA grants.

TECH STUDENTS FROM 13 STATES

55 Enrollees Out Of Total Of 1,784 Come From Distant Places

RUSTON, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—Out of the 1,784 students enrolled at Louisiana Tech this semester, 55 are from out-of-state, representing 13 states, according to Mrs. Ruby B. Pearce, registrar.

Arkansas claims the largest percentage with 21 enrollees, while Indiana ranks second with eight, and Alabama and Texas vie for third place with seven and six students, respectively.

Other states and the number of students from each are Mississippi, three; Pennsylvania, two; Tennessee, two, and Delaware, Florida, Illinois, Massachusetts, New York and Ohio, one each.

Lincoln parish sends 26 per cent of the Louisiana students, having 453 students enrolled. Union has 183 representatives and Caddo, 142.

Other parishes and the number of enrollees from each are: Allen, five; Ascension, one; Avoyelles, eight; Bienville, 86; Bossier, 28; Calcasieu, eight; Caldwell, 17; Cameron, two; Catahoula, 16; Claiborne, 98; Concordia, five; DeSoto, 28; East Baton Rouge, one; East Carroll, seven; Franklin, 54.

Grant, five; Iberia, one; Jackson, 126; Jefferson Davis, seven; LaSalle, 21; Livingston, two; Madison, 20; Morehouse, 41; Orleans, six; Ouachita, 116; Point Coupee, one; Rapides, 29; Red River, seven; Richland, 36; Sabine, four; St. John, one; St. Landry, two; St. Mary, one; Tangipahoa, two; Tensas, eight.

Vernon, two; Washington, one; Webster, 88; West Carroll, 27; and Winn, 37.

509 STUDENTS COMMUTE DAILY

RUSTON, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—Louisiana Tech's record enrollment of 1,784 students includes 509 who daily are transported by bus to and from college, it is announced. These students represent eight parishes. The number is an increase of 113 students over the drive-in enrollment of 1937 fall semester.

Last year's fall drive-in enrollment comprised 26 per cent of the entire registration figure of 1,515 students. This fall the drive-in element contributes 28.5 per cent of the students.

Of the 509 students who drive in on buses to Tech each day, 35 are from Ouachita parish, according to the records in the extension department office at Tech.

Lincoln parish contributes 156; Union, 126; Jackson, 91; Bienville, 42; Webster and Winn, 21, and Claiborne, 17 drive-in students.

MINDEN GIRL ELECTED MISS 'LOUISIANA TECH'

RUSTON, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—Miss Virginia Frazier of Minden has been elected "Miss Louisiana Tech," and will represent the college at the Tech-Normal game which will be played at the state fair in Shreveport on October 22.

The maids who will accompany Miss Frazier to Shreveport are Dona Gene Green, Lisbon; Grace Richardson, Minden; Evelyn Benge, Sicily Island; Louise Allen, Shreveport; Lois Sumner, Minden; Ruby Robison, Monroe; Amy Sue Furlow, Elizabeth; Helen Alford, Arcadia, and Rosemary Breed, Ruston.

The Monroe Building and Loan association sold to Mrs. Pauline G. Johnston lot 5 of block "V" of Austin and Eby's new western addition to West Monroe, and lot 6 of block 1 of Tippit and Cobb's second addition to Monroe for $3,950.

James Jackson Martin sold to William F. Grafton lots 12 and 13 of square 5 of Fairview subdivision of Pargoud plantation for $400 cash.

H. M. McGuire sold to William Clyde Ward lots 15 and 16 of block 7 of McGuire's Highland Park addition, Unit No. 2, for $400 cash.

H. M. McGuire sold to Haskel L. Pankey lot 24 of block 2 of McGuire's Highland Park addition, Unit No. 1, for $285 cash.

J. Arthur Smith, Jr., sold to Mrs. Masena Perkins a half acre of land in the northwest quarter of the southwest quarter of section 3, township 17 north, range 3 east for $110 cash.

Pains In Back, Nervous, Rheumatic!

Wrong foods and drinks, worry, overwork and frequent colds often put a strain on the Kidneys and functional kidney disorders may be the true cause of Excess Acidity, Getting Up Nights, Burning Passages, Leg Pains, Nervousness, Dizziness, Swollen Ankles, Rheumatic Pains, Puffy Eyelids, and feeling old before your time. Help your kidneys purify your blood with Cystex. Usually the very first dose starts helping your kidneys clean out excess acids and this may quickly make you feel like new. Under the money-back guarantee Cystex must satisfy completely or cost nothing. Get Cystex (Siss-tex) today. It costs only 3c a dose at druggists and the guarantee protects you. (Adv.)

FAIR OFFICERS ARE READY TO PAY OFF

Premium winners at the Ouachita Valley fair which ended last Sunday, and who were awarded checks, can obtain them by applying to Manager John Birdsong or Treasurer A. Petrus. It is desired to have all who are entitled to receive premiums make immediate application so that books for the year can be closed.

The total attendance at the fair was more than 30,000, of which 24,000 were paid admissions.

The public was admitted free Monday night and children were similarly admitted on Saturday.

ODD FELLOWS WILL GO TO MEETING AT HOMER

Many members of the local Odd Fellows lodge are planning to attend a meeting of Homer lodge No. 48 in that city on Wednesday night.

Lodges from all over north Louisiana have been invited to attend this lodge meeting which will be one of the most important held in some time with some of the most prominent men and Odd Fellows officials in this part of the state attending.

BIDS OPENED ON TWO STRUCTURES

Frank Masling, Inc., And Salley And Ellis Are Low Bidders

The Ouachita parish school board at a special meeting held Friday opened bids for construction work comprising auditorium - gymnasiums for schools at Fondale and Sterlington. Low bidder on the Fondale job was Frank Masling, Inc., whose figures were $21,000. Salley and Ellis, with figures of $34,055, submitted the low bid on the Sterlington construction.

The school board voted to accept the bids submitted subject to approval by governmental authority, which is furnishing 45 per cent of the construction cost.

The buildings will be of brick and of most modern construction. Plans for the structures at Fondale and Sterlington were prepared by the local architectural firm of J. W. Smith and Associates.

Bids will be opened on November 9 for the construction of a frame gymnasium and auditorium at the high school at Okaloosa, plans for which were drawn by L. Milton King of Monroe. The estimated cost of this structure will be about $20,000.

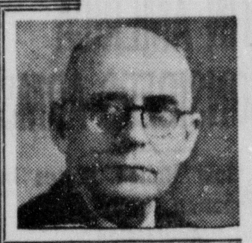

TO ATTEND F. F. A. MEET

JONESBORO, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—Selected by the local chapter of Future Farmers of America as being its most outstanding member, Junior Rhymes, president of the chapter, has been awarded a trip to the national convention of the F. F. A., to be held at Kansas City, Mo., October 17-21.

Visiting Royalty

If the king and queen of England are persuaded to visit the United States on the occasion of their trip to Canada next summer, the nation will put its best foot forward in glad desire to entertain them. Such a visit, though, would be so socially circumscribed as to be almost wholly official.

There will be no room for such social heart-burnings as when Edward VIII, as Prince of Wales, was said by the disgruntled to have gotten in with the "wrong" Long Island set. In the nature of the case, the president and Mrs. Roosevelt would be the principal hosts.

In international affairs much may happen between now and next summer, but a visit to the United States, in the light of the present situation, would be largely incidental to the Canadian trip, and there is danger of imbuing it in advance with altogether too much political implication.

This will be the first time that reigning British monarchs will have crossed the Atlantic and therefore will make history for the now loosely knit empire. Of Canadian loyalty there is no doubt. The welcome to Their Majesties will be all the warmer from the fact that Canada, like Australia, viewed with favor, amid circumstances it found distressing, the abdication of the then king and the accession of his eldest brother as George VI.

Royalty is the symbol, and a potent symbol, that holds the empire together, effective in Socialist New Zealand as well as in the democratic dominions and the crown colonies. With seething India the case stands somewhat differently, which accounts for the failure even to inaugurate plans for a Durbar at which the rulers would be crowned Emperor and Empress of India. But at the moment parts of the empire are dazed, no less, by the Munich agreement and the at least temporary trend toward the right of the two great European democracies.

Inasmuch as the dominions now are bound to Britain only by allegiance to the crown and the ties of intelligent self-interest, it is presumptive that the visit of the king and queen to Canada may afford a measure of assurance.

EXPERIMENT SUCCEEDS

There is cause for rejoicing along the Columbia river, where the salmon industry is important, and also among the engineers who conceived the fantastic scheme to construct ladders through which the fish might be enabled to reach the headwaters where they breed and die.

Fishermen who are learned in the ways of salmon insisted that the whole idea was ludicrous. Critics laughed scornfully and the whole proposal was viewed with ironic amusement. Nevertheless, the engineers considered the theory sound and proceeded with the construction of the fishways so that the salmon could get around the obstacle of the great Bonneville dam.

And the fish, not so dumb, realized immediately that the stairs were there for them to climb. During the last month they have ascended in swarms, providing a thrilling spectacle for sightseers and also disarming the critics and the scoffers.

This is at least one experiment, noble in purpose, that has succeeded and the country is pleased, for the sake of the engineers who conceived the idea of ladders, the salmon industrialists and the fish themselves.

STUDY IN CONTRAST

If anyone has been losing faith in democracy, he may well consider what it means to live under a totalitarian regime.

In the dictatorships of Europe, everything is regimented. Labor does what it is told. People are conscripted for military and economic objectives. Strutting bureaucrats are present in every city and town. Property rights are protected only so long as the owners play ball with the dominant authority. News reports are nothing but canned propaganda, and a person dare not express himself on political issues for fear of being sent to a concentration camp.

The freedom of a democratic set-up stands in marked contrast. It allows for individuality, uncontrolled choice and genuine self-expression.

Popular government, even with all its admitted defects, remains the one avenue to creative opportunity and contented living free from the mass controls of predatory autocracy.

DULL SKIES

The human mind is subtly affected by cloudy skies. When the storms of winter come, people are apt to feel less hopeful. Some traveling salesmen remark that they can never sell much goods on a cloudy or stormy day. People seem to lack confidence.

The storms of winter may not seem necessary for our refreshment, but if it were not for them, our water supplies would run dry, and our rivers would not turn their power wheels.

The wise philosopher is not much affected by weather. All kinds of skies look good to him. The artist sees beauty even when the sky is obscured by clouds. Sunshine is a wonderful thing, but if we had it every day, we should lose all sense of its beauty.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Native Washingtonians, returning after a month's absence, will not recognize the old city. For several days now, it has been without a crisis.

That is one of the exciting things about living in Washington. There nearly always is a crisis.

The crises this city has are not the penny-ante variety. They are whoppers. Hollywood can have its crisis about whether Bette Davis or Fanny Brice will play Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone with the Wind." Columns will be written about it.

But it is peanut stuff. It ranks along with the current crisis over whether women shall curl their hair low or curl it high.

It's Gotta Be Good

It is hard to draw the line between a Washington crisis and the common up-country variety. A Washington crisis must be ominous. It must have the seeds of war, or point to a possible re-direction of the nation's policy.

Most crises move under their own power, but some have to be whooped up like Grover Whalen's world fair, or whether the community chest will go over the top. The Ethiopian crisis was like that. It took a lot of boosting to give it crisis standing. The Ethiopians were a long way off and they never had done our laundry, like the Chinese.

The Spanish crisis did better. It still is sort of a crisis, what with some members of congress coming back pledged to work for lifting of the embargo so government Spain can get American munitions to shoot at the other Spaniards now shooting back with Roman bullets.

Japan Made 'Em Sit Up

The Japanese crisis was—and is—a natural. Inevitably this country looks upon the Pacific as "our lake" and that makes important anything which blows up on it, especially between the Japanese and Chinese. Scads of Americans are in the war zone, together with numerous ships. When the gunboat Panay was sunk by the Japanese it fanned the thing to a high heat that can be stirred to flame when other affairs grow sluggish.

Domestic crises of real value arise from time to time to displace even international crises. Take the court bill fight. It was a five months' wonder. The reorganization fight was good, and even anti-lynching. More recently the "purge" crisis was looked upon as something likely to wreck the Democratic party, or remake it, or start a new party.

Then came the simply immense Czechoslovak crisis. As it passed, there was nothing worthy to succeed it. Farm price controversies rarely blow up into real crises, and it is despairing business to make anything out of a bye-election such as the one coming up.

Anybody with a crisis in tow would be welcomed.

THE MEMORY OF WAR

By BRUCE CATTON

What was it, in the long run, that prevented Europe's leaders from opening the sluice-gates of slaughter and turning millions of the brightest and best of its youth into dead men?

Was it Chamberlain's dramatic play for time, which gave reason a chance to exert itself? Was it the extraordinary patience and restraint of the Czechs? Was it the dawning realization of Hitler that a long World war on the scale of 1918 would drag him down in general ruin? Was it President Roosevelt's calm appeal?

All of these things were factors, of course. But the biggest factor was a great groundswell of murmuring from the people of all the world that they did not want and would not have war.

Let no man suppose that because there were no street-corner meetings in Germany and Italy peace sentiment had no effect in those countries.

Hitler knows, and Mussolini knows, that after the first flush of excitement for a war come the casualty lists. And after the first 50,000 come the second 50,000, the stream of telegrams telling families that Eric or Antonio isn't coming home any more.

Mussolini knows that there was far less enthusiasm for the casualty lists from Ethiopia and Spain than there was for the embarkations. Hitler may remember, himself.

Britain has a large and vocal pacifist sentiment. Britain will fight, but only for a situation that unquestionably and directly threatens Britain.

France can scarcely afford any more lavish gestures than a determination to fight under similar conditions.

The crisis passes, the world draws a deep breath. The question of whether strict justice has been done to Czechoslovakia merges into the question of how strict justice was done when her border lines were drawn in 1918.

The Spanish war, it is rumored, may be liquidated soon. They are tired of the killing there, and there is a rumor that in Japan they are tired too, tired of that endless stream of little black lacquer boxes that pours in from China with the ashes of Japan's best youth.

How much of the world's woe today is due to the fact that between 1914 and 1918 we killed off eight and a half millions of the best, strongest, most talented of the world's young men?

As the World war was largely fought in vain, so this crisis, only less terrible than war itself, will have been in vain if the people of the world do not insist more and more strongly: "This is not good enough! We insist on leadership in the world that is wise enough, and strong enough, and sane enough to see that this does not happen again!"

A BOOK REVIEW

HISTORY WAS MADE ABOARD SHIPS

A great part of American history is written in the salt-stained logs of her ships, and Frank C. Bowen, taking this cue, has produced the outstanding nautical book of the season.

Mr. Bowen has scoured the histories and the libraries and the famous ship collections of the world to put together "America Sails the Seas." And the result is as graphic a portrayal of our life from the 15th to the 19th century as we shall likely see for a long time.

The illustrations for Mr. Bowen's book have been taken largely from the collection of A. G. H. Macpherson—said to be the finest collection in the world. They trace the saga of America on the water from the caravels of Columbus to the first great steamships—the Savannah, the Curacao, the Sirius.

Mr. Bowen has kept his text episodic because of these pictures, but it is none the less absorbing. So you read along chronologically, or dip here and there at will, taking up the story wherever it may please you.

And what a story! You follow the early discoverers, the pirates, the battles of the American Revolution, John Paul Jones, the Serapis and the Bon Homme Richard, the story of whaling, the navy in the War of 1812 and in world trade, and the halcyon days of sail with the clippers.

Whether you've ever seen a sail or tramped a deck you'll enjoy this book, and no collection of Americana could be complete without it.—P. G. F.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE ORIGINAL ST. RAPHAEL'S RECTORY—When it was built about a decade ago, the new St. Raphael's rectory in Chicago was designed to include the old rectory, moved from a nearby street and elevated so the new structure could be built around and under it. It was believed that time and city grime would blend the old and new portions of the building. However, fate has decreed that the old rectory should remain a Chicago landmark—its bricks remain much lighter than those in the newer part of the building. The old rectory is famous as the place where "Our Nation's Prayer" was written.

Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

It would be interesting if we had instruments of precision which would chart high and low pressure areas and trends of thought and opinion, as do the weathermen, clocking the wind which bloweth where it listeth. This might happen someday. There is a curious consonance in what might appear to be the most erratic drifts and tendencies in the public mind.

For instance: We have a rash of Townsenditis all over the country by which we propose to abolish economic laws by lifting ourselves by our suspenders. And along with it right in step, doing a brother act, comes the durable old phantom, perpetual motion, bobbing up again in a half dozen states. In New York, the attorney general finds it necessary to forbid further sale of stock in a machine contrived by Charles E. Hammons, a former sailor, with $37,000 of the certificates already sold and paid for.

The perpetual motion people, and they are long-lived and legion, would do to the law of physics what the $30 Thursday people would do to the laws of economics. The process involves wealth in one case and energy in the other. Each would take something out where he had put nothing in.

Any newspaperman of considerable experience has been assigned at times to fend off the perpetual motion pest at the office gate. New generations of them keep on swarming through the years, like old Dr. Morgan's vinegar flies, a strangely persistent breed.

A friend of mine, an old timer on one of the local city desks, tells me about a brisk little man who badgered him for years with news of his all-iron dirigible, powered by a perpetual motion. The little man got thinner and thinner and shabbier and shabbier, but always hopeful and always just one jump behind a million dollars, as the years went by. He was missing for a year or two, but came back one day, all dressed up and bubbling with happiness. He had won! His first ship had been built, had performed beautifully in the air, and was to start immediately on a cross-country mail-carrying flight.

Then his face clouded. There was still one little difficulty to be overcome. His voice sank to a whisper. Over small towns, he had let the mail down on a string. Detectives for the string trust, which had been hounding him for years, had learned about his invention and they had cornered all the string.

This sad little story interested me as lighting up the over-lapping zones of goofiness. Fantastic economic ideas frequently go with similarly preposterous ideas about the physical universe. About 25 years ago, there was a socialist messiah in California, a fore-runner of many later millenial dawnists there, who doubled in utopian economics and engineering. He was ushering in the millenium with a magical command of new energies and new processes in engineering and metallurgy. He dovetailed neatly the social and scientific fields of his Elysium.

It always happens. If Townsend comes, perpetual motion can't be far behind, and probably another of those recurrent wars between the red squirrels and the gray squirrels. The meteorologists of brain storms will work all this out in time. We'll get storm warnings—"Low I. Q. area along Atlantic seaboard," etc.

The above, no doubt, is too far over toward the psycopathic to report the facts accurately. The fact is that California, Oregon and New England politicians who back old Doc Townsend are just as sane as anybody. They know the economic facts of life. There is here a distortion of morals rather than intellect. They subscribe to dangerous folly to get elected. Aside from hopeless cranks, the perpetual motion people are sane, too. It just happens that they never heard of the three laws of motion.

As the whistle blows to start the college mills grinding, Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard, is perturbed because 90 per cent of the youth of the nation don't go to college. He thinks that might be at the bottom of most of our troubles.

I wonder. Sheridan Downey, who has California on her beam ends with his $30 Thursday, went to college. This writer finds a lot of college graduates mixed up in some sort of elaborate foolishness. As to Townsenditis and perpetual motion, any effective eighth grade vaccination would be sufficient. I have an idea we are missing out somewhere further down the line.

MIND YOUR MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Should a woman executive rise to greet callers who enter her office?

2. Does a woman employe ever call her employer by his first name?

3. Are there occasions when employers may appropriately take their secretaries to lunch?

4. Is it permissible for a business or professional woman who marries after she has established herself to retain her maiden name for business purposes?

5. Should a woman who has a doctor's degree be introduced socially as "Miss Smith" or "Dr. Smith?"

What would you do if—

You are writing a business letter to a woman and do not know whether she is Miss Burns or Mrs. Burns—

(a) Write Miss Burns?
(b) Write Mrs. Burns?
(c) Write Elizabeth Burns on the envelope and heading of the letter, and begin the letter "Dear Madam?"

Answers

1. She would rise for important callers, whether men or women—as a hostess rises for guests in her own home.

2. She may, if an office is run that informally. Though she always speaks of him to clients as Mr. Brown.

3. Yes—though most business men never find it necessary.

4. Yes, this is a common practice as it avoids confusion, and often a name has value in the professional world.

5. Miss, unless her degree is an M. D.

OUR CHILDREN

BOYS AND CLOTHES

It was raining, the steady, soaking downpour of October. The gutters were running brooks and all the little hollows held pools inches deep.

"You'll have to put on your rubbers and raincoat today, Peter."

"No. It isn't raining hard. It won't hurt me."

"It is raining hard. Can't I see? The mailman even has a rain cape on, and rubber boots, and so has the policeman."

"They have to stay out in it. I just run to school. It can't hurt me. I go too fast."

"I wish you wouldn't be so silly. You know that if you get your feet wet you go to bed with bronchitis. Don't talk any more about it. You get your rubbers and your raincoat and your rainhat, too."

"I'm not going to wear all that stuff. Make me look like an old woman. You must think I'm a sissy. Want all the fellows to make fun of me. Well, I'm not just going to do it. I'll stay home first."

"You are going to school and you are going to wear those things and no more nonsense."

Now Peter was in a temper. He stamped out of the room, stamped up the stairs, banged doors and slammed things around until he knocked a lamp off its stand and broke its base. He didn't even look at the mess on the floor, but charged into the room shouting, "I can't wear this old thing. The button it off it."

"That button doesn't keep the rain out. Listen! You go quietly on your way, raincoat, rubbers and hat, or I'll take you by the hand into the classroom. You behave like an infant, and you are one."

Peter was worn out by this time and began to cry.

"Go on to school; don't add lateness to your other misbehavior." His mother fairly pushed him out of the door.

Well, what can you do about it? Boys hate coats and rubbers because they slow down their movements. And because some boys, for reasons of their own, declare overcoats, raincoats and the like protections, sissy stuff. It can't be helped. We have to protect children against their own ignorance. They have to wear clothing according to the demands of the weather.

It is unwise to dress children for the season regardless of the daily weather changes. It won't do to say, "It's the first of November. Get out your sweater and wear it every day until May first." The best way to do is to teach the children to study weather records and the thermometer. Listen to the weather man on the radio. Change their clothing according to the conditions. There is no sense in wearing a warm sweater under a coat when the temperature is moderate enough to make even the coat noticeably warm.

Children yield to the impersonal call of the weather, the thermometer, when they resist the personal command of parent or teacher. But if they will not attend to the weather's demand, then we have to see that they are protected with rubbers, coats, sweaters and hats. No uncovered heads after the first frost, no matter who says what. Ears protected from cold winds, always, and cap bands down well over foreheads on bitter days no matter how hard the stalwarts kick.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—Private industry is hiring WPA workers in considerable numbers, but available figures do not indicate the work relief army is simmering down to an irreducible mass of workers who don't want other work or whom employers don't want to hire.

Federal officials are pleased with their latest WPA turnover figures for the country.

In August, latest month for which figures can be had, 195,000 persons left WPA rolls and an estimated 130,000 took private industry jobs. About 55,000 actually said they were taking other jobs and 75,000 more quit without saying why. Officials can't see why those in the latter group quit unless it was to get better employment. Another 55,000 were discharged for inefficiency or laid off.

Although WPA has a present peak of 3,129,000 workers, only 15 per cent have been on the rolls steadily since the first peak in February, 1936. More than 6,000,000 persons have worked on WPA at one time or another.

About 53 per cent of those added to the rolls in August were going on WPA for the first time, approximately the percentage in previous months. The separation rate also has remained relatively steady, around 6 per cent.

THE color and the picturesque beauty that was Belgrade's on the eve of the World War vanished even before that conflagration had ended. And out of the chaos emerged a new Belgrade modern, bigger, reflecting the power of the new Yugoslavian state.

It is still possible to find the tiny "Three Hats" cafe in which the overthrow of the Obrenovich dynasty was plotted in 1903, and one may search out a few other buildings typical of the Belgrad of King Peter's day. But for the most part Belgrade might very well be Chicago. Even during the worst depression years 600 new buildings were rushed to completion in the rapidly expanding new capital.

In 1914 Belgrade, capital of nation of 2,000,000, had a population of 100,000. Today it is capital of a nation of 14,000,000 and in the transformation has itself grown to more than 300,000. Nowhere in Yugoslavia is there a constant a mixture of the east and the west, producing a violent contrast between people, customs, houses, customs. The most important routes between east and west run through Belgrade. There is no racial type you may not meet and no language you may not hear. Located on the Danube Belgrade is a striking city, especially at night when giant searchlights play across its dome.

Visiting Royalty

If the king and queen of England are persuaded to visit the United States on the occasion of their trip to Canada next summer, the nation will put its best foot forward in glad desire to entertain them. Such a visit, though, would be so socially circumscribed as to be almost wholly official.

There will be no room for such social heart-burnings as when Edward VIII, as Prince of Wales, was said by the disgruntled to have gotten in with the "wrong" Long Island set. In the nature of the case, the president and Mrs. Roosevelt would be the principal hosts.

In international affairs much may happen between now and next summer, but a visit to the United States, in the light of the present situation, would be largely incidental to the Canadian trip, and there is danger of imbuing it in advance with altogether too much political implication.

This will be the first time that reigning British monarchs will have crossed the Atlantic and therefore will make history for the now loosely knit empire. Of Canadian loyalty there is no doubt. The welcome to Their Majesties will be all the warmer from the fact that Canada, like Australia, viewed with favor, amid circumstances it found distressing, the abdication of the then king and the accession of his eldest brother as George VI.

Royalty is the symbol, and a potent symbol, that holds the empire together, effective in Socialist New Zealand as well as in the democratic dominions and the crown colonies. With seething India the case stands somewhat differently, which accounts for the failure even to inaugurate plans for a Durbar at which the rulers would be crowned Emperor and Empress of India. But at the moment parts of the empire are dazed, no less, by the Munich agreement and the at least temporary trend toward the right of the two great European democracies.

Inasmuch as the dominions now are bound to Britain only by allegiance to the crown and the ties of intelligent self-interest, it is presumptive that the visit of the king and queen to Canada may afford a measure of assurance.

EXPERIMENT SUCCEEDS

There is cause for rejoicing along the Columbia river, where the salmon industry is important, and also among the engineers who conceived the fantastic scheme to construct ladders through which the fish might be enabled to reach the headwaters where they breed and die.

Fishermen who are learned in the ways of salmon insisted that the whole idea was ludicrous. Critics laughed scornfully and the whole proposal was viewed with ironic amusement. Nevertheless, the engineers considered the theory sound and proceeded with the construction of the fishways so that the salmon could get around the obstacle of the great Bonneville dam.

And the fish, not so dumb, realized immediately that the stairs were there for them to climb. During the last month they have ascended in swarms, providing a thrilling spectacle for sightseers and also disarming the critics and the scoffers.

This is at least one experiment, noble in purpose, that has succeeded and the country is pleased, for the sake of the engineers who conceived the idea of ladders, the salmon industrialists and the fish themselves.

STUDY IN CONTRAST

If anyone has been losing faith in democracy, he may well consider what it means to live under a totalitarian regime.

In the dictatorships of Europe, everything is regimented. Labor does what it is told. People are conscripted for military and economic objectives. Strutting bureaucrats are present in every city and town. Property rights are protected only so long as the owners play ball with the dominant authority. News reports are nothing but canned propaganda, and a person dare not express himself on political issues for fear of being sent to a concentration camp.

The freedom of a democratic set-up stands in marked contrast. It allows for individuality, uncontrolled choice and genuine self-expression.

Popular government, even with all its admitted defects, remains the one avenue to creative opportunity and contented living free from the mass controls of predatory autocracy.

DULL SKIES

The human mind is subtly affected by cloudy skies. When the storms of winter come, people are apt to feel less hopeful. Some traveling salesmen remark that they can never sell much goods on a cloudy or stormy day. People seem to lack confidence.

The storms of winter may not seem necessary for our refreshment, but if it were not for them, our water supplies would run dry, and our rivers would not turn their power wheels.

The wise philosopher is not much affected by weather. All kinds of skies look good to him. The artist sees beauty even when the sky is obscured by clouds. Sunshine is a wonderful thing, but if we had it every day, we should lose all sense of its beauty.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON—Native Washingtonians, returning after a month's absence, will not recognize the old city. For several days now, it has been without a crisis.

That is one of the exciting things about living in Washington. There nearly always is a crisis.

The crises this city has are not the penny-ante variety. They are whoppers. Hollywood can have its crisis about whether Bette Davis or Fanny Brice will play Scarlett O'Hara in "Gone with the Wind." Columns will be written about it.

But it is peanut stuff. It ranks along with the current crisis over whether women shall curl their hair low or curl it high.

It's Gotta Be Good

It is hard to draw the line between a Washington crisis and the common up-country variety. A Washington crisis must be ominous. It must have the seeds of war, or point to a possible re-direction of the nation's policy.

Most crises move under their own power, but some have to be whooped up like Grover Whalen's world fair, or whether the community chest will go over the top. The Ethiopian crisis was like that. It took a lot of boosting to give it crisis standing. The Ethiopians were a long way off and they never had done our laundry, like the Chinese.

The Spanish crisis did better. It still is sort of a crisis, what with some members of congress coming back pledged to work for lifting of the embargo so government Spain can get American munitions to shoot at the other Spaniards now shooting back with Roman bullets.

Japan Made 'Em Sit Up

The Japanese crisis was—and is—a natural. Inevitably this country looks upon the Pacific as "our lake" and that makes important anything which blows up on it, especially between the Japanese and Chinese. Scads of Americans are in the war zone, together with numerous ships. When the gunboat Panay was sunk by the Japanese it fanned the thing to a high heat that can be stirred to flame when other affairs grow sluggish.

Domestic crises of real value arise from time to time to displace even international crises. Take the court bill fight. It was a five months' wonder. The reorganization fight was good, and even anti-lynching. More recently the "purge" crisis was looked upon as something likely to wreck the Democratic party, or remake it, or start a new party.

Then came the simply immense Czechoslovak crisis. As it passed, there was nothing worthy to succeed it. Farm price controversies rarely blow up into real crises, and it is despairing business to make anything out of a bye-election such as the one coming up.

Anybody with a crisis in tow would be welcomed.

THE MEMORY OF WAR

By BRUCE CATTON

What was it, in the long run, that prevented Europe's leaders from opening the sluice-gates of slaughter and turning millions of the brightest and best of its youth into dead men?

Was it Chamberlain's dramatic play for time, which gave reason a chance to exert itself? Was it the extraordinary patience and restraint of the Czechs? Was it the dawning realization of Hitler that a long World war on the scale of 1918 would drag him down in general ruin? Was it President Roosevelt's calm appeal?

All of these things were factors, of course. But the biggest factor was a great groundswell of murmuring from the people of all the world that they did not want and would not have war.

Let no man suppose that because there were no street-corner meetings in Germany and Italy peace sentiment had no effect in those countries.

Hitler knows, and Mussolini knows, that after the first flush of excitement for a war come the casualty lists. And after the first 50,000 come the second 50,000, the stream of telegrams telling families that Eric or Antonio isn't coming home any more.

Mussolini knows that there was far less enthusiasm for the casualty lists from Ethiopia and Spain than there was for the embarkations. Hitler may remember, himself.

Britain has a large and vocal pacifist sentiment. Britain will fight, but only for a situation that unquestionably and directly threatens Britain.

France can scarcely afford any more lavish gestures than a determination to fight under similar conditions.

The crisis passes, the world draws a deep breath. The question of whether strict justice has been done to Czechoslovakia merges into the question of how strict justice was done when her border lines were drawn in 1918.

The Spanish war, it is rumored, may be liquidated soon. They are tired of the killing there, and there is a rumor that in Japan they are tired too, tired of that endless stream of little black lacquer boxes that pours in from China with the ashes of Japan's best youth.

How much of the world's woe today is due to the fact that between 1914 and 1918 we killed off eight and a half millions of the best, strongest, most talented of the world's young men?

As the World war was largely fought in vain, so this crisis, only less terrible than war itself, will have been in vain if the people of the world do not insist more and more strongly: "This is not good enough! We insist on leadership in the world that is wise enough, and strong enough, and sane enough to see that this does not happen again!"

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE ORIGINAL ST. RAPHAEL'S RECTORY—When it was built about a decade ago, the new St. Raphael's rectory in Chicago was designed to include the old rectory, moved from a nearby street and elevated so the new structure could be built around and under it. It was believed that time and city grime would blend the old and new portions of the building. However, fate has decreed that the old rectory should remain a Chicago landmark—its bricks remain much lighter than those in the newer part of the building. The old rectory is famous as the place where "Our Nation's Prayer" was written.

Human Side Of The News

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

It would be interesting if we had instruments of precision which would chart high and low pressure areas and trends of thought and opinion, as do the weathermen, clocking the wind which bloweth where it listeth. This might happen someday. There is a curious consonance in what might appear to be the most erratic drifts and tendencies in the public mind.

For instance: We have a rash of Townsenditis all over the country by which we propose to abolish economic laws by lifting ourselves by our suspenders. And along with it right in step, doing a brother act, comes the durable old phantom, perpetual motion, bobbing up again in a half dozen states. In New York, the attorney general finds it necessary to forbid further sale of stock in a machine contrived by Charles E. Hammons, a former sailor, with $37,000 of the certificates already sold and paid for.

The perpetual motion people, and they are long-lived and legion, would do to the law of physics what the $30 Thursday people would do to the laws of economics. The process involves wealth in one case and energy in the other. Each would take something out where he had put nothing in.

Any newspaperman of considerable experience has been assigned at times to fend off the perpetual motion pest at the office gate. New generations of them keep on swarming through the years, like old Dr. Morgan's vinegar flies, a strangely persistent breed.

A friend of mine, an old timer on one of the local city desks, tells me about a brisk little man who badgered him for years with news of his all-iron dirigible, powered by a perpetual motion. The little man got thinner and thinner and shabbier and shabbier, but always hopeful and always just one jump behind a million dollars, as the years went by. He was missing for a year or two, but came back one day, all dressed up and bubbling with happiness. He had won! His first ship had been built, had performed beautifully in the air, and was to start immediately on a cross-country mail-carrying flight.

Then his face clouded. There was still one little difficulty to be overcome. His voice sank to a whisper. Over small towns, he had let the mail down on a string. Detectives for the string trust, which had been hounding him for years, had learned about his invention and they had cornered all the string.

This sad little story interested me as lighting up the over-lapping zones of goofiness. Fantastic economic ideas frequently go with similarly preposterous ideas about the physical universe. About 25 years ago, there was a socialist messiah in California, a fore-runner of many later millenial dawnists there, who doubled in utopian economics and engineering. He was ushering in the millenium with a magical command of new energies and new processes in engineering and metallurgy. He dovetailed neatly the social and scientific fields of his Elysium.

It always happens. If Townsend comes, perpetual motion can't be far behind, and probably another of those recurrent wars between the red squirrels and the gray squirrels. The meteorologists of brain storms will work all this out in time. We'll get storm warnings—"Low I. Q. area along Atlantic seaboard," etc.

The above, no doubt, is too far over toward the psycopathic to report the facts accurately. The fact is that California, Oregon and New England politicians who back old Doc Townsend are just as sane as anybody. They know the economic facts of life. There is here a distortion of morals rather than intellect. They subscribe to dangerous folly to get elected. Aside from hopeless cranks, the perpetual motion people are sane, too. It just happens that they never heard of the three laws of motion.

As the whistle blows to start the college mills grinding, Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard, is perturbed because 90 per cent of the youth of the nation don't go to college. He thinks that might be at the bottom of most of our troubles.

I wonder. Sheridan Downey, who has California on her beam ends with his $30 Thursday, went to college. This writer finds a lot of college graduates mixed up in some sort of elaborate foolishness. As to Townsenditis and perpetual motion, any effective eighth grade vaccination would be sufficient. I have an idea we are missing out somewhere further down the line.

MIND YOUR MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Should a woman executive rise to greet callers who enter her office?
2. Does a woman employe ever call her employer by his first name?
3. Are there occasions when employers may appropriately take their secretaries to lunch?
4. Is it permissible for a business or professional woman who marries after she has established herself to retain her maiden name for business purposes?
5. Should a woman who has a doctor's degree be introduced socially as "Miss Smith" or "Dr. Smith?"

What would you do if—

You are writing a business letter to a woman and do not know whether she is Miss Burns or Mrs. Burns—

(a) Write Miss Burns?
(b) Write Mrs. Burns?
(c) Write Elizabeth Burns on the envelope and heading of the letter, and begin the letter "Dear Madam?"

Answers

1. She would rise for important callers, whether men or women—as a hostess rises for guests in her own home.
2. She may, if an office is run that informally. Though she always speaks of him to clients as Mr. Brown.
3. Yes—though most business men never find it necessary.
4. Yes, this is a common practice as it avoids confusion, and often a name has value in the professional world.
5. Miss, unless her degree is an M. D.

BOYS AND CLOTHES

It was raining, the steady, soaking downpour of October. The gutters were running brooks and all the little hollows held pools inches deep.

"You'll have to put on your rubbers and raincoat today, Peter."

"No. It isn't raining hard. It won't hurt me."

"It is raining hard. Can't I see? The mailman even has a rain cape on, and rubber boots, and so has the policeman."

"They have to stay out in it. I just run to school. It can't hurt me. I go too fast."

"I wish you wouldn't be so silly. You know that if you get your feet wet you go to bed with bronchitis. Don't talk any more about it. You get your rubbers and your raincoat and your rainhat, too."

"I'm not going to wear all that stuff. Make me look like an old woman. You must think I'm a sissy. Want all the fellows to make fun of me. Well, I'm not just going to do it. I'll stay home first."

"You are going to school and you are going to wear those things and no more nonsense."

Now Peter was in a temper. He stamped out of the room, stamped up the stairs, banged doors and slammed things around until he knocked a lamp off its stand and broke its base. He didn't even look at the mess on the floor, but charged into the room shouting, "I can't wear this old thing. The button it off it."

"That button doesn't keep the rain out. Listen! You go quietly on your way, raincoat, rubbers and hat, or I'll take you by the hand into the classroom. You behave like an infant, and you are one."

Peter was worn out by this time and began to cry.

"Go on to school; don't add lateness to your other misbehavior." His mother fairly pushed him out of the door.

Well, what can you do about it? Boys hate coats and rubbers because they slow down their movements. And because some boys, for reasons of their own, declare overcoats, raincoats and the like protections, sissy stuff. It can't be helped. We have to protect children against their own ignorance. They have to wear clothing according to the demands of the weather.

It is unwise to dress children for the season regardless of the daily weather changes. It won't do to say, "It's the first of November. Get out your sweater and wear it every day until May first." The best way to do is to teach the children to study weather records and the thermometer. Listen to the weather man on the radio. Change their clothing according to the conditions. There is no sense in wearing a warm sweater under a coat when the temperature is moderate enough to make even the coat noticeably warm.

Children yield to the impersonal call of the weather, the thermometer, when they resist the personal command of parent or teacher. But if they will not attend to the weather's demand, then we have to see that they are protected with rubbers, coats, sweaters and hats. No uncovered heads after the first frost, no matter who says what. Ears protected from cold winds, always, and cap bands down well over foreheads on bitter days no matter how hard the stalwarts kick.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—Private industry is hiring WPA workers in considerable numbers, but available figures do not indicate the work relief army is simmering down to an irreducible mass of workers who don't want other work or whom employers don't want to hire.

Federal officials are pleased with their latest WPA turnover figures for the country.

In August, latest month for which figures can be had, 195,000 persons left WPA rolls and an estimated 130,000 took private industry jobs. About 55,000 actually said they were taking other jobs and 75,000 more quit without saying why. Officials can't see why those in the latter group quit unless it was to get better employment. Another 55,000 were discharged for inefficiency or laid off.

Although WPA has a present peak of 3,129,000 workers, only 15 per cent have been on the rolls steadily since the first peak in February, 1936. More than 6,000,000 persons have worked on WPA at one time or another.

About 53 per cent of those added to the rolls in August were going on WPA for the first time, approximately the percentage in previous months. The separation rate also has remained relatively steady, around 6 per cent.

Deputy Administrator Aubrey Williams says: "We're not just churning around with the same people. This is an economic problem."

THE color and the picturesque beauty that was Belgrade's on the eve of the World War vanished even before that conflagration had ended. And out of the chaos emerged a new Belgrade, modern, bigger, reflecting the power of the new Yugoslavian state.

It is still possible to find the tiny "Three Hats" cafe in which the overthrow of the Obrenovich dynasty was plotted in 1903, and one may search out a few other buildings typical of the Belgrade of King Peter's day. But for the most part Belgrade might very well be Chicago. Even during the worst depression years 600 new buildings were rushed to completion in the rapidly expanding new capital.

In 1914 Belgrade, capital of a nation of 2,000,000, had a population of 100,000. Today it is capital of a nation of 14,000,000 and in the transformation has itself grown to more than 300,000. Nowhere in Yugoslavia is there so constant a mixture of the east and the west, producing a violent contrast between people, culture, houses, customs. The most important routes between east and west run through Belgrade. There is no racial type you may not meet and no language you may not hear. Located on the Danube, Belgrade is a striking city, especially at night when giant searchlights play across its domes.

LITTLE THEATER LIST IS CLOSED

No New Members Will Be Accepted; Plans Now Being Made For Next Play

The Monroe Little Theater season of 1938-1939 was initiated the past week with the presentation of "The Bellamy Trial" for three successive nights, setting a new record as in the past only one-night stands have been attempted. The three night performances were rendered necessary this time because of the large theater membership and the limited seating capacity of the Ouachita parish courtroom.

Membership in the Little Theater for the ensuing season is now closed, the final night of the play marking the conclusion of the campaign which it is believed has set a new high record.

A series of major and work shop productions will be given from now until the season ends in May.

The ticket sale this year was regarded the most successful ever attempted, each of the 15 members of the board being assigned a quota of tickets to sell, all reporting unusually satisfactory results.

The board of the theater will meet Monday night, after which announcement will be made of the next play that will be presented.

Palestine now has 500,000 Jews, according to an official estimate.

Famous Marine To Deliver Lecture At Neville High Next Friday

When General Smedley Butler arrives in Monroe for his talk next Friday night at the Neville High School auditorium under the auspices of the American Legion, L. B. Faulk Post number 13, he will be greeted by a committee including some of whom served directly under the famous general.

District Judge David I. Garrett, who served as a captain of marines, is on the committee, as is First Lieutenant Ed Apperson who served under the general at Quantico. L. N. Gaskin, who soldiered with General Butler when the latter was colonel of the marines, also is on the committee. H. F. Madison, commander of the L. B. Faulk post, is chairman of the reception committee and C. B. Braun, adjutant of the local post, is a member of the committee.

General Butler will arrive in Monroe during the afternoon of October 21. He is coming by automobile and will be accompanied by his only brother, Sam Butler, and the latter's wife. They will drive immediately to the Frances hotel where the general and his party will stop during their stay in Monroe. Here the reception committee will extend greetings on behalf of the L. B. Faulk post, and the citizens of Monroe.

Commander Madison has issued a statement urging the public to hear General Butler.

"Almost everyone is familiar with the outstanding career of General Smedley Butler," said Mr. Madison Saturday. "The L. B. Faulk post of the American Legion, Voiture number 165 of the Forty and Eight, and the Legion auxiliary are proud to bring so notable a figure to Monroe. Everyone here and in northeast Louisiana will have the opportunity to hear a straight-from-the-shoulder message. General Butler speaks direct. His material is his own. His subject is taken from his lifetime of thrilling and unique experiences."

General Butler quit his post in the United States marines as commander of the Quantico post because it was too quiet and prosaic. The lecture platform seemed to hold out opportunities for more adventures. In all seriousness the general says that after he was made a major general in charge of Quantico there wasn't much for him to do but press buttons and issue orders. He has always been in command of some detachment sent where there was trouble and plenty of excitement. He is essentially a man of action and the quiet life at Quantico palled on him. After much consideration he made his decision. It is interesting to note that this decision was reached several months before the sensational "Mussolini story incident."

While here General Butler will deliver one of his characteristic addresses dealing with the problem of crime and how to combat the organizations of racketeers. His speeches are never twice alike and he does not call them lectures. But every utterance is interesting and the general himself is a unique personality everybody wishes to meet.

Tickets can be secured at the R and A Jewelry company, the classified counter of the Monroe News Star and from members of the legion. Reserve section tickets are $1.00, general admission 75 cents, children under 15 25 cents.

The ticket committee includes Sam Rubin, chairman, A. N. Robinson, Cecil Atkins and Courtney Oliver. The publicity committee includes Cecil Atkins, Ed Apperson and W. D. Ross.

W. H. Anders Returns From Committee Meeting On Advertising State

W. H. Anders, president of the Chamber of Commerce, returned from a conference in New Orleans Saturday in connection with his appointment on a special committee by Governor Richard W. Leche to advertise Louisiana at the Golden Gate fair in San Francisco.

The last session of the Louisiana legislature appropriated $25,000 for the purpose of advertising the state at San Francisco in 1939. Governor Leche named a group of men to serve on a special committee entrusted with this work.

The committee held an initial meeting at Hotel Roosevelt, New Orleans, Friday and discussed ways and means of proceedings.

Members of the committee named by the governor are:

Bryan Bell, New Orleans, acting chairman; Conservation Commissioner W. G. Rankin, H. Van R. Chase, James J. A. Fortier, Charles V. Anderson, and W. T. Harter, Jr., all of New Orleans; Commissioner of Agriculture Harry D. Wilson, Walter Cunningham, Baton Rouge; John D. Ewing, Shreveport; Frank Smith, Lake Charles; W. H. Anders, Monroe; Mayor V. V. Lamkin, Alexandria; Judge Wilmot Dalferes, Lafayette; Julius Dupont, Houma, and former United States Senator Edward J. Gay, Plaquemine.

WEST MONROE'S AUDIT ANNOUNCED

Total Assets Of City Given As $1,365,066.21; Given In Detail

The city of West Monroe, as of June 30, 1938, possessed assets of $1,365,066.21, as placed by Cox and Fraser, accountants and tax consultants, who have recently completed an audit of the city's books. The current audit shows a substantial improvement in the city's condition since the audit was made in 1936, with all assets of doubtful value charged off, which includes obsolete machinery and equipment as well as uncollectable accounts for water and personal taxes.

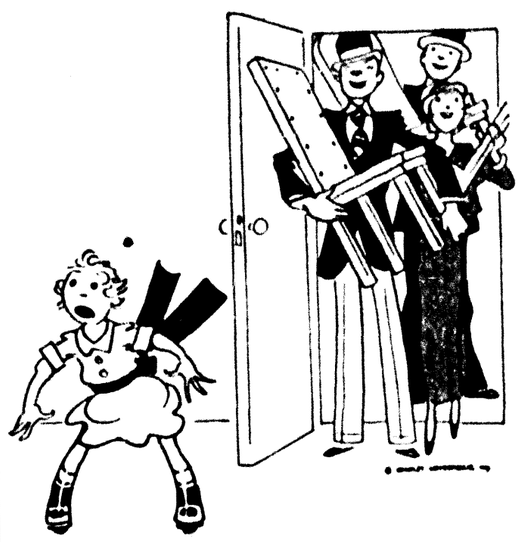

Among the assets of the city are real estate valued at $9,372.72, Hasley cemetery valued at $9,791.51, city hall and premises valued at $24,600.38, fire trucks $3,072.33, fire equipment, $13,000, waterworks system, $135,646.32, sewer system, $148,335.86, drainage system, $28,264.44; street paving, $728,-731.17, city park, $27,393.50 and smaller items to make a total of $1,374,777.58 invested in real estate, improvements and equipment.

Bonded indebtedness of the city as of June 30 last, was $410,000, the report of the auditor shows. During the two years ending June 30, 1938, bonds to a total of $12,200 were retired.

The total revenues for the two years covered by the audit were $125,-531.33, showing a surplus of revenues over expenses of $13,804.29.

HONEST SINCERE ENERGETIC CAPABLE

WILL HARVEY TODD CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS

PRINCIPLES AND PLATFORM OF WILL HARVEY TODD

"And Ye Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make You Free"—St. John, chapter 8, verse 32

I am a resident of Bastrop, Morehouse Parish, Louisiana, where I was raised. Finished school at Bastrop. Studied law while supporting self and have practiced law over 15 years. Never represented a corporation and never took a case against a poor man. Member Louisiana Legislature, Morehouse Parish. Elected without opposition. I am and will always remain a 100% Huey Long Democrat.

My platform is:

To propose and support measures to relieve the distress and poverty of poor people.

An old-age pension of $30.00 per month for all deserving persons over 60 years of age.

Shorter hours and a living wage for those who toil.

I will never forget the veterans of our wars who made such heroic sacrifices.

I stand four-square for Organized Labor and will work for an equitable understanding between Labor and Capital.

I will bend every effort to secure the passage of a law which will guarantee the cotton farmer a return of cost of production plus a reasonable profit.

I respectfully solicit your vote and support at the Democratic Primary, October 18, 1938.

WILL HARVEY TODD

On next Tuesday, the people of the Fifth Congressional District will go to the polls and cast their ballots for the man who is to represent them for the next two years in the Congress of the United States.

The right of suffrage is the most sacred and cherished of all human rights, because it is what makes and keeps us a free people. It is a right bought and paid for with the blood and tears of countless brave and patriotic American men and women. No one on earth has the right to tell a free and liberty-loving people how to vote. The Todd campaign speakers have kept this fact in mind throughout both primaries. They have only exercised the right that both sides in this Congressional race have, to place before the voters of this District their arguments and reasons in favor of their candidate, Will Harvey Todd, and have asked the people to seriously weigh and consider what they have said and then make up their own minds as to whom they shall select as their Congressman. Will Harvey Todd only asks that the people of this District forget any prejudices they might entertain, and open their minds and hearts to the truth and decide between himself and his opponent on purely and entirely a basis of ability and fitness for the job they both seek. He only asks that the voters of this District ask themselves sincerely and honestly next Tuesday, before casting their ballots, this question:

"Who will make this District and its people the most capable, honest, sincere and conscientious representative in Washington, D. C.—WILL HARVEY TODD or his opponent?"

He will be entirely satisfied with whatever answer your consciences make to that question.

We would respectfully suggest that the following facts be considered in making your choice of a Congressman to represent this District:

HONESTY AND SINCERITY—Will Harvey Todd meets both requirements. No one has heard one word uttered by the opposition in this campaign bringing into question his honesty and sincerity. On the contrary, Todd's opponent has publicly admitted that Todd is honest and sincere.

ENERGY AND CONSCIENTIOUSNESS—Anyone who has been associated with Todd in the Louisiana Legislature will readily tell you what a tireless worker he is in the interests of his people. He has been one of the most active of all the representatives in that body. Also witness the fact that while working hard all day he burned midnight oil and made of himself an able lawyer. No lazy man ever does anything like that.

ABILITY AND EXPERIENCE—His ability as a lawyer over a period of 15 years of active practice have brought him the respect and admiration of all the members of his profession. His legal knowledge, so necessary to the proper understanding, consideration and making of laws, will be of inestimable value to the people of this District, State and Nation. His experience as a law-maker, gained in the Louisiana Legislature (whose rules and regulations are like those in Congress) will be of tremendous benefit to us all when he goes to Congress.

Finally, we would respectfully suggest to the citizens of the Fifth District that the people of any district are judged in Washington by the man who goes there as their representative. Would you, Ladies and Gentlemen of the Fifth Congressional District, want to be known in Washington as people like honest, sincere, plain and unassuming Will Harvey Todd, or like his opponent?

They will drive immediately to the Frances hotel where the general and his party will stop during their stay in Monroe. Here the reception committee will extend greetings on behalf of the L. B. Faulk post, and the citizens of Monroe.

Commander Madison has issued a statement urging the public to hear General Butler.

"Almost everyone is familiar with the outstanding career of General Smedley Butler," said Mr. Madison Saturday. "The L. B. Faulk post of the American Legion, Voiture number 165 of the Forty and Eight, and the Legion auxiliary are proud to bring so notable a figure to Monroe. Everyone here and in northeast Louisiana will have the opportunity to hear a straight-from-the-shoulder message. General Butler speaks direct. His material is his own. His subject is taken from his lifetime of thrilling and unique experiences."

General Butler quit his post in the United States marines as commander of the Quantico post because it was too quiet and prosaic. The lecture platform seemed to hold out opportunities for more adventures. In all seriousness the general says that after he was made a major general in charge of Quantico there wasn't much for him to do but press buttons and issue orders. He has always been in command of some detachment sent where there was trouble and plenty of excitement. He is essentially a man of action and the quiet life at Quantico palled on him. After much consideration he made his decision. It is interesting to note that this decision was reached several months before the sensational "Mussolini story incident."

While here General Butler will deliver one of his characteristic addresses dealing with the problem of crime and how to combat the organizations of racketeers. His speeches are never twice alike and he does not call them lectures. But every utterance is interesting and the general himself is a unique personality everybody wishes to meet.

Tickets can be secured at the R and A Jewelry company, the classified counter of the Monroe News Star and from members of the legion. Reserve section tickets are $1.00, general admission 75 cents, children under 15 25 cents.

The ticket committee includes Sam Rubin, chairman, A. N. Robinson, Cecil Atkins and Courtney Oliver. The publicity committee includes Cecil Atkins, Ed Apperson and W. D. Ross.

DISCUSS PLANS OF FRISCO FAIR

W. H. Anders Returns From Committee Meeting On Advertising State

W. H. Anders, president of the Chamber of Commerce, returned from a conference in New Orleans Saturday in connection with his appointment on a special committee by Governor Richard W. Leche to advertise Louisiana at the Golden Gate fair in San Francisco.

The last session of the Louisiana legislature appropriated $25,000 for the purpose of advertising the state at San Francisco in 1939. Governor Leche named a group of men to serve on a special committee entrusted with this work.

The committee held an initial meeting at Hotel Roosevelt, New Orleans, Friday and discussed ways and means of proceedings.

Members of the committee named by the governor are:

Bryan Bell, New Orleans, acting chairman; Conservation Commissioner W. G. Rankin, H. Van R. Chase, James J. A. Fortier, Charles V. Anderson, and W. T. Harter, Jr., all of New Orleans; Commissioner of Agriculture Harry D. Wilson, Walter Cunningham, Baton Rouge; John D. Ewing, Shreveport; Frank Smith, Lake Charles; W. H. Anders, Monroe; Mayor V. V. Lamkin, Alexandria; Judge Wilmot Dalferes, Lafayette; Julius Dupont, Houma, and former United States Senator Edward J. Gay, Plaquemine.

WEST MONROE'S AUDIT ANNOUNCED

Total Assets Of City Given As $1,365,066.21; Given In Detail

The city of West Monroe, as of June 30, 1938, possessed assets of $1,365,066.21, as placed by Cox and Frazer, accountants and tax consultants, who have recently completed an audit of the city's books. The current audit shows a substantial improvement in the city's condition since the audit was made in 1936, with all assets of doubtful value charged off, which includes obsolete machinery and equipment as well as uncollectable accounts for water and personal taxes.

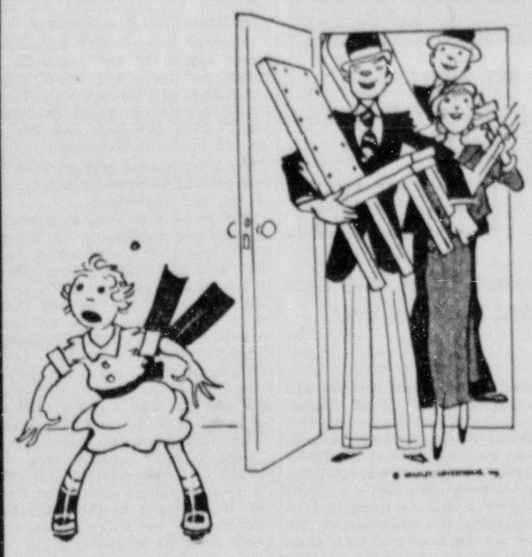

Among the assets of the city are real estate valued at $9,372.72; Hasley cemetery, valued at $9,791.51; city hall and premises, valued at $24,600.38; fire trucks, $3,072.93; fire equipment, $19,000; waterworks system, $195,646.92; sewer system, $148,335.86; drainage system, $28,264.44; street paving, $728,731.17; city park, $27,393.50 and smaller items to make a total of $1,276,777.58 invested in real estate, improvements and equipment.

Bonded indebtedness of the city as of June 30 last, was $419,800, the report of the auditor shows. During the two years ending June 30, 1938, bonds to a total of $12,200 were retired.

The total revenues for the two years covered by the audit were $1,25,-531.33, showing a surplus of revenues over expenses of $19,804.20.

CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS

PRINCIPLES AND PLATFORM OF WILL HARVEY TODD

"And Ye Shall Know the Truth and the Truth Shall Make You Free"—St. John, chapter 8, verse 32

I am a resident of Bastrop, Morehouse Parish, Louisiana, where I was raised. Finished school at Bastrop. Studied law while supporting self and have practiced law over 15 years. Never represented a corporation and never took a case against a poor man. Member Louisiana Legislature, Morehouse Parish. Elected without opposition. I am and will always remain a 100% Huey Long Democrat.

My platform is:

To propose and support measures to relieve the distress and poverty of poor people.

An old-age pension of $30.00 per month for all deserving persons over 60 years of age.

Shorter hours and a living wage for those who toil.

I will never forget the veterans of our wars who made such heroic sacrifices.

I stand four-square for Organized Labor and will work for an equitable understanding between Labor and Capital.

I will bend every effort to secure the passage of a law which will guarantee the cotton farmer a return of cost of production plus a reasonable profit.

I respectfully solicit your vote and support at the Democratic Primary, October 18, 1938.

WILL HARVEY TODD

On next Tuesday, the people of the Fifth Congressional District will go to the polls and cast their ballots for the man who is to represent them for the next two years in the Congress of the United States.

The right of suffrage is the most sacred and cherished of all human rights, because it is what makes and keeps us a free people. It is a right bought and paid for with the blood and tears of countless brave and patriotic American men and women. No one on earth has the right to tell a free and liberty-loving people how to vote. The Todd campaign speakers have kept this fact in mind throughout both primaries. They have only exercised the right that both sides in this Congressional race have, to place before the voters of this District their arguments and reasons in favor of their candidate, Will Harvey Todd, and have asked the people to seriously weigh and consider what they have said and then make up their own minds as to whom they shall select as their Congressman. Will Harvey Todd only asks that the people of this District forget any prejudices they might entertain, and open their minds and hearts to the truth and decide between himself and his opponent on purely and entirely a basis of ability and fitness for the job they both seek. He only asks that the voters of this District ask themselves sincerely and honestly next Tuesday, before casting their ballots, this question:

"Who will make this District and its people the most capable, honest, sincere and conscientious representative in Washington, D. C.—WILL HARVEY TODD or his opponent?"

He will be entirely satisfied with whatever answer your consciences make to that question.

We would respectfully suggest that the following facts be considered in making your choice of a Congressman to represent this District:

HONESTY AND SINCERITY—Will Harvey Todd meets both requirements. No one has heard one word uttered by the opposition in this campaign bringing into question his honesty and sincerity. On the contrary, Todd's opponent has publicly admitted that Todd is honest and sincere.

ENERGY AND CONSCIENTIOUSNESS—Anyone who has been associated with Todd in the Louisiana Legislature will readily tell you what a tireless worker he is in the interests of his people. He has been one of the most active of all the representatives in that body. Also witness the fact that while working hard all day he burned midnight oil and made of himself an able lawyer. No lazy man ever does anything like that.

ABILITY AND EXPERIENCE—His ability as a lawyer over a period of 15 years of active practice have brought him the respect and admiration of all the members of his profession. His legal knowledge, so necessary to the proper understanding, consideration and making of laws, will be of inestimable value to the people of this District, State and Nation. His experience as a law-maker, gained in the Louisiana Legislature (whose rules and regulations are like those in Congress) will be of tremendous benefit to us all when he goes to Congress.

Finally, we would respectfully suggest to the citizens of the Fifth District that the people of any district are judged in Washington by the man who goes there as their representative. Would you, Ladies and Gentlemen of the Fifth Congressional District, want to be known in Washington as people like honest, sincere, plain and unassuming Will Harvey Todd, or like his opponent?

TALLULAH, La., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Mrs. Mae E. Kelly of Oak Grove, Fifth district president of the American Legion auxiliary, and Mrs. John M. McBride, chairman of state work against tuberculosis for the auxiliary, will be guests at a meeting of the Scott-Nicol Voak unit of the American Legion auxiliary here Tuesday.

MAY ASK 4,000 ARMY AIRPLANES

Would Be Nearly Double Present Goal Of First Line War Craft

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Military circles heard tonight that the war department was considering asking congress to authorize a future strength of 4,000 or more planes for the army air corps—nearly double the present goal of 2,320 first line war craft.

This development came shortly after President Roosevelt had announced that the country's defense needs were being resurveyed in the light of world conditions. Mr. Roosevelt said that the restudy, under way for a year, had been forced to a head by events of recent weeks.

A tentative figure mentioned as the objective under consideration by the war department was 4,120 aircraft. This would combine the army's former goal of 1,800 planes and the present one of 2,320, set in 1935 by the board headed by former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker. With about 1,500 first line planes in service now and upwards of 1,000 on order, the army expects to realize the Baker objective by mid-1940.

Officials stressed that congressional authorizations represent future goals and provide no funds to attain them. Actual appropriations are acted upon separately.

Major-General Henry H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps, disclosed that it intended to concentrate more on speed, and factors other than size, in future construction.

No more 32-ton "super flying fortress" bombers, of which the army has a single experimental model, are scheduled to be built for the time being. The 17-ton "flying fortress," such as made round-trip flights this year to South America, will remain the army's largest. Thirty-nine of these are already in service or building.

SORE FEET

To His Soldiers Napoleon Said, "OIL YOUR FEET"

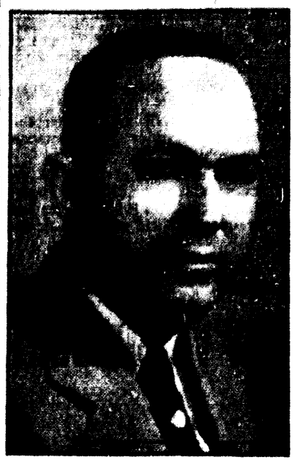

Sore, aching, burning feet probably cause more misery—more distress—more bad temper and cursing than most other human ailments.

"Oil your feet," ordered Napoleon to his soldiers before a battle or a long march—he was a clever man.

Many a time—overnight—you can take out the sting—the soreness—the burning and aching from your poor distressed feet by giving them a good rubbing with penetrating medicated OMEGA OIL.

So don't worry—"Oil your feet" with Omega Oil tonight, walk more briskly and joyfully to work tomorrow—35c at your druggist. (Adv.)

EVANGELIST

REV. JOHN CAYLOR

REV. CAYLOR IS TO COME HERE

Shreveport Divine Will Conduct Revival In West Monroe

A series of evangelistic services will be conducted at the First Baptist church in West Monroe starting October 23 and ending November 6, with Rev. John Caylor, pastor of the Highland Baptist church in Shreveport delivering the messages daily.

Dr. Caylor is said to recognized as an outstanding pastor-evangelist. He received his bachelor's degree from Oklahoma Baptist university in 1920. He did postgraduate work at Southern Baptist Theological seminary in 1915-16 and at Southwestern Baptist Theological seminary in 1926-1927. He was ordained as minister in 1917.

From 1910 to 1914, Dr. Caylor was an instructor in private schools in Alabama and Florida, instructor at Southern Business college, Tuscaloosa, Ala., in 1922-23 and instructor in Townes' Bible chair at the University of Texas in 1923-24. He served as educational director for the First Baptist church, Oklahoma City, 1924-1925 and was executive secretary of the student department of the Baptist general convention of Texas from 1925 to 1932.

He was president of Burleson college in Greenville, Tex. from 1927-1930, when he became associate pastor of the Broadway Baptist church of Fort Worth, going in 1933 to Shreveport to his present pastorate.

Dr. Caylor is the author of the Baptist Student Organization plan and was organizer of the Baptist Students' union at the University of Alabama, the first of the kind in the south. He was a lesson writer for the Baptist Sunday School board of the Southern Baptist convention from 1927 to 1932.

MINORITY PLEA MADE BY DANES

Letter Quotes Excerpts From Hitler Self-Determination Speech

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The Danish minority in Schleswig-Holstein, making capital of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's own words on the treatment of minorities, has addressed an open letter to the fuehrer in an effort to improve the status of Danes living in northern Germany.

The letter appears in Der Schleswiger, a monthly publication in Flensburg, which is the mouthpiece for about 5,500 Danes living in Germany.

(Most of the minority lives in the lower section of the peninsula, between the Baltic and North sea, of which Denmark forms the tip. Part of Schleswig-Holstein voted in 1919 to merge with Denmark and the rest decided to stay in Germany.)

The letter quoted excerpts from Hitler's pronouncements on self-determination, and continued:

"We know that you, acclaimed by your people as creator of the new Reich, love your people above everything else and that we especially are certain to find your sympathy for the fact that we also (quoting Hitler) 'cling to our own racial nationality in unbounded love and faithfulness.'"

Acknowledging that the Danish minority is small, the letter declared nevertheless the minority "defends and will be alert for the future of its proud tradition and high ideals."

The letter proceeded to describe the minority's early history and complained of "over-zealous" local officials who, prejudiced against the Danes, are "degrading a neighbor people in contradiction to authoritative statements from the tongue of Hitler himself."

The letter charged that members of the minority were cut off from social benefits such as aid for large families and that Danish "living possibilities are being restricted."

The appeal closed with a "confident expectation" that orders would be given to those responsible.

"The words of the fuehrer regarding neighbor peoples and national minorities are to be taken to heart in every respect along the north border of the German Reich," the letter ended.

Hungary after the break-up of negotiations with Czechoslovakia.

(In Munich it was stated Hitler had asked that a similar yardstick be applied on the Czechoslovak-Hungarian border as was used in the Sudeteland—that Czechoslovak territory with more than 50 per cent of Hungarian peoples be ceded to Hungary forthwith and other claims be negotiated.

(In Paris it was reported that Hungary's plan to force another four-power conference had been abandoned after she discovered Germany was opposed to the idea.)

Hungary generally was quiet as the "protective measure" mobilization proceeded.

ANOTHER HELD IN JAIL-BREAK PLOT

Twelve Saws Given To Prisoners Allegedly Bought In Longview

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 15.—(AP)—A third alleged participant in the September 17 jail-break attempt by Harry and Truman Mahoney, convicted robbers of the Minden, La., Bank and Trust company, was arrested today in Fort Worth, Tex., as federal bureau of identification agents continued their investigation of the smuggling of hacksaws to the two bandits held in the Caddo parish jail.

Bessie Mahoney, 30, wife of Harry Mahoney, and Mable Mahoney, wife of Truman Mahoney, were arrested near Minden Friday night and lodged in the Caddo parish jail on charges of advising and assisting to make possible the escape of federal prisoners.

Details of the arrest of the alleged third participant were not disclosed here tonight.

The attempted escape was frustrated when Sheriff T. R. Hughes and Joe Leslie, Caddo parish jailer, discovered the men sawing through the bars of their eighth-floor cell.

The 12 saws which the Mahoney brothers were using in their escape attempt were bought in Longview, Tex., by a man employed by the wives of the two prisoners, authorities charged.

Proceedings were instituted to have the third alleged participant brought from Fort Worth to Shreveport, J. Fair Hardin, assistant federal attorney, said.

The two women, who pleaded not guilty when arraigned before United States Commissioner Albert Bryson today, were held in default of bonds of $10,000 each.

Dando Davis and Herbert Skaggs, the other two convicted participants in the Minden bank robbery in which $18,000 was taken last June 8, are also in the Caddo parish jail awaiting federal trial.

ICKES, PEEVED, WILL NOT SPEAK

Boulder City's altitude is 2,400 feet but there are numerous high mountains nearby. Reno's altitude is 4,484 feet.

The secretary said he was leaving San Francisco tonight but did not disclose his destination. His itinerary called for an appearance in Los Angeles next Wednesday.

In Washington, a colleague of Ickes said the secretary took offense at reports that posters had been displayed in Hollywood advertising "a chance to see a cabinet officer at $2.20 a ticket."

The colleague said the speech, "The Crisis of Democracy," was to be delivered under the auspices of the Hollywood Council for Democracy. He said it had not yet been cancelled but that Ickes might refuse to deliver it because of what might be considered an affront to his position.

The speech was advertised by the Hollywood Anti-Nazi league as "the most important address Ickes ever has given."

The league's organ, "Hollywood Now," described Ickes as "the liberal spokesman for President Roosevelt and the most quoted member of the cabinet." It added:

"Tickets for the Wednesday night meeting are on sale at the Hollywood Anti-Nazi league. They are priced 10 cents to $1.10."

UNUSUAL WATCHES PLEASE

An efficient little timepiece set in a frivolous case makes an excellent gift for the "first lady" of your life. If she likes tailored suits, look at the clever lapel watches smart shops are showing. They detract just enough from the severity of the tailored costume. One is merely a diminutive dial set in a metal skeleton framework; another is key-shaped, the dial forming the broad end of the key. More feminine is a tiny locket watch pendant from a slender linked gold bracelet, or a small clip watch brilliantly set with diamonds. All unusual in design, and definitely created to please feminine fancy.

HIGHS FOR YEAR SHOWN BY STEEL

Evidence Of Continued Trade And Industrial Improvement Piles Up

By Thomas E. Flanagan

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Evidence of continued improvement piled up on the nation's trade and industrial ledger this week.

Vitality was most pronounced in the industrial field, where steel production and carloadings rose to new highs for the year.

Retail trade improved, but gains were spotty owing to unusually warm weather in some regions. Although nearly all important cities scored gains over the previous week, most totals suffered by comparison with last year.

A week ago, various experts said the fall performance of general business would depend in large measure on the automobile industry. And this week—for the first time since early May—the industry's output jumped over the 50,000-a-week level. Ward's automotive reports said that "orders at factories are at excellent levels."

Two divisions of General Motors corporation called more than 4,000 employers back to work.

The motor manufacturers, looking for an increased public buying power, were cheered by reports of increasing employment and wages in other industries and estimates, which pointed to generally favorable outlook for crops.

Not the least important thing which happened to the automotive industry was the cutting of prices on steel sheets. Experts said lower prices for sheet steels should help the automobile producers.

Some saw significance in the fact that only a few steel companies have been operating at a rate which is high enough to insure a profit at present prices. As the week finished, the paramount question was whether recent price cuts would precipitate a new wave of price-cutting.

Although sagging retail trade caused by warm weather in various centers put a dent in wholesale business, the tone generally was good.

The decisions of two major utility holding company systems to submit plans for simplification under the holding company act were hailed as a token of cooperation between government and business.

The American Iron and Steel institute reported operations at 51.4 per cent of capacity, compared with 47.9 the previous week, 45.3 a month ago and 63.6 a year ago.

The Association of American Railroads reported carloadings in the week ended October 8 at 702,964, a slight gain over the preceding week but 13.5 per cent under a year ago. Ward's reported motor production at 50,450 units, compared with 37,665 the week before and 89,635 in the corresponding week of 1937.

FARM ASSEMBLY SET WEDNESDAY

District Meeting To Discuss Organization Under Federal Program

FARMERVILLE, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—Whether the farmers of Union, Claiborne, Jackson, Ouachita and portions of Bienville parishes are to share measurably in the soil-building program of the federal government will depend largely on the active interest shown in a meeting to be held here at the Union parish court house on Wednesday.

This meeting, sponsored by state extension officials, will be held for the purpose of organizing a district, made up of territory embraced in the five parishes and totalling more than a million acres, whereby an agency for terracing lands, for re-forestation and for forestation and for making pastures that will furnish profitable grazing, can be set up.

The meeting will be directed by Dean J. G. Lee of Louisiana State university and his associates. Among those who will discuss the need for such an organization will be Dean Lee, Director C. T. Dowell of the state experiment stations; J. W. Bateman, head of the state extension work; C. E. Fernandez, attorney and professor at L. S. U.

Among the local men who are actively promoting the meeting are: W. O. Ferguson, acting project manager of the soil conservation work now under way in portions of Union parish; James Hinton, superintendent of the Farmerville CCC camp; S. D. Reich, Union parish agricultural agent.

Invitations have been extended to groups of farmers throughout the area covered by the proposed organization to send representatives to the Farmerville meeting. Responses to these invitations indicate an attendance of probably five hundred "dirt" farmers.

ments were dispatched immediately to centers of disorder.

There were murder, arson and sabotage in various parts of the country.

Mustafa Darwish, an Arab police inspector, was shot and killed by an unidentified assailant outside the Jaffa central police station.

All the gates of the old city except the Jaffa gate were closed as troops patrolled the streets in military trucks.

PLAN TO BECOME RECOVERY FACTOR

spring and should reach a peak between 15 months and two years from the present, or in the summer and fall of 1940.

Chief elements in the defense program, aside from the obvious ones of army, navy and merchant marine expansion, were described as these:

1. A public utility expansion program involving expenditures of not less than $3,000,000,000 in the first phase (15 months to two years), for new power plants and interlocking transmission lines.

2. A railroad rehabilitation program, still in a very tentative state, in which the sum of $1,000,000,000 has been loosely mentioned, divided into about $300,000,000 for new rails and the remaining two-thirds for rolling stock and other necessary equipment to bring the roads, now generally in bad mechanical shape, to a point of military efficiency.

3. Industrial plant rehabilitation, chiefly in chemical automobile, airplane, and heavy industry machine-making plants, in which buildings and equipment would be brought to top-notch efficiency for war-time defense purposes. Again estimates are at the tentative stage, but a rough survey has indicated that not less than $1,000,000,000 would be required over a 15-month period.

LORD STANLEY DIES

LONDON, Oct. 16 (Sunday).—(AP)—Lord Stanley, secretary for dominions in the British cabinet and heir to the Earl of Derby, died at 3:30 a. m. today (9:30 p. m. central standard time Saturday). He was 44 years old. Lord Stanley died in a London clinic following an illness of several weeks. He underwent an operation upon his return from Canada last month.

D. P. GERALD RETURNS HERE

Comes Back As District Manager Of New England Mutual Company

D. P. Gerald, who left this city a year ago, has returned to Monroe as district manager for the New England Mutual Life Insurance company, and has opened offices at 220 South Grand street.

For 25 years Mr. Gerald has successfully engaged in the life insurance field. From 1930 to 1937 he was located here as district manager for the Mutual Life Insurance company of New York. He also served this company in New Orleans, Baton Rouge, Lake Charles and Shreveport.

"I am well pleased with my appointment as district manager for the New England Mutual Life Insurance company in Monroe as I have many friends in this city and consider it one of the most progressive in the state," Mr. Gerald declared. "During my previous seven years in Monroe I was fortunate in building up a wide circle of friends and acquaintances and I look forward to the privilege of meeting them again and serving their insurance requirements."

The New England Mutual Life Insurance company was the first chartered mutual life insurance company in America, receiving its charter in 1835. Since then it has grown to become one of the most powerful life insurance companies in the country with strong resources backing its operations. The most liberal policy provisions are featured by the New England Mutual Life Insurance company and all claims are promptly paid.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald are settled at their new home, located at 807 North Seventh street. Two daughters, Avonia Gerald and Anna Frances Gerald, are attending universities, Avonia being at the Southern Baptist Theological seminary, Fort Worth, Tex., and Anna Frances at L. S. U. music school.

MAY ASK 4,000 ARMY AIRPLANES

Would Be Nearly Double Present Goal Of First Line War Craft

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Military circles heard tonight that the war department was considering asking congress to authorize a future strength of 4,000 or more planes for the army air corps—nearly double the present goal of 2,320 first line war craft.

This development came shortly after President Roosevelt had announced that the country's defense needs were being resurveyed in the light of world conditions. Mr. Roosevelt said that the restudy, under way for a year, had been forced to a head by events of recent weeks.

A tentative figure mentioned as the objective under consideration by the war department was 4,120 aircraft. This would combine the army's former goal of 1,800 planes and the present one of 2,320, set in 1935 by the board headed by former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker. With about 1,500 first line planes in service now and upwards of 1,000 on order, the army expects to realize the Baker objective by mid-1940.

Officials stressed that congressional authorizations represent future goals and provide no funds to attain them. Actual appropriations are acted upon separately.

Major-General Henry H. Arnold, chief of the army air corps, disclosed that it intended to concentrate more on speed, and factors other than size, in future construction.

No more 32-ton "super flying fortress" bombers, of which the army has a single experimental model, are scheduled to be built for the time being. The 17-ton "flying fortress," such as made round-trip flights this year to South America, will remain the army's largest. Thirty-nine of these are already in service or building.

SORE FEET

To His Soldiers Napoleon Said, "OIL YOUR FEET"

Sore, aching, burning feet probably cause more misery—more distress—more bad temper and cursing than most other human ailments.

"Oil your feet," ordered Napoleon to his soldiers before a battle or a long march—he was a clever man.

Many a time—overnight—you can take out the sting—the soreness—the burning and aching from your poor distressed feet by giving them a good rubbing with penetrating medicated OMEGA OIL.

So don't worry—"Oil your feet" with Omega Oil tonight, walk more briskly and joyfully to work tomorrow—35c at your druggist. (Adv.)

EVANGELIST

REV. JOHN CAYLOR

REV. CAYLOR IS TO COME HERE

Shreveport Divine Will Conduct Revival In West Monroe

A series of evangelistic services will be conducted at the First Baptist church in West Monroe starting October 23 and ending November 6, with Rev. John Caylor, pastor of the Highland Baptist church in Shreveport delivering the messages daily.

Dr. Caylor is said to recognized as an outstanding pastor-evangelist. He received his bachelor's degree from Oklahoma Baptist university in 1920. He did postgraduate work at Southern Baptist Theological seminary in 1915-16 and at Southwestern Baptist Theological seminary in 1926-1927. He was ordained as minister in 1917.

From 1910 to 1914, Dr. Caylor was an instructor in private schools in Alabama and Florida, instructor at Southern Business college, Tuscaloosa, Ala., in 1922-23 and instructor in Townes' Bible chair at the University of Texas in 1923-24. He served as educational director for the First Baptist church, Oklahoma City, 1924-1925 and was executive secretary of the student department of the Baptist general convention of Texas from 1925 to 1932.

He was president of Burleson college in Greenville, Tex. from 1927-1930, when he became associate pastor of the Broadway Baptist church of Fort Worth, going in 1933 to Shreveport to his present pastorate.

Dr. Caylor is the author of the Baptist Student Organization plan and was organizer of the Baptist Students' union at the University of Alabama, the first of the kind in the south. He was a lesson writer for the Baptist Sunday School board of the Southern Baptist convention from 1927 to 1932.

India has a campaign urging protection of its sericulture industry.

Letter Quotes Excerpts From Hitler Self-Determination Speech

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The Danish minority in Schleswig-Holstein, making capital of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's own words on the treatment of minorities, has addressed an open letter to the fuehrer in an effort to improve the status of Danes living in northern Germany.

The letter appears in Der Schleswiger, a monthly publication in Flensburg, which is the mouthpiece for about 5,500 Danes living in Germany.

(Most of the minority lives in the lower section of the peninsula, between the Baltic and North sea, of which Denmark forms the tip. Part of Schleswig-Holstein voted in 1919 to merge with Denmark and the rest decided to stay in Germany.)

The letter quoted excerpts from Hitler's pronouncements on self-determination, and continued:

"We know that you, acclaimed by your people as creator of the new Reich, love your people above everything else and that we especially are certain to find your sympathy for the fact that we also (quoting Hitler) 'cling to our own racial nationality in unbounded love and faithfulness.'"

Acknowledging that the Danish minority is small, the letter declared nevertheless the minority "defends and will be alert for the future of its proud tradition and high ideals."

The letter proceeded to describe the minority's early history and complained of "over-zealous" local officials who, prejudiced against the Danes, are "degrading a neighbor people in contradiction to authoritative statements from the tongue of Hitler himself."

The letter charged that members of the minority were cut off from social benefits such as aid for large families and that Danish "living possibilities are being restricted."

The appeal closed with a "confident expectation" that orders would be given to those responsible.

"The words of the fuehrer regarding neighbor peoples and national minorities are to be taken to heart in every respect along the north border of the German Reich," the letter ended.

HUNGARY SPEEDS DEFENSE STEPS

Hungary after the break-up of negotiations with Czechoslovakia.

(In Munich it was stated Hitler had asked that a similar yardstick be applied on the Czechoslovak-Hungarian border as was used in the Sudetenland—that Czechoslovak territory with more than 50 per cent of Hungarian peoples be ceded to Hungary forthwith and other claims be negotiated.

(In Paris it was reported that Hungary's plan to force another four-power conference had been abandoned after she discovered Germany was opposed to the idea.)

Hungary generally was quiet as the "protective measure" mobilization proceeded.

ANOTHER HELD IN JAIL-BREAK PLOT

Twelve Saws Given To Prisoners Allegedly Bought In Longview

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 15.—(AP)—A third alleged participant in the September 17 jail-break attempt by Harry and Truman Mahoney, convicted robbers of the Minden, La., Bank and Trust company, was arrested today in Fort Worth, Tex., as federal bureau of identification agents continued their investigation of the smuggling of hacksaws to the two bandits held in the Caddo parish jail.

Bessie Mahoney, 30, wife of Harry Mahoney, and Mable Mahoney, wife of Truman Mahoney, were arrested near Minden Friday night and lodged in the Caddo parish jail on charges of advising and assisting to make possible the escape of federal prisoners.

Details of the arrest of the alleged third participant were not disclosed here tonight.

The attempted escape was frustrated when Sheriff T. R. Hughes and Joe Leslie, Caddo parish jailer, discovered the men sawing through the bars of their eighth-floor cell.

The 12 saws which the Mahoney brothers were using in their escape attempt were bought in Longview, Tex., by a man employed by the wives of the two prisoners, authorities charged.

Proceedings were instituted to have the third alleged participant brought from Fort Worth to Shreveport, J. Fair Hardin, assistant federal attorney, said.

The two women, who pleaded not guilty when arraigned before United States Commissioner Albert Bryson today, were held in default of bonds of $10,000 each.

Dando Davis and Herbert Skaggs, the other two convicted participants in the Minden bank robbery in which $18,000 was taken last June 8, are also in the Caddo parish jail awaiting federal trial.

The secretary said he was leaving San Francisco tonight but did not disclose his destination. His itinerary called for an appearance in Los Angeles next Wednesday.

In Washington, a colleague of Ickes said the secretary took offense at reports that posters had been displayed in Hollywood advertising "a chance to see a cabinet officer at $2.20 a ticket."

The colleague said the speech, "The Crisis of Democracy," was to be delivered under the auspices of the Hollywood Council for Democracy. He said it had not yet been cancelled but that Ickes might refuse to deliver it because of what might be considered an affront to his position.

The speech was advertised by the Hollywood Anti-Nazi league as "the most important address Ickes ever has given."

The league's organ, "Hollywood Now," described Ickes as "the liberal spokesman for President Roosevelt and the most quoted member of the cabinet." It added:

"Tickets for the Wednesday night meeting are on sale at the Hollywood Anti-Nazi league. They are priced 10 cents to $1.10."

UNUSUAL WATCHES PLEASE

An efficient little timepiece set in a frivolous case makes an excellent gift for the "first lady" of your life. If she likes tailored suits, look at the clever lapel watches smart shops are showing. They detract just enough from the severity of the tailored costume. One is merely a diminutive dial set in a metal skeleton framework; another is key-shaped, the dial forming the broad end of the key. More feminine is a tiny locket watch pendant from a slender linked gold bracelet, or a small clip watch brilliantly set with diamonds. All unusual in design, and definitely created to please feminine fancy.

HIGHS FOR YEAR SHOWN BY STEEL

Evidence Of Continued Trade And Industrial Improvement Piles Up

By Thomas E. Flanagan

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Evidence of continued improvement piled up on the nation's trade and industrial ledger this week.

Vitality was most pronounced in the industrial field, where steel production and carloadings rose to new highs for the year.

Retail trade improved, but gains were spotty owing to unusually warm weather in some regions. Although nearly all important cities scored gains over the previous week, most totals suffered by comparison with last year.

A week ago, various experts said the fall performance of general business would depend in large measure on the automobile industry. And this week—for the first time since early May—the industry's output jumped over the 50,000-a-week level. Ward's automotive reports said that "orders at factories are at excellent levels."

Two divisions of General Motors corporation called more than 4,000 employers back to work.

The motor manufacturers, looking for an increased public buying power, were cheered by reports of increasing employment and wages in other industries and estimates, which pointed to generally favorable outlook for crops.

Not the least important thing which happened to the automotive industry was the cutting of prices on steel sheets. Experts said lower prices for sheet steels should help the automobile producers.

Some saw significance in the fact that only a few steel companies have been operating at a rate which is high enough to insure a profit at present prices. As the week finished, the paramount question was whether recent price cuts would precipitate a new wave of price-cutting.

Although sagging retail trade caused by warm weather in various centers put a dent in wholesale business, the tone generally was good.

The decisions of two major utility holding company systems to submit plans for simplification under the holding company act were hailed as a token of cooperation between government and business.

The American Iron and Steel institute reported operations at 51.4 per cent of capacity, compared with 47.9 the previous week, 45.3 a month ago and 63.6 a year ago.

The Association of American Railroads reported carloadings in the week ended October 8 at 702,964, a slight gain over the preceding week but 13.5 per cent under a year ago. Ward's reported motor production at 50,450 units, compared with 37,665 the week before and 89,635 in the corresponding week of 1937.

FARM ASSEMBLY SET WEDNESDAY

District Meeting To Discuss Organization Under Federal Program

FARMERVILLE, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—Whether the farmers of Union, Claiborne, Jackson, Ouachita and portions of Bienville parishes are to share measurably in the soil-building program of the federal government will depend largely on the active interest shown in a meeting to be held here at the Union parish court house on Wednesday.

This meeting, sponsored by state extension officials, will be held for the purpose of organizing a district, made up of territory embraced in the five parishes and totalling more than a million acres, whereby an agency for terracing lands, for re-forestation and for forestation and for making pastures that will furnish profitable grazing, can be set up.

The meeting will be directed by Dean J. G. Lee of Louisiana State university and his associates. Among those who will discuss the need for such an organization will be Dean Lee, Director C. T. Dowell of the state experiment stations; J. W. Bateman, head of the state extension work; C. E. Fernandez, attorney and professor at L. S. U.

Among the local men who are actively promoting the meeting are: W. O. Ferguson, acting project manager of the soil conservation work now under way in portions of Union parish; James Hinton, superintendent of the Farmerville CCC camp; S. D. Reich, Union parish agricultural agent.

Invitations have been extended to groups of farmers throughout the area covered by the proposed organization to send representatives to the Farmerville meeting. Responses to these invitations indicate an attendance of probably five hundred "dirt" farmers.

ments were dispatched immediately to centers of disorder.

There were murder, arson and sabotage in various parts of the country.

Mustafa Darwish, an Arab police inspector, was shot and killed by an unidentified assailant outside the Jaffa central police station.

Jerusalem itself was being patrolled by troops, armed with machine-guns, and reinforced police.

Police combed the old city for suspects after a bomb was thrown at the Damascus gate. The bomb failed to explode. Many persons were arrested.

All the gates of the old city except the Jaffa gate were closed as troops patrolled the streets in military trucks.

Jews worshipping at the Wailing Wall were forced to leave.

spring and should reach a peak between 15 months and two years from the present, or in the summer and fall of 1940.

Chief elements in the defense program, aside from the obvious ones of army, navy and merchant marine expansion, were described as these:

1. A public utility expansion program involving expenditures of not less than $3,000,000,000 in the first phase (15 months to two years), for new power plants and interlocking transmission lines.

2. A railroad rehabilitation program, still in a very tentative state, in which the sum of $1,000,000,000 has been loosely mentioned, divided into about $300,000,000 for new rails and the remaining two-thirds for rolling stock and other necessary equipment to bring the roads, now generally in bad mechanical shape, to a point of military efficiency.

3. Industrial plant rehabilitation, chiefly in chemical automobile, airplane, and heavy industry machine-making plants, in which buildings and equipment would be brought to top-notch efficiency for war-time defense purposes. Again estimates are at the tentative stage, but a rough survey has indicated that not less than $1,000,000,000 would be required over a 15-month period.

TULANE WINS THRILLER FROM RICE, 26 TO 17

BRUNNER STARS AS GREEN WAVE BATTERS OWLS

Ernie Lain Rises To Heights For Losers With Unerring Passes

By Ed Desobry

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Tulane university's up-and-coming Green Wave not only stole Rice's air thunder but counted on the ground as well in a magnificent 26-to-17 victory over the Texas Owls here today.

The contest was spine-tingling throughout and showed Tulane possessed a backfield, sparked by Warren Brunner, with as versatile an attack as any seen in these parts this year. And today, too, Rice's 226-pound Ernie Lain rose to the heights and, almost single-handed, nearly gained victory on his unerring passes and runs before 24,000 fans.

Rice seemed on the way to a steamroller victory in the first few minutes as Paul Hancock and Lain took the ball on their own 42, sliced off five-yard gains and Ollie Cordill slithered to the Tulane 10. Tulane braced, however, took the ball on downs and punted out to the 44. Lain connected for three passes to the 25 and Matt Landry, guard, place-kicked a field goal from a difficult angle.

Tulane rallied quickly and started a power drive which carried from its 16 to the Rice 10 before Rice recovered a fumble. A Rice fumble by Hugo Stevens, recovered by Emanuel Defraites, Tulane end, on the Rice 40 led to a punt exchange which placed Tulane on Rice's 33. Hays then passed beautifully to Paul Krueger, sub for Stanley Nyhan, on the 25 and he eluded several tacklers to score. Bob Kellogg's placement was blocked.

Shortly after the kickoff, Butler intercepted a Lain pass on the Rice 25 and Brunner then passed to Ralph Bodney, end, for another touchdown with only 45 seconds remaining in the half. Billy Payne's placement was good.

Rice came back after the half with renewed strength, took the ball on the kickoff and worked steadily down the field on substantial gains by Lain and Jake Schuehle for four consecutive first downs. Lain then passed into the arms of Joe Brandon, end, behind the goal, but Brandon missed. On the next play, almost a duplication of the preceding one, Brandon held the ball for a touchdown. Landry's place-kick was good.

Tulane started another drive in the final period and Payne, Cassibry and Brunner ran spectacularly to put the ball on the Rice three, from where Harry Hays, sub for Brunner, scored. Tom O'Boyle's place-kick was blocked.

An intercepted pass gave Tulane the ball on the Rice 40 and Butler made a brilliant run off tackle to the three. Brunner scampered through for the score. On the placement attempt, Tulane was put back 15 yards for holding but Cassibry's kick hit the mass and bounced over.

Lain threw passes desperately in the closing minutes, often to see players drop perfect ones, until E. Y. Steakley held on and lateraled to Stokes Green, end, on the Tulane 30. On the next play, Steakley, sub for Williams, took Lain's pass for a score and Landry converted from placement.

The lineup:

Rice	Pos.	Tulane
Brandon	LE	Bodney
Hines	LT	Kirchem
Hairston	LG	Dailey
Arthur	C	Smith
Landry	RG	Groves
Green	RT	Miller
Williams	RE	Wenzel
Hancock	QB	Nyhan
Cordill	LH	Brunner
Schuehle	RH	Banker
Lain	FB	Gloden

Score by periods:

FERRIDAY HIGH BEATS ST. MARY'S TEAM, 19-6

FERRIDAY, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—The Ferriday High school Bulldogs continued their winning streak here last night by downing St. Mary's Crusaders of Natchitoches, 19 to 6.

Ferriday scored in the first 30 seconds of play. Loren Boyter, hard-driving fullback, took the opening kickoff 60 yards but stumbled and fell on the Crusaders' five. The Bulldogs scored on the next play. Yancey and Fedrick accounted for two more Ferriday touchdowns.

Tennessee Shatters Alabama Championship Hopes, 13-0

HOPES OF VOLS AND VANDY SOAR IN SOUTHEASTERN

Tennessee Shatters Alabama's Title Hope; Commodores Beat Ole Miss

ATLANTA, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Southeastern conference championship hopes of Tennessee's orange-shirted Volunteers and Vanderbilt's Commodores rose today as they smashed to victories over conference foes.

Tennessee shattered the title hopes of the mighty Alabama Crimson Tide, early season victors over Southern California, with a stunning 13 to 0 defeat at Birmingham before 26,000 spectators. It was the Volunteers' first win over the Tide since 1932.

A fourth period, attack featured by a 31-yard touchdown pass, carried Vanderbilt to a 13 to 7 victory over the University of Mississippi, the team that upset Louisiana State in a season's opener.

Tennessee and Vanderbilt meet at Nashville November 12.

In intersectional games, Tulane defeated the pre-season favored Rice Institute team, 26 to 17, at New Orleans before 24,000 fans. L. S. U. and Oklahoma previously had downed the Texans.

After a great battle, Georgia Tech bowed to Duke, a Southern conference foe, 6 to 0, before 28,000 at Durham. Duke packed its punch in a powerhouse drive at the first of the second half to score.

An underrated Washington and Lee team of the Southern conference outplayed a favored Kentucky team at Lexington for an 8 to 0 victory.

The University of Georgia Bulldogs remained unbeaten and untied this season by pounding out a 28 to 19 win over Mercer university of Macon at Athens, Go. It was the 19th meeting of the teams. Mercer has never beaten the Bulldogs.

Mississippi State suffered its first setback of the season Friday night, bowing to Auburn, 20 to 6, at Montgomery as the Plainsmen hit a comeback trail after losing to Tennessee, 7 to 0.

Sewanee, crushed little Hiwassee, 44 to 0, Friday for its first victory of the 1938 season.

Louisiana State university trounced Loyola, 47 to 6, in a night game at Baton Rouge, and Florida's hapless team lost to Miami university, 19 to 7, at Gainesville.

NIGHT CLUB ACTS PUT ON BY TIGERS

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Louisiana State tossed a bit of night club entertainment in its between-half show at the Loyola game tonight. The giant L. S. U. band spelled "Wolves" to the Loyola stands in electric lights mounted on instruments and musicians' caps as stadium lights were darkened.

As the band swung into "Dinah," purple and gold lights lit up a raised platform. L. S. U.'s "Tigerettes," pretty Marie Bonnette and Joyce Sweeney, climbed up and danced two choruses of the swing tune.

The band wheeled to the L. S. U. side of the stadium, maneuvering in darkness, and spelled "Ragtime" in lights. Joyce Golden, L. S. U. freshman co-ed, clad in a dazzling white satin uniform, mounted another dance stand and jigged a chorus of "Alexander's Ragtime Band" as she whirled a baton.

Loyola's band spelled "L. S. U." in giant letters while playing the Tiger alma mater.

DUNN LEADS MIAMI TO TRIUMPH OVER FLORIDA

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Captain Eddie Dunn, Miami's great halfback, led his Hurricane teammates to a 19-to-7 victory over Florida tonight in the first football encounter between the two universities.

Approximately 15,000 persons saw the Florida Gators dominate play in the first half but falter under the Miami onslaught after the rest period.

ARKANSAS BEATS TEXAS, 42 TO 6

Martin Leads Razorbacks To Overwhelming Victory Over Longhorns

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Lanky Neal Martin, a swirling dervish of a halfback, led the scarlet-shirted University of Arkansas Razorbacks to a 42 to 6 victory over the bewildered Texas Longhorns.

Thrice in the first half Martin swivel-hipped his way over the Texas goal line from within the 10-yard stripe. He watched proceedings from the bench in the last half.

The Razorbacks surprised 10,000 shirt-sleeved fans by a ground attack which gained 207 yards through the Texas line.

The hapless Texans scored first, Peterson blocking a Porker punt and picking it up to race 46 yards into pay dirt.

Arkansas started a drive immediately. Lyons passed 24 yards from the 33 to Hickey, and Martin skirted through tackle to score standing up.

Shortly afterward Bryan fumbled on the eight and Mosley recovered for Arkansas on the four. Martin cantered around end for a touchdown.

Martin then intercepted a Texas pass on the visitors' 35, ran 15 yards and lateraled to Mosley who was stopped at the five. Martin hit right tackle for the tally.

In midfield, Lyons later passed 15 yards to Yates who eluded the Texas secondary.

OLLA ELEVEN RALLIES TO WHIP WISNER, 13-6

OLLA, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—The Olla Tigers, overcoming a one-touchdown lead by the Wisner Bulldogs, defeated the Franklin parish aggregation, 13 to 6, yesterday.

Wisner scored in the first period but the locals came back in the second quarter to tie the score on a pass, Keeth to Bryant. Bryant was stopped on the Wisner eight but Nobles, Tiger fullback, plowed into him and rushed him free and over the goal. The score remained tied until the final period, when Bryant skirted left end for 25 yards and a touchdown. Cornwell converted the extra point after the final touchdown, the only point after touchdown made in the game.

TIDE THREATENS VOLUNTEERS BUT 4 TIMES IN TILT

Cafego And Coffman Star; Deepest Crimson Penetration Is To 22-Yard Line

By Kenneth Gregory

LEGION FIELD, BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 15.—(AP)—The orange-shirted Volunteers of Tennessee shattered the championship hopes of a heralded great Alabama Crimson Tide today with a stunning 13 to 0 victory.

A jammed stadium that held close to 26,000 spectators saw George Cafego, Len Coffman and other scrapping backs battle to a comparatively easy triumph behind a line that opened big gaps in the husky Alabama forward wall and consistently outcharged the opponents.

Only four times did the Crimson Tide penetrate Tennessee territory, the chief threat being checked at the Volunteers' 22-yard line in the closing minutes after Alabama had resorted to a passing attack when the Tennessee line would not yield.

Tennessee drove 68 yards on straight running plays to score after 12 minutes of play in the opening period and counted again in the third on a drive of 51 yards, featured by a spectacular 33-yard dash by Cafego.

With Cafego, Coffman and Sophomore Box Foxx alternating on picking up yardage through the tackles and around the ends, Tennessee counted its opening score on a determined drive. Coffman vaulted across from the one-foot line for the touchdown. Captain Bowden Wyatt missed the extra point.

Early in the third period, Wild Horse Cafego broke loose from his own 29, shook off a half dozen tac-

Northeast Center To Play Henderson State Thursday

Game To Take Place In Hope, Ark.; Teachers Seek First Victory

The Indians of Northeast Center of L. S. U., who gained a moral victory over the powerful Louisiana State freshmen here Friday night by holding the Baby Bengals to a 13 to 6 score, will clash with the Henderson State Teachers college of Arkadelphia, Ark., next Thursday night at Hope, Ark.

The game will be the first college grid battle ever fought at Hope, where a $100,000 stadium was recently completed for Hope High school.

The Tribe line, despite the absence of the veteran Ernest Freeman, who is nursing an injury, played a brilliant game against the L. S. U. frosh. In fact, the entire Indian aggregation played surprisingly alert ball in holding the more favored visitors almost completely in check, and their display of power brought back memories of the undefeated 1937 aggregation that was scored on only three times during the entire season.

A continuance in the Henderson battle of the brand of football played by the Indians Friday night would go a long way toward routing the Teachers, who have yet to win a game over Center.

The Redmen, however, seem destined to face Henderson without the services of Edwin "Pop" Walker, veteran quarterback from Waldron, Ark. Walker, who suffered a chest injury early in the L. S. U. frosh game, was a patient at the Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic last night, and, although his condition is not regarded as serious, attending physicians stated it would be best for him to remain in bed for a few days.

John Semago is a likely starter in the place of Walker, should the veteran be unable to return to the lineup by the middle of the week, but Coach Jim Malone may see fit to move some other dependable back into the field general's role.

With the exception of Walker, the Tribe emerged from Friday's battle in good condition, barring the general run of bruises and sore muscles. Allen McNees, veteran tackle, and Bill Pittman, guard, appeared the most sorely bruised, but they both will be back in the thick of hard work by Tuesday. Jack Penick, reserve tackle, is nursing a minor elbow injury, his remembrance from the Baby Bengals.

Henderson State Teachers, although beaten by Center in all past engagements, are boasting their strongest team in year, and the Tribe will do well to remember the lessons learned from the strong Oklahoma Military academy and Kilgore's Rangers. But a repetition of their most recent performance should turn back the Teachers for the fourth straight season.

In three previous games Northeast Center has scored a total of 60 points against Henderson to the Teachers' eight points. Last year was the first time the Arkansas aggregation was able to score on the Tribe and it will be out to mark up its initial win over the locals Thursday.

Results of previous games with Henderson, all won by Northeast Center, were: 1937, 21 to 8; 1936, 26 to 0, and 1935, 13 to 0.

OAK GROVE AND MANGHAM PLAY TO SCORELESS TIE

MANGHAM, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—The Oak Grove Tigers and the Mangham Dragons battled to a scoreless tie here yesterday afternoon. The Dragons threatened to score late in the final period, but after they got into a scoring position, Jack Ainsworth, Oak Grove, halted the threat by crashing through the line to throw the Mangham ball carrier for a 12-yard loss.

Electric safety lamps are being installed in coal mines of Wales.

BAYLOR BLANKS CENTENARY BY SCORE OF 14-0

Bears Score In First Two Quarters To Defeat Gentlemen From Shreveport

WACO, Tex., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Two fine backs dueled today but Baylor's "Bullet Bill" Patterson had more help and shoved Weenie Bynum and his Centenary Gentlemen into a 14 to 0 defeat before 5,000 fans.

The Bears scored early in the first quarter and again in the second period. The Baylor line rose to throttle every Centenary thrust—several of which were close.

Baylor's drive for the first touchdown started from the Centenary 47-yard line. Patterson passed to Sam Boyd for 13 yards. James Witt cut through the line to the two-yard stripe. Patterson circled end to score.

A 15-yard penalty and a pass for 36 yards from Patterson to W. J. Wimpee gave the Bears their second counter.

The lineups:

Baylor	Pos.	Centenary
Boyd	LE	Outzs
Black	LT	Jones
Taylor	LG	Steeples
Nelson	C	Rawlinson
Akin	RG	Zimmerman
Robinson	RT	Vinson
Wimpee	RE	Warren

TULANE WINS THRILLER FROM RICE, 26 TO 17

BRUNNER STARS AS GREEN WAVE BATTERS OWLS

Ernie Lain Rises To Heights For Losers With Unerring Passes

By Ed Desobry

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Tulane university's up-and-coming Green Wave not only stole Rice's air thunder but counted on the ground as well in a magnificent 26-to-17 victory over the Texas Owls here today.

The contest was spine-tingling throughout and showed Tulane possessed a backfield, sparked by Warren Brunner, with as versatile an attack as any seen in these parts this year. And today, too, Rice's 226-pound Ernie Lain rose to the heights and, almost single-handed, nearly gained victory on his unerring passes and runs before 24,000 fans.

Rice seemed on the way to a steamroller victory in the first few minutes as Paul Hancock and Lain took the ball on their own 42, sliced off five-yard gains and Ollie Cordill slithered to the Tulane 10. Tulane braced, however, took the ball on downs and punted out to the 44. Lain connected for three passes to the 25 and Matt Landry, guard, place-kicked a field goal from a difficult angle.

Tulane rallied quickly and started a power drive which carried from its 16 to the Rice 10 before Rice recovered a fumble. A Rice fumble by Hugo Stevens, recovered by Emanuel Defraites, Tulane end, on the Rice 40 led to a punt exchange which placed Tulane on Rice's 33. Hays then passed beautifully to Paul Krueger, sub for Stanley Nyhan, on the 25 and he eluded several tacklers to score. Bob Kellogg's placement was blocked.

Shortly after the kickoff, Butler intercepted a Lain pass on the Rice 25 and Brunner then passed to Ralph Bodney, end, for another touchdown with only 45 seconds remaining in the half. Billy Payne's placement was good.

Rice came back after the half with renewed strength, took the ball on the kickoff and worked steadily down the field on substantial gains by Lain and Jake Schuehle for four consecutive first downs. Lain then passed into the arms of Joe Brandon, end, behind the goal, but Brandon missed. On the next play, almost a duplication of the preceding one, Brandon held the ball for a touchdown, Landry's place-kick was good.

Tulane started another drive in the final period and Payne, Cassibry and Brunner ran spectacularly to put the ball on the Rice three, from where Harry Hays, sub for Brunner, scored. Tom O'Boyle's place-kick was blocked.

An intercepted pass gave Tulane the ball on the Rice 40 and Butler made a brilliant run off tackle to the three. Brunner scampered through for the score. On the placement attempt, Tulane was put back 15 yards for holding but Cassibry's kick hit the mass and bounced over.

Lain threw passes desperately in the closing minutes, often to see players drop perfect ones, until E. Y. Steakley held on and lateraled to Stokes Green, end, on the Tulane 30. On the next play, Steakley, sub for Williams, took Lain's pass for a score and Landry converted from placement.

The lineup:

Rice	Pos.	Tulane
Brandon	LE	Bodney
Hines	LT	Kirchem
Hairston	LG	Dailey
Arthur	C	Smith
Landry	RG	Groves
Green	RT	Miller
Williams	RE	Wenzel
Hancock	QB	Nyhan
Cordill	LH	Brunner
Schuehle	RH	Banker
Lain	FB	Gloden

Score by periods:

Rice	3	0	7	7—17

FERRIDAY HIGH BEATS ST. MARY'S TEAM, 19-6

FERRIDAY, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—The Ferriday High school Bulldogs continued their winning streak here last night by downing St. Mary's Crusaders of Natchitoches, 19 to 6.

Ferriday scored in the first 30 seconds of play. Loren Boyter, hard-driving fullback, took the opening kickoff 60 yards but stumbled and fell on the Crusaders' five. The Bulldogs scored on the next play. Yancey and Fedrick accounted for two more Ferriday touchdowns.

Tennessee Shatters Alabama Championship Hopes, 13-0

Tennessee Shatters Alabama's Title Hope; Commodores Beat Ole Miss

ATLANTA, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Southeastern conference championship hopes of Tennessee's orange-shirted Volunteers and Vanderbilt's Commodores rose today as they smashed to victories over conference foes.

Tennessee shattered the title hopes of the mighty Alabama Crimson Tide, early season victors over Southern California, with a stunning 13 to 0 defeat at Birmingham before 26,000 spectators. It was the Volunteers' first win over the Tide since 1932.

A fourth period, attack featured by a 31-yard touchdown pass, carried Vanderbilt to a 13 to 7 victory over the University of Mississippi, the team that upset Louisiana State in a season's opener.

Tennessee and Vanderbilt meet at Nashville November 12.

In intersectional games, Tulane defeated the pre-season favored Rice Institute team, 26 to 17, at New Orleans before 24,000 fans. L. S. U. and Oklahoma previously had downed the Texans.

After a great battle, Georgia Tech bowed to Duke, a Southern conference foe, 6 to 0, before 28,000 at Durham. Duke packed its punch in a powerhouse drive at the first of the second half to score.

An underrated Washington and Lee team of the Southern conference outplayed a favored Kentucky team at Lexington for an 8 to 0 victory.

The University of Georgia Bulldogs remained unbeaten and untied this season by pounding out a 28 to 19 win over Mercer university of Macon at Athens, Go. It was the 19th meeting of the teams. Mercer has never beaten the Bulldogs.

Mississippi State suffered its first setback of the season Friday night, bowing to Auburn, 20 to 6, at Montgomery as the Plainsmen hit a comeback trail after losing to Tennessee, 7 to 0.

Sewanee, crushed little Hiwassee, 44 to 0, Friday for its first victory of the 1938 season.

Louisiana State university trounced Loyola, 47 to 6, in a night game at Baton Rouge, and Florida's hapless team lost to Miami university, 19 to 7, at Gainesville.

NIGHT CLUB ACTS PUT ON BY TIGERS

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Louisiana State tossed a bit of night club entertainment in its between-half show at the Loyola game tonight. The giant L. S. U. band spelled "Wolves" to the Loyola stands in electric lights mounted on instruments and musicians' caps as stadium lights were darkened.

As the band swung into "Dinah," purple and gold lights lit up a raised platform. L. S. U.'s "Tigerettes," pretty Marie Bonnette and Joyce Sweeney, climbed up and danced two choruses of the swing tune.

The band wheeled to the L. S. U. side of the stadium, maneuvering in darkness, and spelled "Ragtime" in lights. Joyce Golden, L. S. U. freshman co-ed, clad in a dazzling white satin uniform, mounted another dance stand and jigged a chorus of "Alexander's Ragtime Band" as she whirled a baton.

Loyola's band spelled "L. S. U." in giant letters while playing the Tiger alma mater.

Martin Leads Razorbacks To Overwhelming Victory Over Longhorns

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Lanky Neal Martin, a swirling dervish of a halfback, led the scarlet-shirted University of Arkansas Razorbacks to a 42 to 6 victory over the bewildered Texas Longhorns.

Thrice in the first half Martin swivel-hipped his way over the Texas goal line from within the 10-yard stripe. He watched proceedings from the bench in the last half.

The Razorbacks surprised 10,000 shirt-sleeved fans by a ground attack which gained 207 yards through the Texas line.

The hapless Texans scored first, Peterson blocking a Porker punt and picking it up to race 46 yards into pay dirt.

Arkansas started a drive immediately. Lyons passed 24 yards from the 35 to Hickey, and Martin skirted through tackle to score standing up.

Shortly afterward Bryan fumbled on the eight and Mosley recovered for Arkansas on the four. Martin cantered around end for a touchdown.

Martin then intercepted a Texas pass on the visitors' 35, ran 15 yards and lateraled to Mosley who was stopped at the five. Martin hit right tackle for the tally.

In midfield, Lyons later passed 15 yards to Yates who eluded the Texas secondary.

OLLA ELEVEN RALLIES TO WHIP WISNER, 13-6

OLLA, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—The Olla Tigers, overcoming a one-touchdown lead by the Wisner Bulldogs, defeated the Franklin parish aggregation, 13 to 6, yesterday.

Wisner scored in the first period but the locals came back in the second quarter to tie the score on a pass, Keeth to Bryant. Bryant was stopped on the Wisner eight but Nobles, Tiger fullback, plowed into him and rushed him free and over the goal. The score remained tied until the final period, when Bryant skirted left end for 25 yards and a touchdown. Cornwell converted the extra point after the final touchdown, the only point after touchdown made in the game.

TIDE THREATENS VOLUNTEERS BUT 4 TIMES IN TILT

By Kenneth Gregory

LEGION FIELD, BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 15.—(AP)—The orange-shirted Volunteers of Tennessee shattered the championship hopes of a heralded great Alabama Crimson Tide today with a stunning 13 to 0 victory.

A jammed stadium that held close to 26,000 spectators saw George Cafego, Len Coffman and other scrapping backs battle to a comparatively easy triumph behind a line that opened big gaps in the husky Alabama forward wall and consistently outcharged the opponents.

Only four times did the Crimson Tide penetrate Tennessee territory, the chief threat being checked at the Volunteers' 22-yard line in the closing minutes after Alabama had resorted to a passing attack when the Tennessee line would not yield.

Tennessee drove 68 yards on straight running plays to score after 12 minutes of play in the opening period and counted again in the third on a drive of 51 yards, featured by a spectacular 33-yard dash by Cafego.

With Cafego, Coffman and Sophomore Box Foxx alternating on picking up yardage through the tackles and around the ends, Tennessee counted its opening score on a determined drive. Coffman vaulted across from the one-foot line for the touchdown. Captain Bowden Wyatt missed the extra point.

Early in the third period, Wild Horse Cafego broke loose from his own 29, shook off a half dozen tac-

Northeast Center To Play Henderson State Thursday

Game To Take Place In Hope, Ark.; Teachers Seek First Victory

The Indians of Northeast Center of L. S. U., who gained a moral victory over the powerful Louisiana State freshmen here Friday night by holding the Baby Bengals to a 13 to 6 score, will clash with the Henderson State Teachers college of Arkadelphia, Ark., next Thursday night at Hope, Ark.

The game will be the first college grid battle ever fought at Hope, where a $100,000 stadium was recently completed for Hope High school.

The Tribe line, despite the absence of the veteran Ernest Freeman, who is nursing an injury, played a brilliant game against the L. S. U. frosh. In fact, the entire Indian aggregation played surprisingly alert ball in holding the more favored visitors almost completely in check, and their display of power brought back memories of the undefeated 1937 aggregation that was scored on only three times during the entire season.

A continuance in the Henderson battle of the brand of football played by the Indians Friday night would go a long way toward routing the Teachers, who have yet to win a game over Center.

The Redmen, however, seem destined to face Henderson without the services of Edwin "Pop" Walker, veteran quarterback from Waldron, Ark. Walker, who suffered a chest injury early in the L. S. U. frosh game, was a patient at the Vaughan-Wright-Bendel clinic last night, and, although his condition is not regarded as serious, attending physicians stated it would be best for him to remain in bed for a few days.

John Semago is a likely starter in the place of Walker, should the veteran be unable to return to the lineup by the middle of the week, but Coach Jim Malone may see fit to move some other dependable back into the field general's role.

With the exception of Walker, the Tribe emerged from Friday's battle in good condition, barring the general run of bruises and sore muscles. Allen McNess, veteran tackle, and Bill Pittman, guard, appeared the most sorely bruised, but they both will be back in the thick of hard work by Tuesday. Jack Penick, reserve tackle, is nursing a minor elbow injury, his rememberance from the Baby Bengals.

Henderson State Teachers, although beaten by Center in all past engagements, are boasting their strongest team in year, and the Tribe will do well to remember the lessons learned from the strong Oklahoma Military academy and Kilgore's Rangers. But a repetition of their most recent performance should turn back the Teachers for the fourth straight season.

In three previous games Northeast Center has scored a total of 60 points against Henderson to the Teachers' eight points. Last year was the first time the Arkansas aggregation was able to score on the Tribe and it will be out to mark up its initial win over the locals Thursday.

Results of previous games with Henderson, all won by Northeast Center, were: 1937, 21 to 8; 1936, 26 to 0; and 1935, 13 to 0.

OAK GROVE AND MANGHAM PLAY TO SCORELESS TIE

MANGHAM, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—The Oak Grove Tigers and the Mangham Dragons battled to a scoreless tie here yesterday afternoon. The Dragons threatened to score late in the final period, but after they got into a scoring position, Jack Ainsworth, Oak Grove, halted the threat by crashing through the line to throw the Mangham ball carrier for a 12-yard loss.

BAYLOR BLANKS CENTENARY BY SCORE OF 14-0

Bears Score In First Two Quarters To Defeat Gentlemen From Shreveport

WACO, Tex., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Two fine backs dueled today but Baylor's "Bullet Bill" Patterson had more help and shoved Weenie Bynum and his Centenary Gentlemen into a 14 to 0 defeat before 5,000 fans.

The Bears scored early in the first quarter and again in the second period. The Baylor line rose to throttle every Centenary thrust—several of which were close.

Baylor's drive for the first touchdown started from the Centenary 47-yard line. Patterson passed to Sam Boyd for 13 yards. James Witt cut through the line to the two-yard stripe. Patterson circled end to score.

A 15-yard penalty and a pass for 36 yards from Patterson to W. J. Wimpee gave the Bears their second counter.

The lineups:

Baylor	Pos.	Centenary
Boyd	LE	Outz

LOUISIANA STATE OUTCLASSES LOYOLA, 47-6

WOLFPACK'S LONE SCORE IS RESULT OF TIGER FUMBLE

Bengals Shove Over 2 Tallies In First Period, 4 In Third And 1 In Fourth

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 15.—(AP)—The greater physical weight and reserve power of Louisiana State rolled up a 47 to 6 score over Loyola of New Orleans tonight in a football game witnessed by 10,000 fans.

L. S. U.'s Bayou Bengals shoved over two touchdowns in the first period, four in the third and one more in the last.

Loyola's single score came in the second period after Charlie Erdman fumbled on L. S. U.'s 13-yard line and Joe Fracchia recovered for Loyola. Fracchia went over for the touchdown a few plays later on a lateral pass from Eddie Bordes, who sparked the Loyola team both on offense and defense.

Both teams fumbled frequently and two bobbles on the part of Loyola players set the scene for L. S. U. touchdowns in the third period. But the Tigers clearly outclassed the New Orleans team from the start. Loyola never was able to enter L. S. U. territory on its own power.

The first Tiger touchdown came within the first three minutes of play as Guy (Cotton) Milner plunged over from the three-yard line, where L. S. U. had ploughed to a first down. A second touchdown came soon afterwards on a 17-yard pass from Jabbo Stell to Ken Kavanaugh.

Two long touchdown runs by Erdman were called back by officials on account of penalties. He ran 84 yards on one such play in the second period and ambled 50 yards on another in the third. But, following this last run, Erdman again tore off the 50-yard distance and was credited with a touchdown.

Erdman's score and two touchdowns made by Jake Staples after Loyola fumbles were followed in the third period by Milner's second touchdown on a 10-yard run, set up for the Tigers by Loyola's ill-starred attempt to punt out of trouble on fourth down.

L. S. U.'s third and fourth team players drove down to the Loyola goal late in the fourth period, where Simes scored the last Tiger touchdown.

Standout in the L. S. U. line was Eddie Gatto, veteran tackle. Galliano showed well for Loyola.

The lineups:

Loyola	Pos.	L. S. U.
McCann	LE	Kavanaugh
Buhler	LT	Friend
Hable	LG	Goree
Kissinger	C	D. Gormley
Faucheaux	RG	Clark
Vala	RT	Gatto

Minnesota, Outplayed By Michigan, Wins By One Point

TOLL HEAVY AS ROOF FALLS IN ON GRID GREAT

Pitt, T. C. U., Notre Dame, Minnesota, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Duke Unscathed

By Herbert W. Barker

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The roof fell in on football's mighty today, taking a heavy toll of the nation's undefeated but leaving unscathed such major powers as Pitt, Texas Christian, Minnesota, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Duke.

The east, south, midwest and far west all contributed to the casualty list as Holy Cross, Penn, Navy, New York university, Brown, Columbia, Cornell, Michigan, Wisconsin, Alabama, Mississippi and Oregon all fell by the wayside.

Alabama's defeat was perhaps the biggest surprise of the day. The Tide, easy conqueror of Southern California in its first test, fell victim to Tennessee power and the individual brilliance of George Cafego, 13-0. Cornell, hailed as one of the east's greatest array's yielded to Syracuse, 19-17, the winners scoring all their points in the final quarter.

Holy Cross, unbeaten since 1936, was nipped by undefeated Carnegie Tech, 7-6; Penn was surprisingly upset by an alert Princeton team, 13-0; Navy was stopped by Yale, 9-7 as Gil Humphrey passed for a touchdown and then kicked a game-winning field goal; Columbia, with Sid Luckman stopped cold, was trounced by Colgate, 12-0; New York university yielded to North Carolina, 7-0; while Brown, after fighting strenuously for the first half, bowed to undefeated Dartmouth, 34-13.

In the mid-west, Michigan's potent Wolverines outgained Minnesota all the way but was beaten by the margin of a point after touchdown, 7-6. Wisconsin, hitherto undefeated, was no match at all for Pitt's Panthers who rolled up a 26-6 count. Mississippi, which had scored a sensational victory over Louisiana State several weeks ago, itself fell victim to a late rally by Vanderbilt, 13-7. Oregon's hard-bitten array was soundly beaten by Stanford's hitherto disappointing Indians, 27-16.

The eastern program produced several other major developments as Purdue rallied to tie Fordham, 6-6; Army three times came from behind to trip Harvard, 20-17; and Michigan State ran up a 26-0 count on West Virginia.

Texas Christian gave new evidence of tremendous power in rolling over Texas A. and M., 34-6, a week after the Aggies had held Santa Clara to a 7-0 score. Arkansas pushed hapless Texas around, 42-6, as Baylor pinned a 14-0 defeat on non-Southwest conference Centenary.

Notre Dame spilled Illinois but Ohio State and Northwestern, on the one hand, and Indiana and Nebraska on the other, played to scoreless draws. Iowa defeated Chicago, 27-14.

Oklahoma began its Big Six drive by toppling Kansas, 19-0 as Iowa State, recent conqueror of Nebraska, outpointed Missouri, 16-13.

Tennessee's notable triumph over Alabama dominated the southern picture where Tulane handed Rice its third straight beating, 26-17; Duke nipped Georgia Tech, 6-0, and Washington and Lee surprised with an 8-0 verdict over Kentucky.

Washington, still seeking its first victory of the season, was beaten by Oregon State, 13-6, but California and Southern California came through as expected. California beat U. C. L. A., 20-7 and Southern California stopped Washington State, 19-6.

The dizzy Rocky Mountain "big seven" whirl got itself in a real tangle as Utah State bowed to Denver, 7-0, and Brigham Young was tied by Utah, 7-7. George Washington's Colonials trimmed Colorado, 13-0.

SPEEDY JACOLA BESTS SEABISCUIT; CHIEF THIRD

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 15.—(AP)—The mighty Seabiscuit bowed to a filly, the speedy Jacola, in the $7,500 added Laurel stakes one mile feature today. The Chief was third.

The brown filly owned by E. Friendly, set a new track record of 1:37 flat in beating C. S. Howard's big money winner. First place was worth $7,825. Seabiscuit added $1,500 to his earnings by taking second in what had been regarded widely as a tune-up for his "race of champions" against War Admiral at Pimlico November 1.

Jacola paid her backers $15.80, $5.20 and $3.50; Seabiscuit, $2.80 and $2.60; and The Chief, $5.00.

GRID OFFICIAL FATALLY STRICKEN DURING GAME

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Harris Moriarty, who umpired today's football game between North Carolina and New York university in the Yankee stadium, was stricken with a heart attack during the fourth period and died a few moments later in the dressing room under the grandstand.

Moriarty had been about to pick up the ball near the side-lines during the final period of the game, when he was stricken, and fell to the ground.

Attendants carried him under the grandstand, and a physician was summoned. Moriarty died before the physician could make his examination.

The Intercollegiate Football Guide lists Moriarty as a member of the Alabama Football Officials' association. He formerly was an officer of the Southern Officials' association.

STOUT-HEARTED CADETS RALLY TO DEFEAT HARVARD

Army Weathers Terrific Aerial Blast To Whip Crimsons, 20-17

By Bill King

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 15.—(AP)—The Army's stout-hearted Cadets rallied three times today after being mowed down by terrific aerial blasting to gain their seventh consecutive victory over a much-improved Harvard team, 20-17, before 45,000 football fans.

With five minutes remaining, Charles (Huey) Long prevented a third Harvard touchdown by intercepting a pass on his one-yard line and running it back to his 20. There he launched an aerial that Woody Wilson caught in midfield and carried it to within 12 inches of Harvard's last line, Long crashed inside tackle and Army led for the first time.

Twice before, the Cadets pulled into deadlocks but Harvard appeared to have them beaten, after the injured Clarence (Chief) Boston broke a 14-14 tie by place-kicking a 20-yard field goal.

The two other Army touchdowns were turned in by Art Frontczak on 27- and 80-yard runs.

Harvard first scored on an eight-yard pass to Don Daughters from Frank Foley in the end zone.

Bobby James aimed a perfect pass at MacDonald in the end zone for Harvard's other touchdown.

The lineups:

Harvard	Pos.	Army
Green	LE	Yeager
Healey	LT	Stella
Mellen	LG	Engstrom
Russell	C	Gillis
Glueck	RG	Little
Booth	RT	Lotozo
Daughters	RE	Sullivan
C. Wilson	QB	Frontczak
Harding	LH	Long
MacDonald	RH	W. Wilson
Smith	FB	Schwenk

Army	0	0	14	6	20
Harvard	0	7	7	3	17

Army scoring: Touchdowns, Frontczak 2, Long. Points after touchdowns, Long 2 (place-kicks). Harvard scoring: Touchdowns, Daughters, MacDonald. Field goal, Boston, sub for Glueck (place-kick). Points after touchdowns, Boston 2 (place-kicks).

Officials: Referee, W. T. Halloran (Providence); umpire, J. T. Clinton (Yale); head linesman, A. R. Lake (Lafayette); field judge, C. M. Waters (Williams).

PRINCETON BEATS PENN WITH 2 SPARKLING PLAYS

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 15.—(AP)—A pair of sparkling plays—each good for half the length of the field—carried Princeton to a 13-to-0 victory over Pennsylvania today with a crowd of about 30,000 waiting in vain for the Quakers to show their heralded might.

A pair of dynamic sophomores, Dave Allerdice and Bob Jackson, teamed to give the Tigers their first score on a perfectly executed pass.

Then, after bottling up Penn's power and passes with an efficiency that seemed too good to last, Princeton scored again on Captain Tom Mountain's brilliant 56-yard sprint with less than a minute of play remaining.

Allerdice threw a deadly accurate aerial which Jackson gathered at the five. Penn secondaries didn't lay hands on him.

HAYNESVILLE DEFEATS FAIR PARK TEAM, 13-0

HAYNESVILLE, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—Capitalizing on two blocked punts, the Haynesville Golden Tornado scored twice in the first five minutes of the third quarter to defeat the Fair Park Indians of Shreveport, 13 to 0, here last night.

Gladney White, Tornado tackle, blocked both Fair Park punts deep in Indian territory. A pass, H. Tinsley to F. Hall, gave the locals their first score after the initial blocked punt, and a few minutes later White blocked his second punt, and Grover Smith went over from Fair Park's one yard line.

The defeat dimmed Fair Park's hopes of a Class AA championship team. It was the Tornado's second conference victory.

GOPHERS HARD PUT TO HOLD HISTORIC LITTLE BROWN JUG

Fritz Crisler's Huskies Gain Edge In Everything In Battle But Score

By Jay Vessels

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Minnesota's mighty men of the gridiron, their powerhouse dynamited today by a scrappy Michigan wrecking crew, unveiled a puzzling passing attack to come from behind with six minutes to play and win, 7 to 6.

Some 55,000 homecoming fans saw the Big Ten champions retain the historic Little Brown Jug in a game in which Coach Fritz Crisler's Huskies gained the edge in everything but the score.

In the last quarter, with Michigan holding a 6-to-0 edge after a great 90-yard march, Coach Bernie Bierman's squad called on the injured Harold Van Every, triple-threat halfback, to search for success through the air.

Van Every shot a perfect strike from his own 48-yard line to Bill Johnson, substitute end, who caught the ball on the Michigan 18 and plunged to the 14 with three Michigan players taking a ride.

Two plunges took the ball to the 10. Van Every pitched another strike to Wilbur Moore. He grabbed it on the Michigan three and, with a trio of Wolverines hanging on, hit the goal. George Faust placekicked the extra and winning point.

Michigan outgained the Gophers from scrimmage almost two to one, completed seven out of 16 passes and flashed a terrific ground-gaining attack.

Using a plain, old-fashioned delayed buck, with Harmon and Kromer feeding Purucker the ball, Michigan slashed up the field in the third quarter, ripping Minnesota's heretofore impenetrable defense into bits.

They went into the fourth quarter with the ball on the Minnesota 21 and fourth down. Here Harmon crossed up the Gophers and shot a short pass to Smick on the Minnesota seven. Three plunges got six yards and Kromer shot over his own right tackle to score. Smick missed the extra point.

Lineups and summary:

Michigan	Pos.	Minnesota
Valek	LE	Mariucci
Janke	LT	Pederson
Brennan	LG	Bell
Kodros	C	Elmer
Heikkinen	RG	Twedell
Savilla	RT	Schultz
Nicholson	RE	Nash
Evashevski	QB	Faust
Purucker	LH	Moore
Harmon	RH	Buhler
Phillips	FB	Christiansen

Michigan	0	0	0	6	6
Minnesota	0	0	0	7	7

Michigan scoring: Touchdown, Kromer (sub for Harmon). Minnesota scoring: Touchdown, Moore. Point from try after touchdown, Faust (placement).

JANNAZZO, EDER BATTLE TO DRAW

HAMBURG, Germany, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Izzy Jannazzo of New York and Gustave Eder, German welterweight champion, battled to a 15-round draw tonight in a fight at Hanseaten hall. Eder was seeking revenge for a 1936 defeat by Jannazzo.

Jannazzo piled up a considerable advantage over Eder through the first seven rounds, using a fast left to keep Eder away. The German began connecting with powerful rights to the head and body after the seventh, however.

The decision was unpopular with the crowd which, attracted by Jannazzo's classy boxing style, felt the American should have been awarded the victory.

Eder left the ring with a badly swollen face. Jannazzo's nose was bleeding as the fight ended.

Among the 10,000 spectators was Max Schmeling, making his first public appearance since his one-round knockout by Joe Louis in New York last summer. He received an ovation.

Steve Dudas, the New Jersey heavyweight, also was present. Still another spectator was Heinz Lazek, European heavyweight champion, who has been mentioned as a possible opponent for Schmeling. Max is expected to fight in the same hall in January.

WASHINGTON AND LEE UPSETS KENTUCKY, 8-0

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Sparked by the flashy playing of Ray Craft, the Washington and Lee Generals upset a favored Kentucky football team, 8 to 0, today before 10,000 sweltering spectators.

Craft intercepted a pass midway of the second period and dashed 35 yards to the Wildcats' 31-yard line. From there the Generals drove to the one-yard line, where Bishop bucked over.

At the start of the final period the hard-driving W. and L. line smashed through to smear Zoeller back of the Kentucky goal for a safety.

The stout General line was too much for Kentucky and kept the Wildcats out of pay territory. Frequent pass interceptions checked numerous drives by both teams.

Neville To Face Powerful Haynesville Team Thursday

Odds Against Tigers As They Prepare To Tangle With Golden Tornado

The Neville High school Tigers, victorious in their initial class A conference game of the season with the Bastrop Rams last week, will meet the powerful Haynesville Golden Tornado next Thursday night at Haynesville in their seventh annual battle with the class AA aggregation.

The Bengals, while they have held Haynesville to some pretty close scores, have yet to defeat the Tornado and during the past six years Neville has crossed the Haynesville goal only twice.

Although the odds are against Coach Percy Brown's Tigers' chances of winning, a defeat by the Golden boys would not effect the locals' class A conference standing as it would have two years ago, before Haynesville joined the double A division.

However, a victory over Haynesville has been an objective of the Neville eleven for the past few years, and Coach Brown stated last night that his Tigers would battle the Tornado as if their championship aspirations depended on the outcome.

While Neville put the skids under Bastrop, 27 to 12, here last Thursday night, Haynesville, on the following night, won its second double A victory by stopping the Fair Park Indians of Shreveport, 13 to 0. The Indians apparently have their best team in years, but the Tornado capitalized on a couple of breaks to trim their Shreveport rivals.

The Tigers rested Friday and then journeyed to Haynesville to witness the Tornado-Indian battle. The entire squad saw the game, but whether any good was derived from the "wholesale scouting" remains to be seen.

The more favored Haynesville combination, however, may find trouble with the Neville passing attack. Vaughan Payne is plenty accurate with his heaves, as displayed in the Bastrop game Thursday, and it will remain entirely up to the receivers to hold the ball. Intended receivers dropped passes that should have connected for good gains against the Rams; but even at that, enough passes were completed to aid the Bengals' scoring. Payne will have his choice of receivers in Bilbo Duke, Hurlan Beaumann, Earl Vigg, "Red" Rivers and Jack Lanham, all of whom have done the best bit of pass snagging as a whole the Neville end and back combinations have ever produced. Usually the locals have one or two fair receivers; but in this year's crop, one is about as good as the other.

Neville's line has begun to function more smoothly, but the Bengals still need better blocking for their running attack. Inability to block properly against the Rams cost the Tigers extra yardage, and Coach Brown will see to it that his charges give their ball carriers better interference.

Following the Haynesville battle, the Tigers will go up against the Ruston Bearcats, who loom as one of the most powerful contenders for the district class A crown. The game will be played in Ruston on October 28. The Bearcats, who held Fair Park to a scoreless tie and bowed before Haynesville only 6 to 0, battled the Homer Pelicans, 1937 champions, to a 7-and-7 deadlock Friday.

TEACHERS SWAMP DELTA STATE, 44-0

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Oct. 15.—(AP)—The State Teachers' college Yellow Jackets trounced the Delta State Teachers of Cleveland, 44 to 0, tonight on Faulkner field.

The Jackets scored easily in the first three periods and lapsed into defensive play in the final quarter. They repulsed the Delta Wave once on their seven-yard line, and again on their two in the closing minutes of play. Thirty Yellow Jackets saw service in the game.

The lineups:

Delta	Pos.	State
Wilson	LE	Watwood
Bogue	LT	Morgan
Buckley	LG	Campbell
Edgar	C	Jones
Smith	RG	Vincent
Thornton	RT	Leech
Ballard	RE	Westerfield
Glover	QB	Walton

State Teachers' scoring: Touchdowns, Walton, Hollingsworth, Freeman, Alessandri, Massengale, Watwood, Rich. Points after touchdown, Hendrix (pass from Guin), Oubre (placement).

Officials: Referee, McAllister (Howard Payne); umpire, Campbell (Millsaps); field judge, Vaughn (Mississippi State); head linesman, Leonard (Sewanee).

CALM AGAIN DELAYS FISHING BOAT RACE

ABOARD SCHOONER GERTRUDE L. THEBAUD, Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 15.—(AP)—A flat calm for the second day in succession forced postponement today of the third race between Captain Angus Walters' Bluenose and Gloucester Ben Pine's Gertrude L. Thebaud for the fishing fleet championship of the north Atlantic.

The sailing duel will be resumed tomorrow if there is any breeze.

Each has tucked away one race in the three-out-of-five series. Thebaud took the opening tilt off Boston Sunday in a brisk breeze and Bluenose romped home the winner in Thursday's contest, sailed off Gloucester in moderate air.

The results have satisfied most observers that Bluenose, although larger, is faster when the going is light and that Thebaud holds the advantage in a breeze upward of 18 or 20 miles an hour. Otherwise the two obviously are evenly matched.

Thebaud remained on a marine railway until early this morning, having her underbody rubbed down. Captain Pine rightly suspected something was amiss after Thursday's race and when she came dripping from the brine it was discovered her last coat of paint was peeling and clinging to her like a growth of sea weed. Dock yard men also smoothed her keel, which had been seriously chafed by contact with some under water obstruction.

CHOCTAWS BEAT MILLSAPS, 21-0

Mississippi College Scores In First And Third Periods To Win

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Mississippi college hustled over two touchdowns in the first period and another in the third today to defeat their neighboring Millsaps college rivals, 21 to 0.

The Choctaws covered a fumbled kickoff and passed to a touchdown, Armstrong to Hitt, in the first minute of play, and five minutes later took advantage of poor punting by Millsaps to score again. This time Armstrong ran the ball into scoring position, and Hennington plunged over from the two-yard line.

The final score followed a series of passes and runs by Mississippi college backs, with Landrum slicing over tackle for the counter. Armstrong kicked all three conversions.

Millsaps played well offensively in midfield, but failed to make goal threats.

The lineups:

Miss. College	Pos.	Millsaps
Hitt	LE	Dickerson
Matthews	LT	Hegwood
G. Stewart	LG	Carmichael
Walker	C	Saxton
Holland	RG	Williams
McGehee	RT	L. Stewart

HOMER, RUSTON BATTLE TO 7 TO 7 DEADLOCK

HOMER, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—The Homer High school Pelicans and the Ruston Bearcats were still in the Class A conference race in a big way today after battling to a 7 to 7 deadlock here last night.

The Pels, defending champions, scored first in the opening quarter when Randall Chadwick went over from Ruston's one-yard line after Chadwick had teamed with Robinson to put the oval in scoring position. Chadwick also kicked the point.

But the Bearcats went into an aerial offensive in the second period that put the ball on the locals' ten and Ruston then scored on three successive line plays and also converted the point.

PITT TRIUMPHS WITH EASE OVER WISCONSIN, 26-

Badgers Unable To Do Anything To Halt Victory March Of Panthers

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Nothing Wisconsin could do was good enough today to stop the victorious march of Pittsburgh, which defeated the Badgers, 26 to 6, and extended its wins to four this season.

Pitt ran, passed and intercepted its way to touchdowns in the last three quarters, picking up seven points in the second, six in the third and 13 in the fourth.

Wisconsin's six points were scored in the last 10 seconds by second string reserves against Pitt's third team, on a pass from Halfback John Tennant to Gordon Gile.

In the second quarter Richard Cassiano sparked a drive with a 22-yard run to the one-yard stripe, when Marshall Goldberg easily stepped through a big hole.

Wisconsin backs neglected to kick several times when backed to their own goal line and Stephen Petro, guard, finally capitalized on the practice by intercepting one of Roy Bellin's passes in the end zone for the second touchdown.

In the fourth period, Cassiano intercepted Bellin's pass and set the stage for a 71-yard touchdown run by Chickerneo.

The lineups and summary:

Pittsburgh	Pos.	Wisconsin
Daddio	LE	Moeller
Merkovsky	LT	Eckl
Lezouski	LG	Hovland
Dannies	C	Murray
Petro	RG	O'Brien

LOUISIANA STATE OUTCLASSES LOYOLA, 47-6

WOLFPACK'S LONE SCORE IS RESULT OF TIGER FUMBLE

Bengals Shove Over 2 Tallies In First Period, 4 In Third And 1 In Fourth

BATON ROUGE, La., Oct. 15.—(AP)—The greater physical weight and reserve power of Louisiana State rolled up a 47 to 6 score over Loyola of New Orleans tonight in a football game witnessed by 10,000 fans.

L. S. U.'s Bayou Bengals shoved over two touchdowns in the first period, four in the third and one more in the last.

Loyola's single score came in the second period after Charlie Erdman fumbled on L. S. U.'s 13-yard line and Joe Fracchia recovered for Loyola. Fracchia went over for the touchdown a few plays later on a lateral pass from Eddie Bordes, who sparked the Loyola team both on offense and defense.

Both teams fumbled frequently and two bobbles on the part of Loyola players set the scene for L. S. U. touchdowns in the third period. But the Tigers clearly outclassed the New Orleans team from the start. Loyola never was able to enter L. S. U. territory on its own power.

The first Tiger touchdown came within the first three minutes of play as Guy (Cotton) Milner plunged over from the three-yard line, where L. S. U. had ploughed to a first down. A second touchdown came soon afterwards on a 17-yard pass from Jabbo Stell to Ken Kavanaugh.

Two long touchdown runs by Erdman were called back by officials on account of penalties. He ran 84 yards on one such play in the second period and ambled 50 yards on another in the third. But, following this last run, Erdman again tore off the 50-yard distance and was credited with a touchdown.

Erdman's score and two touchdowns made by Jake Staples after Loyola fumbles were followed in the third period by Milner's second touchdown on a 10-yard run, set up for the Tigers by Loyola's ill-starred attempt to punt out of trouble on fourth down.

L. S. U.'s third and fourth team players drove down to the Loyola goal late in the fourth period, where Simes scored the last Tiger touchdown.

Standout in the L. S. U. line was Eddie Gatto, veteran tackle. Galliano showed well for Loyola.

The lineups:

Loyola	Pos.	L. S. U.
McCann	LE	Kavanaugh
Buhler	LT	Friend
Hable	LG	Goree
Kissinger	C	D. Gormley
Faucheaux	RG	Clark
Vala	RT	Gatto
Magadan	RE	J. Gormley
Galliano	QB	Booth
Bordes	LH	Crabtree
Freel	RH	Milner
Fracchia	FB	Staples

Loyola	0	6	0	0	6
L. S. U.	13	0	27	7	47

Loyola, scoring: Touchdown, Fracchia.

L. S. U. scoring: Touchdowns, Milner 2, Kavanaugh, (pass from J. Stell, sub for Crabtree), Erdman, sub for Milner, Staples 2, Simes, sub for J. Stell. Points after touchdown, Milner 3, Booth 2. (placements).

Officials: John Lynch, Holy Cross, referee; W. W. Paterson, Auburn, umpire; R. K. Haxton, Mississippi, head linesman; B. H. Shannon, St. Stanislaus field judge.

Minnesota, Outplayed By Michigan, Wins By One Point

TOLL HEAVY AS ROOF FALLS IN ON GRID GREAT

By Herbert W. Barker

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—The roof fell in on football's mighty today, taking a heavy toll of the nation's undefeated but leaving unscathed such major powers as Pitt, Texas Christian, Minnesota, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Duke.

The east, south, midwest and far west all contributed to the casualty list as Holy Cross, Penn, Navy, New York university, Brown, Columbia, Cornell, Michigan, Wisconsin, Alabama, Mississippi and Oregon all fell by the wayside.

Alabama's defeat was perhaps the biggest surprise of the day. The Tide, easy conqueror of Southern California in its first test, fell victim to Tennessee power and the individual brilliance of George Cafego, 13-0. Cornell, hailed as one of the east's greatest array's yielded to Syracuse, 19-17, the winners scoring all their points in the final quarter.

Holy Cross, unbeaten since 1936, was nipped by undefeated Carnegie Tech, 7-6; Penn was surprisingly upset by an alert Princeton team, 13-0; Navy was stopped by Yale, 9-7 as Gil Humphrey passed for a touchdown and then kicked a game-winning field goal; Columbia, with Sid Luckman stopped cold, was trounced by Colgate, 12-0; New York university yielded to North Carolina, 7-0; while Brown, after fighting strenuously for the first half, bowed to undefeated Dartmouth, 34-13.

In the mid-west, Michigan's potent Wolverines outgained Minnesota all the way but was beaten by the margin of a point after touchdown, 7-6. Wisconsin, hitherto undefeated, was no match at all for Pitt's Panthers who rolled up a 26-6 count. Mississippi, which had scored a sensational victory over Louisiana State several weeks ago, itself fell victim to a late rally by Vanderbilt, 13-7. Oregon's hard-bitten array was soundly beaten by Stanford's hitherto disappointing Indians, 27-16.

The eastern program produced several other major developments as Purdue rallied to tie Fordham, 6-6; Army three times came from behind to trip Harvard, 20-17; and Michigan State ran up a 26-0 count on West Virginia.

Texas Christian gave new evidence of tremendous power in rolling over Texas A. and M., 34-6, a week after the Aggies had held Santa Clara to a 7-0 score. Arkansas pushed hapless Texas around, 42-6, as Baylor pinned a 14-0 defeat on non-Southwest conference Centenary.

Notre Dame spilled Illinois but Ohio State and Northwestern, on the one hand, and Indiana and Nebraska on the other, played to scoreless draws. Iowa defeated Chicago, 27-14.

Oklahoma began its Big Six drive by toppling Kansas, 19-0 as Iowa State, recent conqueror of Nebraska, outpointed Missouri, 16-13.

Tennessee's notable triumph over Alabama dominated the southern picture where Tulane handed Rice its third straight beating, 26-17; Duke nipped Georgia Tech, 6-0, and Washington and Lee surprised with an 8-0 verdict over Kentucky.

Washington, still seeking its first victory of the season, was beaten by Oregon State, 13-6, but California and Southern California came through as expected. California beat U. C. L. A., 20-7 and Southern California stopped Washington State, 19-6.

The dizzy Rocky Mountain "big seven" whirl got itself in a real tangle as Utah State bowed to Denver, 7-0, and Brigham Young was tied by Utah, 7-7. George Washington's Colonials trimmed Colorado, 13-0.

SPEEDY JACOLA BESTS SEABISCUIT; CHIEF THIRD

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 15.—(AP)—The mighty Seabiscuit bowed to a filly, the speedy Jacola, in the $7,500 added Laurel stakes one mile feature today. The Chief was third.

The brown filly owned by E. Friendly, set a new track record of 1:37 flat in beating C. S. Howard's big money winner. First place was worth $7,825. Seabiscuit added $1,500 to his earnings by taking second in what had been regarded widely as a tune-up for his "race of champions" against War Admiral at Pimlico November 1.

Jacola paid her backers $15.80, $5.20 and $3.50; Seabiscuit, $2.80 and $2.60; and The Chief, $3.00.

GRID OFFICIAL FATALLY STRICKEN DURING GAME

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Harris Moriarty, who umpired today's football game between North Carolina and New York university in the Yankee stadium, was stricken with a heart attack during the fourth period and died a few moments later in the dressing room under the grandstand.

Moriarty had been about to pick up the ball near the side-lines during the final period of the game, when he was stricken, and fell to the ground.

Attendants carried him under the grandstand, and a physician was summoned. Moriarty died before the physician could make his examination.

The Intercollegiate Football Guide lists Moriarty as a member of the Alabama Football Officials' association. He formerly was an officer of the Southern Officials' association.

STOUT-HEARTED CADETS RALLY TO DEFEAT HARVARD

Army Weathers Terrific Aerial Blast To Whip Crimsons, 20-17

By Bill King

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 15.—(AP)—The Army's stout-hearted Cadets rallied three times today after being mowed down by terrific aerial blasting to gain their seventh consecutive victory over a much-improved Harvard team, 20-17, before 45,000 football fans.

With five minutes remaining, Charles (Huey) Long prevented a third Harvard touchdown by intercepting a pass on his one-yard line and running it back to his 20. There he launched an aerial that Woody Wilson caught in midfield and carried it to within 12 inches of Harvard's last line. Long crashed inside tackle and Army led for the first time.

Twice before, the Cadets pulled into deadlocks but Harvard appeared to have them beaten, after the injured Clarence (Chief) Boston broke a 14-14 tie by place-kicking a 20-yard field goal.

The two other Army touchdowns were turned in by Art Frontczak on 27- and 80-yard runs.

Harvard first scored on an eight-yard pass to Don Daughters from Frank Foley in the end zone.

Bobby James aimed a perfect pass at MacDonald in the end zone for Harvard's other touchdown.

The lineups:

Harvard	Pos.	Army
Green	LE	Yeager
Healey	LT	Stella
Mellen	LG	Engstrom
Russell	C	Gillis
Glueck	RG	Little
Booth	RT	Lotozo
Daughters	RE	Sullivan
C. Wilson	QB	Frontczak
Harding	LH	Long
MacDonald	RH	W. Wilson
Smith	FB	Schwenk

Army	0	0	14	6	20
Harvard	0	7	7	3	17

Army scoring: Touchdowns, Frontczak 2, Long. Points after touchdowns, Long 2 (place-kicks). Harvard scoring: Touchdowns, Daughters, MacDonald. Field goal, Boston, sub for Glueck (place-kick). Points after touchdowns, Boston 2 (place-kicks).

Officials: Referee, W. T. Halloran (Providence); umpire, J. T. Clinton (Yale); head linesman, A. R. Lake (Lafayette); field judge, C. M. Waters (Williams).

PRINCETON BEATS PENN WITH 2 SPARKLING PLAYS

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 15.—(AP)—A pair of sparkling plays—each good for half the length of the field—carried Princeton to a 13-to-0 victory over Pennsylvania today with a crowd of about 30,000 waiting in vain for the Quakers to show their heralded might.

A pair of dynamic sophomores, Dave Allerdice and Bob Jackson, teamed to give the Tigers their first score on a perfectly executed pass.

Then, after bottling up Penn's power and passes with an efficiency that seemed too good to last, Princeton scored again on Captain Tom Mountain's brilliant 56-yard sprint with less than a minute of play remaining.

Allerdice threw a deadly accurate aerial which Jackson gathered at the five. Penn secondaries didn't lay hands on him.

HAYNESVILLE DEFEATS FAIR PARK TEAM, 13-0

HAYNESVILLE, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—Capitalizing on two blocked punts, the Haynesville Golden Tornado scored twice in the first five minutes of the third quarter to defeat the Fair Park Indians of Shreveport, 13 to 0, here last night.

Gladney White, Tornado tackle, blocked both Fair Park punts deep in Indian territory. A pass, H. Tinsley to F. Hall, gave the locals their first score after the initial blocked punt, and a few minutes later White blocked his second punt, and Grover Smith went over from Fair Park's one yard line.

The defeat dimmed Fair Park's hopes of a Class AA championship team. It was the Tornado's second conference victory.

GOPHERS HARD PUT TO HOLD HISTORIC LITTLE BROWN JUG

Fritz Crisler's Huskies Gain Edge In Everything In Battle But Score

By Jay Vessels

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Minnesota's mighty men of the gridiron, their powerhouse dynamited today by a scrappy Michigan wrecking crew, unveiled a puzzling passing attack to come from behind with six minutes to play and win, 7 to 6.

Some 55,000 homecoming fans saw the Big Ten champions retain the historic Little Brown Jug in a game in which Coach Fritz Crisler's Huskies gained the edge in everything but the score.

In the last quarter, with Michigan holding a 6-to-0 edge after a great 90-yard march, Coach Bernie Bierman's squad called on the injured Harold Van Every, triple-threat halfback, to search for success through the air.

Van Every shot a perfect strike from his own 48-yard line to Bill Johnson, substitute end, who caught the ball on the Michigan 18 and plunged to the 14 with three Michigan players taking a ride.

Two plunges took the ball to the 10. Van Every pitched another strike to Wilbur Moore. He grabbed it on the Michigan three and, with a trio of Wolverines hanging on, hit the goal. George Faust placekicked the extra and winning point.

Michigan outgained the Gophers from scrimmage almost two to one, completed seven out of 16 passes and flashed a terrific ground-gaining attack.

Using a plain, old-fashioned delayed buck, with Harmon and Kromer feeding Purucker the ball, Michigan slashed up the field in the third quarter, ripping Minnesota's heretofore impenetrable defense into bits.

They went into the fourth quarter with the ball on the Minnesota 21 and fourth down. Here Harmon crossed up the Gophers and shot a short pass to Smick on the Minnesota seven. Three plunges got six yards and Kromer shot over his own right tackle to score. Smick missed the extra point.

Lineups and summary:

Michigan	Pos.	Minnesota
Valek	LE	Mariucci
Janke	LT	Pederson
Brennan	LG	Bell
Kodros	C	Elmer
Heikkinen	RG	Twedell
Savilla	RT	Schultz
Nicholson	RE	Nash
Evashevski	QB	Faust
Purucker	LH	Moore
Harmon	RH	Buhler
Phillips	FB	Christiansen

Michigan	0	0	0	6	6
Minnesota	0	0	0	7	7

Michigan scoring: Touchdown, Kromer (sub for Harmon). Minnesota scoring: Touchdown, Moore. Point from try after touchdown, Faust (placement).

JANNAZZO, EDER BATTLE TO DRAW

HAMBURG, Germany, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Izzy Jannazzo of New York and Gustave Eder, German welterweight champion, battled to a 15-round draw tonight in a fight at Hanseaten hall. Eder was seeking revenge for a 1936 defeat by Jannazzo.

Jannazzo piled up a considerable advantage over Eder through the first seven rounds, using a fast left to keep Eder away. The German began connecting with powerful rights to the head and body after the seventh, however.

The decision was unpopular with the crowd which, attracted by Jannazzo's classy boxing style, felt the American should have been awarded the victory.

Eder left the ring with a badly swollen face. Jannazzo's nose was bleeding as the fight ended.

Among the 10,000 spectators was Max Schmeling, making his first public appearance since his one-round knockout by Joe Louis in New York last summer. He received an ovation.

Steve Dudas, the New Jersey heavyweight, also was present. Still another spectator was Heinz Lazek, European heavyweight champion, who has been mentioned as a possible opponent for Schmeling. Max is expected to fight in the same hall in January.

WASHINGTON AND LEE UPSETS KENTUCKY, 8-0

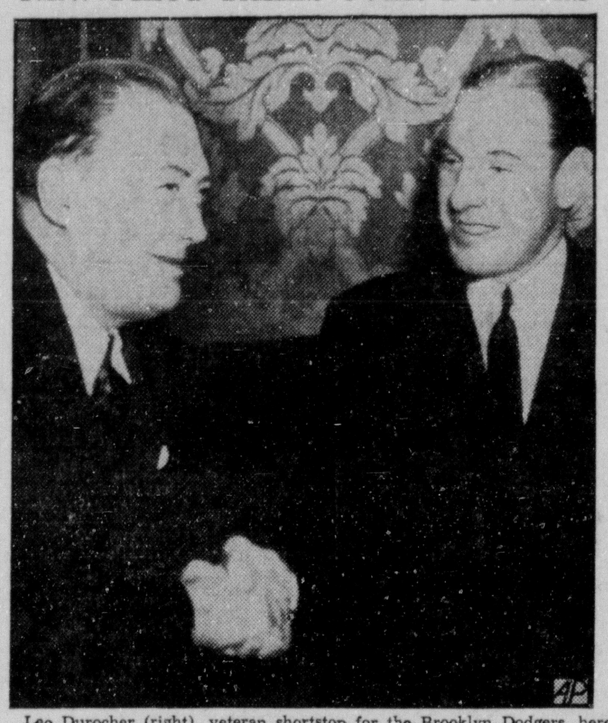

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Sparked by the flashy playing of Ray Craft, the Washington and Lee Generals upset a favored Kentucky football team, 8 to 0, today before 10,000 sweltering spectators.

Craft intercepted a pass midway of the second period and dashed 35 yards to the Wildcats' 31-yard line. From there the Generals drove to the one-yard line, where Bishop bucked over.

At the start of the final period the hard-driving W. and L. line smashed through to smear Zoeller back of the Kentucky goal for a safety.

The stout General line was too much for Kentucky and kept the Wildcats out of pay territory. Frequent pass interceptions checked numerous drives by both teams.

Neville To Face Powerful Haynesville Team Thursday

Odds Against Tigers As They Prepare To Tangle With Golden Tornado

The Neville High school Tigers, victorious in their initial class A conference game of the season with the Bastrop Rams last week, will meet the powerful Haynesville Golden Tornado next Thursday night at Haynesville in their seventh annual battle with the class AA aggregation.

The Bengals, while they have held Haynesville to some pretty close scores, have yet to defeat the Tornado and during the past six years Neville has crossed the Haynesville goal only twice.

Although the odds are against Coach Percy Brown's Tigers' chances of winning, a defeat by the Golden boys would not effect the locals' class A conference standing as it would have two years ago, before Haynesville joined the double A division.

However, a victory over Haynesville has been an objective of the Neville eleven for the past few years, and Coach Brown stated last night that his Tigers would battle the Tornado as if their championship aspirations depended on the outcome.

While Neville put the skids under Bastrop, 27 to 12, here last Thursday night, Haynesville, on the following night, won its second double A victory by stopping the Fair Park Indians of Shreveport, 13 to 0. The Indians apparently have their best team in years, but the Tornado capitalized on a couple of breaks to trim their Shreveport rivals.

The Tigers rested Friday and then journeyed to Haynesville to witness the Tornado-Indian battle. The entire squad saw the game, but whether any good was derived from the "wholesale scouting" remains to be seen.

The more favored Haynesville combination, however, may find trouble with the Neville passing attack. Vaughan Payne is plenty accurate with his heaves, as displayed in the Bastrop game Thursday, and it will remain entirely up to the receivers to hold the ball. Intended receivers dropped passes that should have connected for good gains against the Rams; but even at that, enough passes were completed to aid the Bengals' scoring. Payne will have his choice of receivers in Bilbo Duke, Hurlan Beaumann, Earl Vigg, "Red" Rivers and Jack Lanham, all of whom have done the best bit of pass snagging as a whole the Neville end and back combinations have ever produced. Usually the locals have one or two fair receivers; but in this year's crop, one is about as good as the other.

Neville's line has begun to function more smoothly, but the Bengals still need better blocking for their running attack. Inability to block properly against the Rams cost the Tigers extra yardage, and Coach Brown will see to it that his charges give their ball carriers better interference.

Following the Haynesville battle, the Tigers will go up against the Ruston Bearcats, who loom as one of the most powerful contenders for the district class A crown. The game will be played in Ruston on October 28. The Bearcats, who held Fair Park to a scoreless tie and bowed before Haynesville only 6 to 0, battled the Homer Pelicans, 1937 champions, to a 7-and-7 deadlock Friday.

TEACHERS SWAMP DELTA STATE, 44-0

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Oct. 15.—(AP)—The State Teachers' college Yellow Jackets trounced the Delta State Teachers of Cleveland, 44 to 0, tonight on Faulkner field.

The Jackets scored easily in the first three periods and lapsed into defensive play in the final quarter. They repulsed the Delta Wave once on their seven-yard line, and again on their two in the closing minutes of play. Thirty Yellow Jackets saw service in the game.

The lineups:

Delta	Pos.	State
Wilson	LE	Watwood
Bogue	LT	Morgan
Buckley	LG	Campbell
Edgar	C	Jones
Smith	RG	Vincent
Thornton	RT	Leech
Ballard	RE	Westerfield
Glover	QB	Walton
Shows	RH	Oubre
Reeves	LH	Massengale
Bishop	FB	Benglis

State	6	19	19	0	44

State Teachers' scoring: Touchdowns, Walton, Hollingsworth, Freeman, Alessandri, Massengale, Watwood, Rich. Points after touchdown, Hendrix (pass from Guin), Oubre (placement).

Officials: Referee, McAllister (Howard Payne); umpire, Campbell (Millsaps); field judge, Vaughn (Mississippi State); head linesman, Leonard (Sewanee).

CALM AGAIN DELAYS FISHING BOAT RACE

ABOARD SCHOONER GERTRUDE L. THEBAUD, Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 15.—(AP)—A flat calm for the second day in succession forced postponement today of the third race between Captain Angus Walters' Bluenose and Gloucester Ben Pine's Gertrude L. Thebaud for the fishing fleet championship of the north Atlantic.

The sailing duel will be resumed tomorrow if there is any breeze.

Each has tucked away one race in the three-out-of-five series. Thebaud took the opening tilt off Boston Sunday in a brisk breeze and Bluenose romped home the winner in Thursday's contest, sailed off Gloucester in moderate air.

The results have satisfied most observers that Bluenose, although larger, is faster when the going is light and that Thebaud holds the advantage in a breeze upward of 18 or 20 miles an hour. Otherwise the two obviously are evenly matched.

Thebaud remained on a marine railway until early this morning, having her underbody rubbed down. Captain Pine rightly suspected something was amiss after Thursday's race and when she came dripping from the brine it was discovered her last coat of paint was peeling and clinging to her like a growth of sea weed. Dock yard men also smoothed her keel, which had been seriously chafed by contact with some under water obstruction.

CHOCTAWS BEAT MILLSAPS, 21-0

Mississippi College Scores In First And Third Periods To Win

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Mississippi college hustled over two touchdowns in the first period and another in the third today to defeat their neighboring Millsaps college rivals, 21 to 0.

The Choctaws covered a fumbled kickoff and passed to a touchdown, Armstrong to Hitt, in the first minute of play, and five minutes later took advantage of poor punting by Millsaps to score again. This time Armstrong ran the ball into scoring position, and Hennington plunged over from the two-yard line.

The final score followed a series of passes and runs by Mississippi college backs, with Landrum slicing over tackle for the counter. Armstrong kicked all three conversions.

Millsaps played well offensively in midfield, but failed to make goal threats.

The lineups:

Miss. College	Pos.	Millsaps
Hitt	LE	Dickerson
Matthews	LT	Hegwood
G. Stewart	LG	Carmichael
Walker	C	Saxton
Holland	RG	Williams
McGehee	RT	L. Stewart
Watts	RE	Walters
Carroll	QB	Winborne
Landrum	LH	Worthington
Hennington	RH	Melton
Armstrong	FB	Miles

Score by periods:

Mississippi	14	0	7	0	21

Mississippi college scoring: Touchdowns, Hitt, Hennington, Landrum. Points after touchdown: Armstrong (placements).

Officials: Referee, Walters (Mississippi State); umpire, Craft (Texas); head linesman, Burke (Ole Miss); field judge, Leonard (Marion institute).

HOMER, RUSTON BATTLE TO 7 TO 7 DEADLOCK

HOMER, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—The Homer High school Pelicans and the Ruston Bearcats were still in the Class A conference race in a big way today after battling to a 7 to 7 deadlock here last night.

The Pels, defending champions, scored first in the opening quarter when Randall Chadwick went over from Ruston's one-yard line after Chadwick had teamed with Robinson to put the eval in scoring position. Chadwick also kicked the point.

But the Bearcats went into an aerial offensive in the second period that put the ball on the locals' ten and Ruston then scored on three successive line plays and also converted the point.

PITT TRIUMPHS WITH EASE OVER WISCONSIN, 26-6

Badgers Unable To Do Anything To Halt Victory March Of Panthers

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Nothing Wisconsin could do was good enough today to stop the victory march of Pittsburgh, which defeated the Badgers, 26 to 6, and extended its wins to four this season.

Pitt ran, passed and intercepted its way to touchdowns in the last three quarters, picking up seven points in the second, six in the third and 13 in the fourth.

Wisconsin's six points were scored in the last 10 seconds by second string reserves against Pitt's third team, on a pass from Halfback John Tennant to Gordon Gile.

In the second quarter Richard Cassiano sparked a drive with a 22-yard run to the one-yard stripe, where Marshall Goldberg easily stepped through a big hole.

Wisconsin backs neglected to kick several times when backed to their own goal line and Stephen Petro, guard, finally capitalized on the practice by intercepting one of Roy Bellin's passes in the end zone for the second touchdown.

In the fourth period, Cassiano intercepted Bellin's pass and set the stage for a 71-yard touchdown run by Chickerneo.

PASS, WITH LESS THAN MINUTE OF GAME LEFT, WINS

Commodores Unleash Savage Fourth Quarter Attack To Gain Victory

By Tom Siler

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 15.—(AP)—A savage fourth-period attack, highlighted by a last minute, 31-yard touchdown pass, carried the resourceful Vanderbilt Commodores to a 13 to 7 victory today over the University of Mississippi.

The two Southeastern conference elevens, both undefeated and untied before today's game, treated the 15,000 spectators to a thrilling spectacle of crushing ground offensives and dazzling overheads that seesawed the ball on the three-yard line and fell afternoon.

The Rebels, surprise conqueror of Louisiana State three weeks ago, led 7 to 6, when there was only 57 seconds left to play with the ball on Mississippi's 43-yard line, a 33-yard pass having been ruled complete because of interference by the Rebel's secondary.

Lunny Hollins picked up four at guard and then tossed to Dutch Reinschmidt for 19 yards and a couple of plays later faded back and southpawed another aerial, this time to Hardy Housman, sub for Keene, who caught the ball o nthe 3-yard line and fell over the goal line as he was tackled.

Captain Preacher Franklin added the extra point from placement.

When the final gun sounded seconds later, thousands of Vandy supporters, ecstatic with joy, swarmed on the field and carried the victors to the clubhouse on their shoulders.

Late in the third period, the Commodores, trailing by 7-0, got under way a smashing running attack, with Sophomore Roy Hughes, sub for Ford, as the spearhead and drove the ball to the opposing 7-yard line.

Early in the fourth period Housman took the ball on a reverse and went off tackle for the first tally. Joe Agee's try for the point from placement was blocked by Autry, Rebel center.

The Mississippi clan, coached by Harry Mehre, mixed passes and runs in the third period to smash their way to the Vanderbilt four-yard line, registering a first down at that point.

Three line plays failed to dent the line for more than a yard and Parker Hall, wheelhorse of the invaders, bulleted a pay-off pass over the center of the line to Gene Blackwell in the end zone. Massengale, sub for Whitington, placekicked the point.

In the second period fumbles twice thwarted Vanderbilt scoring efforts, the two miscues coming within the five-yard line. The Rebels recovered both of them and kicked out of danger.

The Rebels threatened several times, once going to the four-yard line in the first period but the Vandy line repulsed the drive and took the ball on downs.

GEORGIA DEFEATS MERCER, 28 TO 19

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Georgia's football team remained unbeaten today after downing Mercer, 28-19, in a wild and wooly game.

"Spec" Landrum started a day of long-scoring plays by returning a Georgia punt 60 yards for a touchdown. Georgia came back with a 47-yard scoring march, followed by a 68-yard drive featured by Vassa Cate's 42-yard sprint. Later Mims tossed a 15-yard pass to Eldredge, who galloped 40 more to the goal. The fourth Georgia touchdown followed a short drive started by Cate's 18-yard punt return.

Then Mercer drove to the Georgia 10, lost the ball and got it back on a bad punt, and scored on a pass. The last score came after a drive from midfield.

VILLANOVA TRIUMPHS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Held virtually even by a fighting Centre eleven in the first half, Villanova scored 22 points in the last two periods today to gain a 35-to-6 victory before nearly 10,000 fans. Johnny Wysocki, an end, scored three of Villanova's touchdowns.

Two Spectacular Notre Dame Plays Defeat Illinois

DUKE EDGES OUT GEORGIA TECH, 6-0

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Duke's powerhouse struck quickly at the first of the second half and defeated Georgia Tech, 6-0 here today in an inter-conference game witnessed by 28,000.

The touchdown, a seven-yard right tackle slice by Wesley McAfee, ended an 85-yard advance started by Bob O'Mara's spectacular 60-yard return of the kickoff opening the last half.

McAfee in two tries got four yards at tackle, then tried a pass which failed. On the fourth down he shot the ball like a bullet to Jim Marion for 14 yards to Georgia Tech's seven-yard stripe. McAfee then ran far to his right, cut back through a wide hole and crossed the goal line virtually untouched.

YALE NOSES OUT NAVY TEAM, 9-7

Ellis Put On Second Half Rally That Panics 55,000 Spectators

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Yale's twice-beaten football team put on a second half rally that panicked the 55,000 customers and gave the Elis a 9-7 decision over heavily favored Navy today.

The first half was a two-sided exhibition of inconclusive attacks and feeble defenses. Its lone bright spot was a forward pass from Lem Cooke to Ulmont Whitehead that covered 41 yards and, with Emmett Wood's successful conversion, gave the Midshipmen a 7-0 lead.

Gil Humphrey came back in the last half to figure in twenty of Yale's thirty plays, set up by the touchdown with passes and line bucks, pitch a short one to Fullback Bill Snavely for the touchdown, and then boot the winning field goal from Navy's 17 yard line.

In the final minutes Cooke's passes brought Navy to Yale's nine, and Wood tried a field goal from the 15 but fell short of the mark.

The lineups:

Navy (7)	Pos.	(9) Yale

SYRACUSE PASSES DEFEAT CORNELL

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Bombing the bewildered secondary with magnificent poise and skill, Wilmeth Sidat-Singh threw three touchdown passes in the last nine minutes of play to turn defeat into victory as Syracuse knocked Cornell out of the ranks of the unbeaten with a 19-to-17 triumph today.

A crowd of 25,000 went wild in the final period in which, just to make it difficult, Ken Brown, Cornell back, took the kickoff after the first Orange score and dashed 92 yards to put Cornell into the lead, 17 to 6.

It wasn't enough. Sidat-Singh passed and ran freely, hurling a touchdown pass to Babe Ruth, who stepped six yards for the second Orange counter.

Later Syracuse lined up on the Cornell 33, Sidat-Singh took the ball, eluded the great Brud Holland and drove the pass to Allen on the five, who went over with the winning touchdown with three minutes to play.

N. Y. U. AGAIN LOSES TO CAROLINA, 7-0

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Jim (Sweet) Lalanne North Carolina's highly publicized backfield star, didn't do his well-known stuff today, but George Stirnweiss did and the southerners made it three in a row over New York university, 7 to 0.

Stirnweiss not only flung the pass that paved the way for the lone and winning touchdown, but he kept the Violets in the hole most of the afternoon with his kicking. His boots averaged 49-yards.

Harris Moriarity, of Birmingham, Ala., who umpired the game, was stricken with a heart attack midway in the final period and di' before he could be taken from the field. Following a play in mid-field, Moriarity collapsed. The game was halted and physicians summoned from the stands. They announced later the official had died instantly.

NEBRASKA-INDIANA TILT ENDS IN SCORELESS TIE

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Opportunity knocked repeatedly for Nebraska's Cornhuskers, but Indiana's Hoosiers knocked too, and their interconference football game ended in a scoreless deadlock before a crowd of 31,000 today.

PASS AND LONG RUN GIVE IRISH VICTORY, 14 TO 6

Fleet Ben Sheridan Returns Punt 68 Yards To Score Touchdown

By Earl Hilligan

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Two spectacular maneuvers—a sudden bid through the air and a breath-taking spurt on the ground—carried Notre Dame's football legions to a 14 to 6 victory over Illinois today.

Before the 45,000 spectators hardly had settled into their seats, Notre Dame scored a first period touchdown on a long pass from Harry Stevenson to Earl Brown. In the third period, fleet Ben Sheridan returned a punt 68 yards to score.

Illinois got its touchdown shortly afterward by recovering a blocked Irish punt a yard from the Notre Dame goal line—but didn't have quite enough left for a serious threat to the Irish triumph.

The Illini forwards were outplayed from start to finish and an alert Irish secondary permitted only three completions in 12 aerial attempts.

Taking the ball after an Illinois punt, Notre Dame failed to move the ball from the Illini 35-yard line on three running plays. Then Stevenson shot a 47-yard pass into the end zone, Brown making a great finger-tip catch for the touchdown.

After a hard played second period, the throng was treated to two scoring thrills. Reittinger, Illinois fullback, got away a long punt which Sheridan took on his own 32. Twisting and dodging from the entire Illini team, the little speedster streaked down the field for a touchdown.

Illinois drove 50 yards to the Notre Dame 10. The Irish line held for downs, Stevenson's punt was blocked by Phillips and several Illinois players recovered, Ralph Ehni hit center for a touchdown.

MEXICO'S MIGHTY MAULER

Lions Scheduled To Meet Rams In Bastrop Friday

Game With Bastrop Viewed As Breather Before Battle With Haynesville

Coach "Lefty" Haynes' Ouachita Parish High school Lions, back home with the scalp of their first Class AA conference victims, the Vivian Warriors, will go to Bastrop next Friday night for their annual engagement with Coach "Dutch" Binion's Rams, but their workouts this week will be more in the way of preparation for the Haynesville Tornado on the following week-end.

The Lions, viewing Bastrop more or less as a "breather" before mixing up with the Tornado in the locals' second Class AA engagement, are seeking their tenth straight victory over the Rams. In the past nine seasons, dating from 1929, when Monroe's high schools discontinued production of a combined eleven, the Lions have scored a total of 248 points against Bastrop while the Rams have totalled only 51 points against Ouachita.

Last year the Lions breezed through Bastrop, 38 to 0, which was the worst beating the Rams had taken from Ouachita since 1931 when the locals won, 45 to 6.

Although his Lions are doped to give the Binionmen a lacing, Coach Haynes said last night, "We mustn't underrate Bastrop too much. Overconfidence could find us in the same fix we were against Tallulah."

Ouachita played outstanding ball to beat Vivian, 26 to 0, Friday night, with Alvin Fleming and Cason Mitchell leading the Lion attack. The victory strengthened Lion hopes of a win over Haynesville, as the Tornado defeated the Warriors a week ago by almost the same score, 25 to 0. Fleming scored three of the touchdowns against Vivian and Bill Reed, reserve end, scored once in the final period. It was erroneously stated in the initial report of the grame from Vivian that Jack Trimble, also a reserve end, had scored the final Lion tally.

The Lions came out of the game in fairly good condition, Coach Haynes said last night. Tommy Younse, center, suffered a slight ankle injury but he is expected to be able to continue work. Improvement in other ailing members of the squad has also been noted and the Lions should be nearing the peak of condition before tangling with Haynesville.

COLGATE HANDS FIRST SETBACK TO COLUMBIA

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Colgate's Red Raiders threw up an airtight defense against Sid Luckman's passes when it was necessary today and in so doing handed the Columbia Lions their first setback of the season, 12 to 0, before 30,000 fans.

Not only was Luckman throttled in the pinches, but one of his aerials was intercepted and run back by Howard Herman 50 yards for Colgate's second touchdown in the final period.

STANFORD STAGES RALLY TO BEAT OREGON, 27-16

PALO ALTO, Calif., Oct. 15.—(AP)—The much-maligned Stanford Indians came from behind to beat University of Oregon, 27-16, today, giving the northerners an unexpected setback in the Pacific Coast Football conference race.

In a brilliant but spotty performance, the Indians scored touchdowns on two passes, a blocked punt and a final drive through the Oregon line. Meanwhile, the Webfoot eleven piled up a 238-yard net gain on running plays, to the Indians' 75.

After an exchange of kicks, Cafego, who picked up 145 yards on 19 trips with the ball, set the stage for the second score when he reeled off 33 yards before he was pulled down at the Alabama one by Tackle Fred Davis. Coffman went through a big hole in the line to score on the first play. Wyatt added the extra point.

With Holm reeling off gains of 12 and 7 yards and Mosley tossing passes to Bud, Waites and Vic Bradford, Alabama marched from its own 22 to the Tennessee 22 in the final minutes. UCLANS BEATEN BY BRUINS, 20-7

California Eleven, Machine-Like In Precision, Steam-Rollers U. C. L. A.

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Machine-like in its precision, University of California's 1933 football model steam-rollered the University of California today 20 to 7 before 40,000 spectators.

Only one pass was tried—and completed—in the 16-yard initial touchdown march in the second quarter. It ended with Left Halfback Vic Bottari, individual ball carrying star of the game, rambling around the opposition's right end for a yard and the score not a hand being laid on him. He drop-kicked the extra tally.

A few minutes later California put the ball into play on its 37 yard line. Nine plays later Bottari cracked right tackle for two yards to end the 63-yard thrust.

As the third period neared a close, California intercepted a pass on the Bruins' 47. From there, with a teamful of substitutes in the lineup, it smashed to its third touchdown, substitute Left Halfback Tony Firpo banging through center for the last two yards.

With second and third string reserves still in the California lineup, the Bruins pushed over their lone touchdown near the close of the game, aided by a fumble and penalty.

FORDHAM HELD TO 6-6 TIE BY PURDUE TEAM

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Fordham's Rams took Purdue's Boilermakers for a ride for life today but all they got was a tie 6-6 score that amounted to a stunning upset viewed by 31,000 sweltering spectators.

Fordham, thwarted by three gallant goal line stands in the first half during which the Ram backs, piled up 251 yards from rushing, scored on a 49-yard sprint by Leonard Eahmont in the third period only to have Purdue come back to tie the score. Lou Brock capped a great day of running and kicking with a 17-yard touchdown rush early in the final period.

Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana are less densely populated than Russia.

T. C. U. WALLOPS AGGIES EASILY

Unbeaten Eleven Combines Ground And Aerial Cunning To Win, 34-6

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Oct. 15.—(AP)—With almost incredible ease, unbeaten Texas Christian blew the Texas Aggies off their own field today with ground and aerial cunning, 34-6.

Dick Todd, the Aggies' broken fielder, tried valiantly on two kick-offs to chop the lead, returning 45 and 30 yards before Ki Aldrich, the Christian's 200-pound center, tackled him.

Seven minutes after the start the Christians took off from the Aggie 46 and stopped only when O Brien hurled a pass to Johnny Hall on the six and he lugged it across.

Showing off on the T. C. U. 33, O'Brien and Sparks drove to their 46 and then O Brien passed to Hall again on the Aggie 27. Trapped, he wheeled and lateraled off to Fred Shook, guard, who scored.

In the third period, Steffens picked up O Brien's fumble on the Christian 40 and after a drive Rogers circled end for the score.

O Brien later passed to Don Looney on the 15 and spotted Charlie Williams on the goal for the score. Little Davey next bobbed up with a pass to Charlie Williams on the nine-yard line, and the little fellow personally toted the ball across.

JONESBORO-HODGE TRAMPLES RAYVILLE

JONESBORO, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—The Jonesboro-Hodge Tigers went through the Rayville Hornets in full stride here yesterday to trounce the Richland parish aggregation, 47 to 7, for the locals' third Class A conference victory of the season.

Led by Whitten and Frey, the Tigers scored 34 points in the first half and eased up with 13 points in the last half as reserves played most of the two final periods. Whitten scored three touchdowns, and Frey scored two. Eiland, an end, and Boddie, reserve back playing in the place of Hargrove who was unable to participate in the battle, scored one touchdown each. Eiland also added three extra points and G. Poole and Frey scored one point each.

Coach "Sonny" Maroney's charges will have an open date on their schedule next week-end, but they jump back into their conference schedule by meeting Winnfield's Tigers at Winnfield on October 28.

Commodores Unleash Savage Fourth Quarter Attack To Gain Victory

By Tom Siler

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 15.—(AP)—A savage fourth-period attack, highlighted by a last minute, 31-yard touchdown pass, carried the resourceful Vanderbilt Commodores to a 13 to 7 victory today over the University of Mississippi.

The two Southeastern conference elevens, both undefeated and untied before today's game, treated the 15,000 spectators to a thrilling spectacle of crushing ground offensives and dazzling overheads that seesawed the ball on the three-yard line and fell afternoon.

The Rebels, surprise conqueror of Louisiana State three weeks ago, led 7 to 6, when there was only 57 seconds left to play with the ball on Mississippi's 43-yard line, a 33-yard pass having been ruled complete because of interference by the Rebel's secondary.

Lunny Hollins picked up four at guard and then tossed to Dutch Reinschmidt for 19 yards and a couple of plays later faded back and scuthpawed another aerial, this time to Hardy Housman, sub for Keene, who caught the ball o nthe 3-yard line and fell over the goal line as he was tackled.

Captain Preacher Franklin added the extra point from placement.

When the final gun sounded seconds later, thousands of Vandy supporters, ecstatic with joy, swarmed on the field and carried the victors to the clubhouse on their shoulders.

Late in the third period, the Commodores, trailing by 7-0, got under way a smashing running attack, with Sophomore Roy Hughes, sub for Ford, as the spearhead and drove the ball to the opposing 7-yard line.

Early in the fourth period Housman took the ball on a reverse and went off tackle for the first tally. Joe Agee's try for the point from placement was blocked by Autry, Rebel center.

The Mississippi clan, coached by Harry Mehre, mixed passes and runs in the third period to smash their way to the Vanderbilt four-yard line, registering a first down at that point.

Three line plays failed to dent the line for more than a yard and Parker Hall, wheelhorse of the invaders, bulleted a pay-off pass over the center of the line to Gene Blackwell in the end zone. Massengale, sub for Whitington, placekicked the point.

In the second period fumbles twice thwarted Vanderbilt scoring efforts, the two miscues coming within the five-yard line. The Rebels recovered both of them and kicked out of danger.

The Rebels threatened several times, once going to the four-yard line in the first period but the Vandy line repulsed the drive and took the ball on downs.

GEORGIA DEFEATS MERCER, 28 TO 19

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Georgia's football team remained unbeaten today after downing Mercer, 28-19, in a wild and wooly game.

"Spec" Landrum started a day of long-scoring plays by returning a Georgia punt 60 yards for a touchdown. Georgia came back with a 47-yard scoring march, followed by a 68-yard drive featured by Vassa Cate's 42-yard sprint. Later Mims tossed a 15-yard pass to Eldredge, who galloped 40 more to the goal. The fourth Georgia touchdown followed a short drive started by Cate's 18-yard punt return.

Then Mercer drove to the Georgia 10, lost the ball and got it back on a bad punt, and scored on a pass. The last score came after a drive from midfield.

VILLANOVA TRIUMPHS

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Held virtually even by a fighting Centre eleven in the first half, Villanova scored 22 points in the last two periods today to gain a 35-to-6 victory before nearly 10,000 fans. Johnny Wysocki, an end, scored three of Villanova's touchdowns.

DUKE EDGES OUT GEORGIA TECH, 6-0

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Duke's powerhouse struck quickly at the first of the second half and defeated Georgia Tech, 6-0 here today in an inter-conference game witnessed by 28,000.

The touchdown, a seven-yard right tackle slice by Wesley McAfee, ended an 85-yard advance started by Bob O'Mara's spectacular 60-yard return of the kickoff opening the last half.

McAfee in two tries got four yards at tackle, then tried a pass which failed. On the fourth down he shot the ball like a bullet to Jim Marion for 14 yards to Georgia Tech's seven-yard stripe. McAfee then ran far to his right, cut back through a wide hole and crossed the goal line virtually untouched.

YALE NOSES OUT NAVY TEAM, 9-7

Elis Put On Second Half Rally That Panics 55,000 Spectators

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Yale's twice-beaten football team put on a second half rally that panicked the 55,000 customers and gave the Elis a 9-7 decision over heavily favored Navy today.

The first half was a two-sided exhibition of inconclusive attacks and feeble defenses. Its lone bright spot was a forward pass from Lem Cooke to Ulmont Whitehead that covered 41 yards and, with Emmett Wood's successful conversion, gave the Midshipmen a 7-0 lead.

Gil Humphrey came back in the last half to figure in twenty of Yale's thirty plays, set up by the touchdown with passes and line bucks, pitch a short one to Fullback Bill Snavely for the touchdown, and then boot the winning field goal from Navy's 17 yard line.

In the final minutes Cooke's passes brought Navy to Yale's nine, and Wood tried a field goal from the 15 but fell short of the mark.

The lineups:

SYRACUSE PASSES DEFEAT CORNELL

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Bombing the bewildered secondary with magnificent poise and skill, Wilmeth Sidat-Singh threw three touchdown passes in the last nine minutes of play to turn defeat into victory as Syracuse knocked Cornell out of the ranks of the unbeaten with a 19-to-17 triumph today.

A crowd of 25,000 went wild in the final period in which, just to make it difficult, Ken Brown, Cornell back, took the kickoff after the first Orange score and dashed 92 yards to put Cornell into the lead, 17 to 6.

It wasn't enough. Sidat-Singh passed and ran freely, hurling a touchdown pass to Babe Ruth, who stepped six yards for the second Orange counter.

Later Syracuse lined up on the Cornell 33, Sidat-Singh took the ball, eluded the great Brud Holland and drove the pass to Allen on the five, who went over with the winning touchdown with three minutes to play.

N. Y. U. AGAIN LOSES TO CAROLINA, 7-0

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Jim (Sweet) Lalanne North Carolina's highly publicized backfield star, didn't do his well-known stuff today, but George Stirnweiss did and the southerners made it three in a row over New York university, 7 to 0.

Stirnweiss not only flung the pass that paved the way for the lone and winning touchdown, but he kept the Violets in the hole most of the afternoon with his kicking. His boots averaged 49-yards.

Harris Moriarity, of Birmingham, Ala., who umpired the game, was stricken with a heart attack midway in the final period and di' before he could be taken from the field. Following a play in mid-field, Moriarity collapsed. The game was halted and physicians summoned from the stands. They announced later the official had died instantly.

NEBRASKA-INDIANA TILT ENDS IN SCORELESS TIE

Two Spectacular Notre Dame Plays Defeat Illinois

PASS AND LONG RUN GIVE IRISH VICTORY, 14 TO 6

Fleet Ben Sheridan Returns Punt 68 Yards To Score Touchdown

By Earl Hilligan

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Two spectacular maneuvers—a sudden bid through the air and a breath-taking spurt on the ground—carried Notre Dame's football legions to a 14 to 6 victory over Illinois today.

Before the 45,000 spectators hardly had settled into their seats, Notre Dame scored a first period touchdown on a long pass from Harry Stevenson to Earl Brown. In the third period, fleet Ben Sheridan returned a punt 68 yards to score.

Illinois got its touchdown shortly afterward by recovering a blocked Irish punt a yard from the Notre Dame goal line—but didn't have quite enough left for a serious threat to the Irish triumph.

The Illini forwards were outplayed from start to finish and an alert Irish secondary permitted only three completions in 12 aerial attempts.

Taking the ball after an Illinois punt, Notre Dame failed to move the ball from the Illini 35-yard line on three running plays. Then Stevenson shot a 47-yard pass into the end zone, Brown making a great finger-tip catch for the touchdown.

After a hard played second period, the throng was treated to two scoring thrills. Reittinger, Illinois fullback, got away a long punt which Sheridan took on his own 32. Twisting and dodging from the entire Illini team, the little speedster streaked down the field for a touchdown.

Illinois drove 50 yards to the Notre Dame 10. The Irish line held for downs, Stevenson's punt was blocked by Phillips and several Illinois players recovered, Ralph Ehni hit center for a touchdown.

The lineups:

MACHINIST LOSES THUMB

J. D. Fleming, machinist for the Tiger Foundry and Machine works, on DeSiard street, suffered the loss of the thumb on his right hand last night when his hand was said to have been accidentally caught in machinery at the foundry. Details of the accident, which occurred about 11:30 p.m. had not been made known.

MEXICO'S MIGHTY MAULER

Game With Bastrop Viewed As Breather Before Battle With Haynesville

Coach "Lefty" Haynes' Ouachita Parish High school Lions, back home with the scalp of their first Class AA conference victims, the Vivian Warriors, will go to Bastrop next Friday night for their annual engagement with Coach "Dutch" Binion's Rams, but their workouts this week will be more in the way of preparation for the Haynesville Tornado on the following week-end.

The Lions, viewing Bastrop more or less as a "breather" before mixing up with the Tornado in the locals' second Class AA engagement, are seeking their tenth straight victory over the Rams. In the past nine seasons, dating from 1929, when Monroe's high schools discontinued production of a combined eleven, the Lions have scored a total of 248 points against Bastrop while the Rams have totalled only 51 points against Ouachita.

Last year the Lions breezed through Bastrop, 38 to 0, which was the worst beating the Rams had taken from Ouachita since 1931 when the locals won, 45 to 6.

Although his Lions are doped to give the Binionmen a lacing, Coach Haynes said last night, "We mustn't underrate Bastrop too much. Overconfidence could find us in the same fix we were against Tallulah."

Ouachita played outstanding ball to beat Vivian, 26 to 0, Friday night, with Alvin Fleming and Cason Mitchell leading the Lion attack. The victory strengthened Lion hopes of a win over Haynesville, as the Tornado defeated the Warriors a week ago by almost the same score, 25 to 0. Fleming scored three of the touchdowns against Vivian and Bill Reed, reserve end, scored once in the final period. It was erroneously stated in the initial report of the grame from Vivian that Jack Trimble, also a reserve end, had scored the final Lion tally.

The Lions came out of the game in fairly good condition, Coach Haynes said last night. Tommy Younse, center, suffered a slight ankle injury but he is expected to be able to continue work. Improvement in other ailing members of the squad has also been noted and the Lions should be nearing the peak of condition before tangling with Haynesville.

COLGATE HANDS FIRST SETBACK TO COLUMBIA

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Colgate's Red Raiders threw up an airtight defense against Sid Luckman's passes when it was necessary today and in so doing handed the Columbia Lions their first setback of the season, 12 to 0, before 30,000 fans.

Not only was Luckman throttled in the pinches, but one of his aerials was intercepted and run back by Howard Herman 50 yards for Colgate's second touchdown in the final period.

STANFORD STAGES RALLY TO BEAT OREGON, 27-16

PALO ALTO, Calif., Oct. 15.—(AP)—The much-maligned Stanford Indians came from behind to beat University of Oregon, 27-16, today, giving the northerners an unexpected setback in the Pacific Coast Football conference race.

In a brilliant but spotty performance, the Indians scored touchdowns on two passes, a blocked punt and a final drive through the Oregon line. Meanwhile, the Webfoot eleven piled up a 238-yard net gain on running plays, to the Indians' 75.

klers in a zig-zagging sprint to dash 48 yards off tackle to Alabama's 23, where he was run out of bounds. Coffman got 14 yards in three tries and Cafego took it to the three-yard line on third down. Here Tennessee attempted a field goal from the 10, but Cafego's boot was wide.

After an exchange of kicks, Cafego, who picked up 145 yards on 19 trips with the ball, set the stage for the second score when he reeled off 33 yards before he was pulled down at the Alabama one by Tackle Fred Davis. Coffman went through a big hole in the line to score on the first play. Wyatt added the extra point.

With Holm reeling off gains of 12 and 7 yards and Mosley tossing passes to Bud, Waites and Vic Bradford, Alabama marched from its own 22 to the Tennessee 22 in the final minutes. Warren almost snagged a pass from Mosley on the Tennessee two and on fourth down Mosley was run out of bounds at the 22.

UCLANS BEATEN BY BRUINS, 20-7

California Eleven, Machine-Like In Precision, Steam-Rollers U. C. L. A.

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 15.—(AP)—Machine-like in its precision, University of California's 1938 football model steam-rollered the University of California today 20 to 7 before 40,000 spectators.

Only one pass was tried—and completed—in the 36-yard initial touchdown march in the second quarter. It ended with Left Halfback Vic Bottari, individual ball carrying star of the game, rambling around the opposition's right end for a yard and the score not a hand being laid on him. He drop-kicked the extra tally.

A few minutes later California put the ball into play on its 37 yard line. Nine plays later Bottari cracked right tackle for two yards to end the 63-yard thrust.

As the third period neared a close, California intercepted a pass on the Bruins' 47. From there, with a teamful of substitutes in the lineup, it smashed to its third touchdown, substitute Left Halfback Tony Firpo banging through center for the last two yards.

With second and third string reserves still in the California lineup, the Bruins pushed over their lone touchdown near the close of the game, aided by a fumble and penalty.

FORDHAM HELD TO 6-6 TIE BY PURDUE TEAM

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Fordham's Rams took Purdue's Boilermakers for a ride for life today but all they got was a tie 6-6 score that amounted to a stunning upset viewed by 31,000 sweltering spectators.

Fordham, thwarted by three gallant goal line stands in the first half during which the Ram backs, piled up 251 yards from rushing, scored on a 49-yard sprint by Leonard Eshmont in the third period only to have Purdue come back to tie the score. Lou Brock capped a great day of running and kicking with a 17-yard touchdown rush early in the final period.

Washington, Oregon, Idaho and Montana are less densely populated than Russia.

T. C. U. WALLOPS AGGIES EASILY

Unbeaten Eleven Combines Ground And Aerial Cunning To Win, 34-6

COLLEGE STATION, Tex., Oct. 15.—(AP)—With almost incredible ease, unbeaten Texas Christian blew the Texas Aggies off their own field today with ground and aerial cunning, 34-6.

Dick Todd, the Aggies' broken fielder, tried valiantly on two kick-offs to chop the lead, returning 65 and 50 yards before Ki Aldrich, the Christian's 200-pound center, tackled him.

Seven minutes after the start the Christians took off from the Aggie 48 and stopped only when O'Brien hurled a pass to Johnny Hall on the six and he lugged it across.

Shoving off on the T. C. U. 20, O'Brien and Sparks drove to their 46 and then O'Brien passed to Hall again on the Aggie 27. Trapped, he wheeled and lateraled off to Fred Shook, guard, who scored.

In the third period, Steffens picked up O'Brien's fumble on the Christian 40 and after a drive Rogers circled end for the score.

O'Brien later passed to Don Looney on the 15 and spotted Charlie Williams on the goal for the score. Little Davey next bobbed up with a pass to Charlie Williams on the nine-yard line, and the little fellow personally toted the ball across.

JONESBORO-HODGE TRAMPLES RAYVILLE

JONESBORO, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—The Jonesboro-Hodge Tigers went through the Rayville Hornets in full stride here yesterday to trounce the Richland parish aggregation, 47 to 7, for the locals' third Class A conference victory of the season.

Led by Whitten and Frey, the Tigers scored 34 points in the first half and eased up with 13 points in the last half as reserves played most of the two final periods. Whitten scored three touchdowns, and Frey scored two. Eiland, an end, and Boddie, reserve back playing in the place of Hargrove who was unable to participate in the battle, scored one touchdown each. Eiland also added three extra points and G. Poole and Frey scored one point each.

Coach "Sonny" Maroney's charges will have an open date on their schedule next week-end, but they jump back into their conference schedule by meeting Winnfield's Tigers at Winnfield on October 28.

The initial meeting of all leaders, captains and team workers of the Twin City Community Chest will be held on Cherokee terrace, Hotel Frances, Monday, October 24 at 7:30 p. m. At that time all workers will have received their supplies and will be in possession of complete information as to how to complete a successful campaign. This "pep meeting" is being looked forward to as the kick-off of the entire campaign which will start on the following morning with a concentration of energy that is calculated to carry it to the goal and it is hoped to even surpass the sum announced.

Prizes will prove an incentive, merchants having been unusually generous in their contributions. These will be announced shortly and will be on display at Hotel Frances at the time of the kickoff "pep meeting" or even earlier. The prizes will be so valuable that there will, it is assured, be unusual rivalry as to their possession by the competitive team workers.

Headquarters have been established for a number of weeks in Hotel Frances lobby where a careful and exhaustive system of compiling names and cards indicating past donations has been prepared by careful workers. In all there are from 1,200 to 1,500 cards bearing names of prospective donors. Payments will be so arranged that donors can pay all cash or break up their donations into quarterly, or semi-annual payments as convenience may require, but all are urged and expected as a civic duty to do their bit to put over the biggest project that has ever been presented to the local public.

Emphasis, too, is placed on the fact that those in charge of the fund have at the outset forestalled any criticism in the manner of the administration of funds donated. The board has placed a limit of but 10 per cent which can be expended in salaries, postage, stationery and other essential expenses, which is regarded as unusually moderate. Those who donate can do so with the positive assurance that 90 cents out of every dollar will go to the cause for which it is given. No one will get large salaries and each and every expense will be kept down to the minimum.

'DEATH' FOR AIRMEN LURKS IN A LOG CABIN

Inside this crude log cabin at Fort Bragg, N. C., two gunners man a three-inch anti-aircraft gun in war maneuvers that brought an "enemy" fleet of planes in attack on the reservation. Note the barrel of the gun is wrapped in burlap to prevent betraying glints, while light filtering through the loosely constructed roof makes strange patterns. Camouflaged emplacements like this were covered with a smoke screen while pursuit and bombing planes engaged in mimic warfare 22,000 feet above.

proved conclusively that we have filled the tremendous void that existed in unionization of industry until a few years ago," he said.

"And, at our convention in Pittsburgh next month, we will lay a permanent foundation for industrial unionism which will not be swept aside by short-sighted opposition."

Secretary Perkins, in her address at a joint celebration of the 70th anniversary of the Order of Railway Conductors and the 50th anniversary of its Ladies' auxiliary, said:

"I have great faith in the capacity of people on both sides of this controversy to make a fair and workable adjustment, and the desire for it from the membership and from the public is intense."

If representatives of the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. could not agree on three "disinterested persons" to join them in a mediation effort, she continued, some trusted "outside" person could be asked to select them. The labor representatives should be empowered, she said, to bind their organizations to any agreement reached.

The secretary's statement was the first definite suggestion from the administration for settlement of the controversy, although President Roosevelt appealed to the federation convention in Houston, Tex., recently to leave open the door to peace.

GERMANS ASSAIL BARUCH WARNING

garian Premier Koloman Daranyi after conferences with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, Germans felt two things would happen in the immediate future:

1. Czechoslovakia would remold her political, social and military life to adapt herself to Germany's influence.

2. Hungary would receive all those sections of Czechoslovakia on the Hungarian border where the Hungarian race and language predominate.

Hitler, according to Germans in touch with the situation, did not designate in his conferences yesterday which cities, towns and villages should be regarded as Hungarian but insisted the same yardstick be applied to the situation on the Hungarian-Czechoslovak border as was used in the Sudeten district.

In other words, he insisted contiguous territory in which more than 50 per cent of the population speaks Hungarian and is of Hungarian stock must be ceded to Hungary forthwith by Czechoslovakia.

With regard to sections with mixed populations, a trade might be worked out.

and quoted passages from the Bible. He said he and his companions were "simply following the example of the apostles of Jehovah."

To this the judge replied:

"This literature shows plainly that you are against all forms of religion and advocate the destruction of all religions and churches."

tions for access to raw materials and the forceful action taken by those nations to consummate these desires has made Brazil, a country of vast territory and relatively small population, particularly apprehensive," Secretary Hull informed the senate in August, 1937.

This apprehension now has spread to almost every corner of Latin America, according to reports received here. It is said every country now is assembling the strongest delegation it can muster to attend the Pan-American conference in December at Lima, Peru, where the problem inevitably will be discussed, although it may not appear on the formal agenda.

Secretary Hull likely will head the American delegation.

While the United States rearms, it is believed in some political quarters that the destroyers Brazil sought may now be provided in a correlated program to help the Latin countries prepare to defend themselves. Other countries in South America will have the same privilege if the Brazilian proposal is approved.

Possible light was thrown on German-Brazilian relations today when the Geman government requested Brazil to recall its ambassador from Berlin. The Brazilian government had objected previously to the return to Rio de Janiro of the German ambassador, Karl Ritter. He was believed to have been unwelcome in Rio since he protested last May at the arrest of a number of Germans in connection with an abortive integralist putsch.

It has been reported here that Italy has made determined efforts recently to sell military aircraft in Latin America in return for raw materials. Technicians and advisors have been provided in some cases to countries accepting this offer.

Germany likewise has recently been spreading her trade and influence in several Latin countries, taking in return for goods large quantities of agricultural products and raw materials which would be difficult for the United States to absorb. Improved communications with Latin America also have been established, a measure now being challenged by the inauguration of fast American steamship service between New York and east South American ports.

BELIEVES U. S. SHOULD PREPARE

bers of people employment instead of relief.

"The cost of building up our national defenses will be high, undoubtedly several billion dollars before it is through, but it is a price we must pay if we are going to make the voice of America a voice of authority in world affairs. The aggressive nations of the world pay heed to only one thing—force and might.

"We should build only for defense, but we should build to such an extent that the aggressive nations will know we are prepared to defend our political and economical ideals against all odds."

Referring to the statements in the German press that he was mixed up in a "Jewish plot" to influence President Roosevelt, Baruch said:

"I am not going to engage in name-calling or personalities. I have only one interest—that of America. As for what the Nazis may say about me, I can only point to the record.

"At the Versailles peace conference, where I was economic adviser to the American delegation, and chairman of its economic section, I fought consistently for better terms for defeated Germany. England and France showed a complete lack of wisdom in trampling Germany underfoot then, and in failing, later, to ameliorate the uneconomic terms of the peace imposed at Versailles."

All of this, he said, "is beside the point."

"The big thing is this—after Munich, what do we face?

"Germany, Japan and Italy are thoroughly armed, or as well armed as their resources permit. They are looking around the world, and have been for some time, for new fields of resources to control.

"It is in the Americas—North and South—where the great future development of the world will take place. The natural course is for the aggressor nations to seek penetration into this hemisphere and with their usual thoroughness, they have been doing it for some time.

"We have seen them trying to put over their ideologies with their unfair methods of trade.

"Some may think it far-fetched to talk of danger in this, but we would see the danger quick encugh if their system should be enforced upon some country in this hemisphere and the aggressor nations should obtain naval and air bases on the American continents."

Baruch was asked what measures the United States should take, besides building new armaments, to defend this country's position in South America.

"Well," he replied, quickly, "I don't think we should monkey with their own political affairs, with their governments. We should cultivate President Roosevelt's 'good neighbor' policy to the fullest extent, politically as well as economically. They should not feel that we are trying to boss them. They will find out for themselves the dangers brought about by the aggressive nations. Brazil already has found it out."

To build up trade with South American countries, Baruch suggested that "we do anything that has possibilities of success. If it is necessary for the United States to subsidize trade with South American nations, to meet the unfair methods of these aggressors, then we should do it, much as I dislike such a method."

Baruch was asked if there was any truth in the rumors that he would be connected in some governmental way with the armaments program.

"If there is, I haven't been told about it," he answered. "I don't want any job, but if anyone in Washington wants me to do something which I can do, I will do it."

FIFTH DISTRICT TO CAST BALLOTS

have all thrown their support to Todd since they were defeated in the first primary held on September 12, and have urged voters to follow in their lead.

Mills has based his appeal for re-election on what he has termed his accomplishments for his constituents in the past two years he has served as congressman.

That the number of votes cast in the coming primary will be far greater than in the primary of last month, is indicated by the fact that more than 5,000 voters of the district who had neglected to register have been enrolled and will be qualified to cast ballots.

The polls will open Tuesday at 6 a.m. and will close at 7 p.m. Election officials who served in the September primary will serve at the run-off primary. Because of the shortness of the ballot, returns are expected to be received promptly. A large number of absentee ballots have already been cast.

The general election is scheduled for November 8.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Trading in grains continued at a slow pace today with wheat prices only fractionally higher. Unfavorable crop conditions in Australia were again, as in recent sessions, a reason for market firmness.

Opening 1-8 lower to 1-4 higher, Dec. 65 3-8 to 1-4, May 66 1-2 to 3-8, wheat later showed little change. Corn started unchanged to 1-4 down, Dec. 44 1-2 to 3-8, May 47 7-8 to 3-4.

Wheat closed unchanged to 3-8 higher compared with Friday's finish, Dec. 65 3-8 to 1-2, May 66 1-2 to 5-8, while corn was 1-8 up to 1-8 off, Dec. 44 1-2 to 5-8, May 47 7-8 to 48 and oats unchanged to 1-4 lower.

NEW HIGH SPOTS OF YEAR REACHED

Selected Industrials And Utilities Climb In Fast Rallying Swing

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Selected industrials and utilities hit the high spots in today's market on a fast rallying swing that landed numerous issues in new territory for the past year.

Business optimism, partly in connection with roseate expectations of huge government spending for armaments, together with additional signs of greater cooperation between the power companies and the government, helped to bring in fresh buying, brokers said.

Particular strength was exhibited by aircrafts, which stand to profit extensively if the national defense program comes up to forecasts. Coppers pushed along as mounting prices for this metal were foreseen. Several specialties were hard to acquire. Gains ran to three or more points and, notwithstanding insistent profit taking at the close, most favorites ended at or near the best.

While the opening was a trifle mixed, bidding soon got under way at a speedy clip and, during the initial hour, the ticker tape was behind as much as two minutes with the turnover in this period amounting to 830,000 shares. For the brief session transfers approximated 1,200,000 shares.

Steels had their moment in the limelight as mill operations next week were thought likely to register another upturn. Price cutting in this field, however, was somewhat of a retarding influence for these stocks and most slipped at the finish.

Motors also held to a slim groove, fears of future labor troubles interrupting expanding output and digging into net earnings acting as a brake on this department.

Rails generally were a shade under water throughout, despite satisfactory freight traffic increases. The wage controversy was still a cloud over the carriers.

Bonds were selectively higher. Commodities shuffled over a narrowly irregular route.

Up fractions to more than a point on the curb were Newmont, Northern States Power "A," American Gas and Electric, Hecla Mining and Electric Bond and Share, the last on extremely heavy buying. General Electric limited and Jones and Laughlin dipped 1 to 2.

OIL AND GAS NEWS

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Eight new producers in Louisiana oil fields, with total initial daily production of 3,602 barrels were listed in the weekly report of the minerals division of the department of conservation, made public today.

Largest producer of the week was at Bay St. Elaine in Terrebonne parish, where the Texas company completed its No. 18 State in a new sand at 6811 feet for a daily production of 865 barrels through a 3-16 inch choke. Principal completion in north Louisiana was in the Shreveport field where R. E. Allison completed the second producer, No. 2 Ellerbe, flowing at the rate of 561 barrels through a quarter inch choke.

Fifty-one permits to drill new wells, the largest number in several months, were issued by the minerals division during the week. Eighteen of the permits were for wells in southeast Louisiana, east of the Atchafalaya river.

Production of crude oil in Louisiana for the week ending October 8 was estimated by the department of conservation at 270,670 barrels a day, of which 189,100 barrels daily were produced in gulf coast fields and 81,750 in north Louisiana.

New producers listed in the report, with date of completion ranging from September 30 to October 12, are:

Bay St. Elaine, Terrebonne parish, the Texas company, No. 18 State, 865 barrels; Cotton Valley, Webster parish, H. I. Morgan, et-al No. A-2 Hope, 536 barrels; Dog Lake, Terrebonne parish, the Texas company, No. 8 Lle, 418 barrels; Evangeline, Acadia parish, Guaranty Oil company, No. 1 Clement 165 barrels.

Jeanerette, St. Mary parish, Herton Oil company, No. A-1 Roane Sugars et-al, 440 barrels; Shreveport, Caddo parish, R. E. Allison, No. 2 Ellerbe et-al, 561 barrels; Ville Platte, Evangeline parish, Continental Oil company, No. 1 Fontenot-Ludeau-Tate, 544 barrels; West Hackberry, Cameron parish, Gulf Refining company, No. A-1 C. O. Noble fee, 274 barrels.

Permits to drill were issued to the following:

SLIGHT DECLINES NOTED IN COTTON

Final Prices Steady As Trade Demand, Covering Absorbs Offerings

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Week-end liquidation caused slight declines in cotton here today but the offerings were absorbed by trade demand and covering. Final prices were steady, net unchanged to 4 points lower.

Incentives to buying were lacking but selling was only moderate and limited to evening up commitments. Foreign markets were about as due and weather conditions over the belt were favorable for picking and ginning.

Dec. closed at 8.36. Jan. 8.29, March 8.26, May 8.13, July 8.04 and Oct. 7.81.

The turnover yesterday was 29,550 bales and open commitments 406,950, a decrease of 2,050 bales from the previous day.

Exports today were 20,181 bales.

The initial meeting of all leaders, captains and team workers of the Twin City Community Chest will be held on Cherokee terrace, Hotel Frances, Monday, October 24 at 7:30 p. m. At that time all workers will have received their supplies and will be in possession of complete information as to how to complete a successful campaign. This "pep meeting" is being looked forward to as the kick-off of the entire campaign which will start on the following morning with a concentration of energy that is calculated to carry it to the goal and it is hoped to even surpass the sum announced.

Prizes will prove an incentive, merchants having been unusually generous in their contributions. These will be announced shortly and will be on display at Hotel Frances at the time of the kickoff "pep meeting" or even earlier. The prizes will be so valuable that there will, it is assured, be unusual rivalry as to their possession by the competitive team workers.

Headquarters have been established for a number of weeks in Hotel Frances lobby where a careful and exhaustive system of compiling names and cards indicating past donations has been prepared by careful workers. In all there are from 1,200 to 1,500 cards bearing names of prospective donors. Payments will be so arranged that donors can pay all cash or break up their donations into quarterly, or semi-annual payments as convenience may require, but all are urged and expected as a civic duty to do their bit to put over the biggest project that has ever been presented to the local public.

Emphasis, too, is placed on the fact that those in charge of the fund have at the outset forestalled any criticism in the manner of the administration of funds donated. The board has placed a limit of but 10 per cent which can be expended in salaries, postage, stationery and other essential expenses, which is regarded as unusually moderate. Those who donate can do so with the positive assurance that 90 cents out of every dollar will go to the cause for which it is given. No one will get large salaries and each and every expense will be kept down to the minimum.

'DEATH' FOR AIRMEN LURKS IN A LOG CABIN

Inside this crude log cabin at Fort Bragg, N. C., two gunners man a three-inch anti-aircraft gun in war maneuvers that brought an "enemy" fleet of planes in attack on the reservation. Note the barrel of the gun is wrapped in burlap to prevent betraying glints, while light filtering through the loosely constructed roof makes strange patterns. Camouflaged emplacements like this were covered with a smoke screen while pursuit and bombing planes engaged in mimic warfare 22,000 feet above.

NEW DEAL TRIES TO MAKE PEACE

proved conclusively that we have filled the tremendous void that existed in unionization of industry until a few years ago," he said.

"And, at our convention in Pittsburgh next month, we will lay a permanent foundation for industrial unionism which will not be swept aside by short-sighted opposition."

Secretary Perkins, in her address at a joint celebration of the 70th anniversary of the Order of Railway Conductors and the 50th anniversary of its Ladies' auxiliary, said:

"I have great faith in the capacity of people on both sides of this controversy to make a fair and workable adjustment, and the desire for it from the membership and from the public is intense."

If representatives of the A. F. of L. and the C. I. O. could not agree on three "disinterested persons" to join them in a mediation effort, she continued, some trusted "outside" person could be asked to select them. The labor representatives should be empowered, she said, to bind their organizations to any agreement reached.

The secretary's statement was the first definite suggestion from the administration for settlement of the controversy, although President Roosevelt appealed to the federation convention in Houston, Tex., recently to leave open the door to peace.

garian Premier Koloman Daranyi after conferences with Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler, Germans felt two things would happen in the immediate future:

1. Czechoslovakia would remold her political, social and military life to adapt herself to Germany's influence.

2. Hungary would receive all those sections of Czechoslovakia on the Hungarian border where the Hungarian race and language predominate.

Hitler, according to Germans in touch with the situation, did not designate in his conferences yesterday which cities, towns and villages should be regarded as Hungarian but insisted the same yardstick be applied to the situation on the Hungarian-Czechoslovak border as was used in the Sudeten district.

In other words, he insisted contiguous territory in which more than 50 per cent of the population speaks Hungarian and is of Hungarian stock must be ceded to Hungary forthwith by Czechoslovakia.

With regard to sections with mixed populations, a trade might be worked out.

FOUR FINED FOR ACTS OF FASCISM

and quoted passages from the Bible. He said he and his companions were "simply following the example of the apostles of Jehovah."

To this the judge replied:

"This literature shows plainly that you are against all forms of religion and advocate the destruction of all religions and churches."

tions for access to raw materials and the forceful action taken by those nations to consummate these desires has made Brazil, a country of vast territory and relatively small population, particularly apprehensive," Secretary Hull informed the senate in August, 1937.

This apprehension now has spread to almost every corner of Latin America, according to reports received here. It is said every country now is assembling the strongest delegation it can muster to attend the Pan-American conference in December at Lima, Peru, where the problem inevitably will be discussed, although it may not appear on the formal agenda.

Secretary Hull likely will head the American delegation.

While the United States rearms, it is believed in some political quarters that the destroyers Brazil sought may now be provided in a correlated program to help the Latin countries prepare to defend themselves. Other countries in South America will have the same privilege if the Brazilian proposal is approved.

Possible light was thrown on German-Brazilian relations today when the Geman government requested Brazil to recall its ambassador from Berlin. The Brazilian government had objected previously to the return to Rio de Janiro of the German ambassador, Karl Ritter. He was believed to have been unwelcome in Rio since he protested last May at the arrest of a number of Germans in connection with an abortive integralist putsch.

It has been reported here that Italy has made determined efforts recently to sell military aircraft in Latin America in return for raw materials. Technicians and advisors have been provided in some cases to countries accepting this offer.

Germany likewise has recently been spreading her trade and influence in several Latin countries, taking in return for goods large quantities of agricultural products and raw materials which would be difficult for the United States to absorb. Improved communications with Latin America also have been established, a measure now being challenged by the inauguration of fast American steamship service between New York and east South American ports.

BELIEVES U. S. SHOULD PREPARE

bers of people employment instead of relief.

"The cost of building up our national defenses will be high, undoubtedly several billion dollars before it is through, but it is a price we must pay if we are going to make the voice of America a voice of authority in world affairs. The aggressive nations of the world pay heed to only one thing—force and might.

"We should build only for defense, but we should build to such an extent that the aggressive nations will know we are prepared to defend our political and economical ideals against all odds."

Referring to the statements in the German press that he was mixed up in a "Jewish plot" to influence President Rcosevelt, Baruch said:

"I am not going to engage in name-calling or personalities. I have only one interest—that of America. As for what the Nazis may say about me, I can only point to the record.

"At the Versailles peace conference, where I was economic adviser to the American delegation, and chairman of its economic section, I fought consistently for better terms for defeated Germany. England and France showed a complete lack of wisdom in trampling Germany underfoot then, and in failing, later, to ameliorate the uneconomic terms of the peace imposed at Versailles."

All of this, he said, "is beside the point."

"The big thing is this—after Munich, what do we face?

"Germany, Japan and Italy are thoroughly armed, or as well armed as their resources permit. They are looking around the world, and have been for some time, for new fields of resources to control.

"It is in the Americas—North and South—where the great future development of the world will take place. The natural course is for the aggressor nations to seek penetration into this hemisphere and with their usual thoroughness, they have been doing it for some time.

"We have seen them trying to put over their ideologies with their unfair methods of trade.

"Some may think it far-fetched to talk of danger in this, but we would see the danger quick enough if their system should be enforced upon some country in this hemisphere and the aggressor nations should obtain naval and air bases on the American continents."

Baruch was asked what measures the United States should take, besides building new armaments, to defend this country's position in South America.

"Well," he replied, quickly, "I don't think we should monkey with their own political affairs, with their governments. We should cultivate President Roosevelt's 'good neighbor' policy to the fullest extent, politically as well as economically. They should not feel that we are trying to boss them. They will find out for themselves the dangers brought about by the aggressive nations. Brazil already has found it out."

To build up trade with South American countries, Baruch suggested that "we do anything that has possibilities of success. If it is necessary for the United States to subsidize trade with South American nations, to meet the unfair methods of these aggressors, then we should do it, much as I dislike such a method."

Baruch was asked if there was any truth in the rumors that he would be connected in some governmental way with the armaments program.

"If there is, I haven't been told about it," he answered. "I don't want any job, but if anyone in Washington wants me to do something which I can do, I will do it."

FIFTH DISTRICT TO CAST BALLOTS

have all thrown their support to Todd since they were defeated in the first primary held on September 12, and have urged voters to follow in their lead.

Mills has based his appeal for re-election on what he has termed his accomplishments for his constituents in the past two years he has served as congressman.

That the number of votes cast in the coming primary will be far greater than in the primary of last month, is indicated by the fact that more than 5,000 voters of the district who had neglected to register have been enrolled and will be qualified to cast ballots.

The polls will open Tuesday at 6 a.m. and will close at 7 p.m. Election officials who served in the September primary will serve at the run-off primary. Because of the shortness of the ballot, returns are expected to be received promptly. A large number of absentee ballots have already been cast.

The general election is scheduled for November 8.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Trading in grains continued at a slow pace today with wheat prices only fractionally higher. Unfavorable crop conditions in Australia were again, as in recent sessions, a reason for market firmness.

Opening 1-8 lower to 1-4 higher, Dec. 65 3-8 to 1-4, May 66 1-2 to 3-8, wheat later showed little change. Corn started unchanged to 1-4 down, Dec. 44 1-2 to 3-8, May 47 7-8 to 3-4.

Wheat closed unchanged to 3-8 higher compared with Friday's finish, Dec. 65 3-8 to 1-2, May 66 1-2 to 5-8, while corn was 1-8 up to 1-8 off, Dec. 44 1-2 to 5-8, May 47 7-8 to 48 and oats unchanged to 1-4 lower.

NEW HIGH SPOTS OF YEAR REACHED

Selected Industrials And Utilities Climb In Fast Rallying Swing

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Selected industrials and utilities hit the high spots in today's market on a fast rallying swing that landed numerous issues in new territory for the past year.

Business optimism, partly in connection with roseate expectations of huge government spending for armaments, together with additional signs of greater cooperation between the power companies and the government, helped to bring in fresh buying, brokers said.

Particular strength was exhibited by aircrafts, which stand to profit extensively if the national defense program comes up to forecasts. Coppers pushed along as mounting prices for this metal were foreseen. Several specialties were hard to acquire. Gains ran to three or more points and, notwithstanding insistent profit taking at the close, most favorites ended at or near the best.

While the opening was a trifle mixed, bidding soon got under way at a speedy clip and, during the initial hour, the ticker tape was behind as much as two minutes with the turnover in this period amounting to 830,000 shares. For the brief session transfers approximated 1,200,000 shares.

Steels had their moment in the limelight as mill operations next week were thought likely to register another upturn. Price cutting in this field, however, was somewhat of a retarding influence for these stocks and most slipped at the finish.

Motors also held to a slim groove, fears of future labor troubles interrupting expanding output and digging into net earnings acting as a brake on this department.

Rails generally were a shade under water throughout, despite satisfactory freight traffic increases. The wage controversy was still a cloud over the carriers.

Bonds were selectively higher. Commodities shuffled over a narrowly irregular route.

Up fractions to more than a point on the curb were Newmont, Northern States Power "A," American Gas and Electric, Hecla Mining and Electric Bond and Share, the last on extremely heavy buying. General Electric limited and Jones and Laughlin dipped 1 to 2.

Sugar

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Raw sugar was unchanged today at 3.10 for spots with a sale reported as of late yesterday of 25,000 bags of Cubas for prompt shipments.

Futures were quiet. After partial advances early on trade buying, the No. 3 contract eased under liquidation. The No. 4 closed 1-2 net lower with trading limited to a single lot, or 50 tons, of July at 1.07.

Refined was unchanged at 4.50-75 for fine granulated with a good withdrawal demand reported.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Stocks firm; industrials lead rally. Bonds quiet; U. S. governments in demand. Curb improved; utilities spurt. Foreign exchange steady; sterling a shade off. Cotton narrow; hedge selling. Sugar even; steady spot market. Coffee steady; trade buying.

CHICAGO—Wheat firm; trade very quiet. Corn about steady. Cattle nominally steady. Hogs steady to 10 lower.

OIL AND GAS NEWS

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Eight new producers in Louisiana oil fields, with total initial daily production of 3,602 barrels were listed in the weekly report of the minerals division of the department of conservation, made public today.

Largest producer of the week was at Bay St. Elaine in Terrebonne parish, where the Texas company completed its No. 18 State in a new sand at 6811 feet for a daily production of 865 barrels through a 3-16 inch choke. Principal completion in north Louisiana was in the Shreveport field where R. E. Allison completed the second producer, No. 2 Ellerbe, flowing at the rate of 561 barrels through a quarter inch choke.

Fifty-one permits to drill new wells, the largest number in several months, were issued by the minerals division during the week. Eighteen of the permits were for wells in southeast Louisiana, east of the Atchafalaya river.

Production of crude oil in Louisiana for the week ending October 8 was estimated by the department of conservation at 270,670 barrels a day, of which 189,100 barrels daily were produced in gulf coast fields and 81,750 in north Louisiana.

New producers listed in the report, with date of completion ranging from September 30 to October 12, are:

SLIGHT DECLINES NOTED IN COTTON

Final Prices Steady As Trade Demand, Covering Absorbs Offerings

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Week-end liquidation caused slight declines in cotton here today but the offerings were absorbed by trade demand and covering. Final prices were steady, net unchanged to 4 points lower.

Incentives to buying were lacking but selling was only moderate and limited to evening up commitments. Foreign markets were about as due and weather conditions over the belt were favorable for picking and ginning.

Dec. closed at 8.36, Jan. 8.29, March 8.26, May 8.13, July 8.04 and Oct. 7.81.

The turnover yesterday was 29,550 bales and open commitments 406,950, a decrease of 2,050 bales from the previous day.

Exports today were 20,181 bales.

BEGIN EXPANSION PROJECT AT MILL

Launch $750,000 Construction Program At Crossett Paper Plant

CROSSETT, Ark., Oct. 15.—(Special)—Work involving the expenditure of about $750,000 on additions and improvements was started at the Crossett Paper mill today. Plans provide for construction of four additional units including an extension to the finishing and storage rooms, a power plant and installation of one turbine generator, a bleaching plant and a mill for recovery of oil by-products.

The two-story brick extension to the finishing room will be 64 feet wide and 128 feet long and will be added to the west end of the present building. The extension will serve chiefly as a storage room.

The new power plant will provide electrical energy to meet the increased demand for power and will eliminate the purchase of additional current from commercial power concerns, engineers said. The power unit also involves installation of an emergency steam boiler.

The output capacity of finished products will be increased by the bleaching plant and the manufacture of bleached board and "pulp specialty" will be made possible. A by-product known as "tall-oil," used in making paints and lacquers, will be recovered from refuse black liquors in which the pulp fibers are cooked during the paper-making process. The "tall-oil" will be shipped in tank cars to factories in New England.

The new construction is being done by Rush Engineering company of Pittsburgh, Pa., builders of the original $3,800,000 mill in 1936. The present mill was financed by a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Charles Haxby of Pittsburgh, who served as assistant superintendent for the Rust company when the original plant was being built, is superintendent on the new job. Engineers said the work will be completed by March, 1940, and that about 250 men will be employed when building work is at its peak.

The mill's output capacity of raw pulp will not be increased, engineers said, but improvements of the finishing machines will increase their efficiency and furnish facilities for converting 200 tons of raw pulp daily into paper and pulpboard. Improvements also will be made in the pulpwood storage and conveyor equipment.

Ground has been broken at the new building sites and crews will start driving piling for foundations next week.

ODD FELLOWS PAY HONOR TO STEIDLEY

A resolution of respect and sympathy extended to the family of Will A. Steidley, senior past grand master of the I. O. O. F., was approved by the Ouachita Valley Odd Fellows lodge after it had been similarly approved by the grand lodge at Baton Rouge.

Mr. Steidley was not only senior past grand master, but also past grand representative and past grand secretary of the grand lodge. He was initiated into the order in Illinois, January 11, 1883, and was elected grand master of the grand lodge of Louisiana, March 2, 1897, serving with honor for a year. He was elected representative to the sovereign grand lodge and served in that body in a most creditable manner.

He was appointed grand secretary of the grand lodge of Louisiana October 5, 1921, and was elected for seven years thereafter, and resigned the office with honor.

He served as a member of the Krause endowment board from the time of its organization and his work for Odd Fellowship has always said to have been of first consideration by him.

BURGLARY REPORTED AT NEGRO CLEANING SHOP

Police yesterday were investigating the burglary of a negro business establishment and the attempted burglary of a negro home, it was reported at police headquarters.

Jim Watts, negro, of 813 Grammont street, said his cleaning shop, located at 405 Seventh street, had been entered Friday night and two suits of clothing stolen. An intruder also attempted to break into the home of Linton Davenport, negro, 1700 Grammont street, but was frightened away.

Police Captain Frank S. Pettit and Officer C. W. Platt were conducting the investigations in both cases.

TAG DAY TO BE HELD TO AID UNDERPRIVILEGED

The Twin City P.-T. A. will conduct a tag day on Saturday, October 22, for the benefit of the Parent-Teacher organizations in the schools of West Monroe, according to announcement made Saturday.

Milk bottle tops will be used as "tags" and the public is asked to be generous in their gifts. Warm, wholesome lunches, shoes, clothing and other essentials of the underprivileged will be provided by means of the funds raised from time to time by the P.-T. A. organizations.

SHEPPARD WILL SPEAK AT NORTHEAST CENTER

C. C. Sheppard, Clarks lumberman, will speak before Northeast Center of L. S. U. students at the assembly hour Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock, it was announced last night by Dr. C. C. Colvert, dean of Northeast Center.

Sheppard will speak on the development of industry and the possibilities of more developments in the future.

NEGRO CHOIR TO SING

The St. James church senior choir, negro, will present a musical entertainment at the church, Monday at 8 p.m. There will be reserved seats for white people. The pastor of this church is Rev. G. C. Hayward.

BEGIN EXPANSION PROJECT AT MILL

Launch $750,000 Construction Program At Crossett Paper Plant

CROSSETT, Ark., Oct. 15.—(Special)—Work involving the expenditure of about $750,000 on additions and improvements was started at the Crossett Paper mill today. Plans provide for construction of four additional units including an extension to the finishing and storage rooms, a power plant and installation of one turbine generator, a bleaching plant and a mill for recovery of oil by-products.

The two-story brick extension to the finishing room will be 64 feet wide and 128 feet long and will be added to the west end of the present building. The extension will serve chiefly as a storage room.

The new power plant will provide electrical energy to meet the increased demand for power and will eliminate the purchase of additional current from commercial power concerns, engineers said. The power unit also involves installation of an emergency steam boiler.

The output capacity of finished products will be increased by the bleaching plant and the manufacture of bleached board and "pulp specialty" will be made possible. A by-product known as "tall-oil," used in making paints and lacquers, will be recovered from refuse black liquors in which the pulp fibers are cooked during the paper-making process. The "tall-oil" will be shipped in tank cars to factories in New England.

The new construction is being done by Rush Engineering company of Pittsburgh, Pa., builders of the original $3,800,000 mill in 1936. The present mill was financed by a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Charles Haxby of Pittsburgh, who served as assistant superintendent for the Rust company when the original plant was being built, is superintendent on the new job. Engineers said the work will be completed by March, 1940, and that about 250 men will be employed when building work is at its peak.

The mill's output capacity of raw pulp will not be increased, engineers said, but improvements of the finishing machines will increase their efficiency and furnish facilities for converting 200 tons of raw pulp daily into paper and pulpboard. Improvements also will be made in the pulpwood storage and conveyor equipment.

Ground has been broken at the new building sites and crews will start driving piling for foundations next week.

ODD FELLOWS PAY HONOR TO STEIDLEY

A resolution of respect and sympathy extended to the family of Will A. Steidley, senior past grand master of the I. O. O. F., was approved by the Ouachita Valley Odd Fellows lodge after it had been similarly approved by the grand lodge at Baton Rouge.

Mr. Steidley was not only senior past grand master, but also past grand representative and past grand secretary of the grand lodge. He was initiated into the order in Illinois, January 11, 1883, and was elected grand master of the grand lodge of Louisiana, March 2, 1897, serving with honor for a year. He was elected representative to the sovereign grand lodge and served in that body in a most creditable manner.

He was appointed grand secretary of the grand lodge of Louisiana October 5, 1921, and was elected for seven years thereafter, and resigned the office with honor.

He served as a member of the Krause endowment board from the time of its organization and his work for Odd Fellowship has always said to have been of first consideration by him.

BURGLARY REPORTED AT NEGRO CLEANING SHOP

Police yesterday were investigating the burglary of a negro business establishment and the attempted burglary of a negro home, it was reported at police headquarters.

Jim Watts, negro, of 813 Grammont street, said his cleaning shop, located at 405 Seventh street, had been entered Friday night and two suits of clothing stolen. An intruder also attempted to break into the home of Linton Davenport, negro, 1700 Grammont street, but was frightened away.

Police Captain Frank S. Pettit and Officer C. W. Platt were conducting the investigations in both cases.

TAG DAY TO BE HELD TO AID UNDERPRIVILEGED

The Twin City P.-T. A. will conduct a tag day on Saturday, October 22, for the benefit of the Parent-Teacher organizations in the schools of West Monroe, according to announcement made Saturday.

Milk bottle tops will be used as "tags" and the public is asked to be generous in their gifts. Warm, wholesome lunches, shoes, clothing and other essentials of the underprivileged will be provided by means of the funds raised from time to time by the P.-T. A. organizations.

SHEPPARD WILL SPEAK AT NORTHEAST CENTER

C. C. Sheppard, Clarks lumberman, will speak before Northeast Center of L. S. U. students at the assembly hour Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock, it was announced last night by Dr. C. C. Colvert, dean of Northeast Center.

Sheppard will speak on the development of industry and the possibilities of more developments in the future.

NEGRO CHOIR TO SING

The St. James church senior choir, negro, will present a musical entertainment at the church, Monday at 8 p.m. There will be reserved seats for white people. The pastor of this church is Rev, G. C. Hayward.

MRS. KAPLAN TO EXECUTIVE POST

Prominent Local Woman Named Secretary-Treasurer Of Furniture Firm

Mrs Ida I. Kaplan, prominent local resident for many years and a large stockholder in the Monroe Furniture company, Ltd., has been elected secretary-treasurer of the concern, effective October 1, it was announced yesterday by Joe Isaacman, president and general manager of the firm.

Mr. Isaacman said Mrs. Kaplan, in assuming her position has requested that the executives carry out the policies of the company which have been in effect for more than 40 years. Mrs. Kaplan is in close harmony with other directors and at the present time is chairman of the board of directors of the United Furniture Stores, Inc.

"I feel the customers and friends of the Monroe Furniture company, Ltd., will be well pleased with the selection of Mrs. Kaplan as our secretary-treasurer," Mr. Isaacman said. "She has been closely associated with this firm since its inception and her election means the continuance of the sound policies that have been in effect for more than 40 years. Mrs. Kaplan is grateful to the citizenship of Monroe, West Monroe and northeast Louisiana for the splendid patronage accorded the Monroe Furniture company, Ltd., in the past and she will bend every effort to merit such confidence in the future."

Mrs. Kaplan spent her girlhood in Monroe and has been actively associated with numerous worthwhile projects ever since. She is particularly noted for her philanthropic activities. During her residence here for more than 40 years, she has watched Monroe grow from a small town to a thriving city. She attended public school here, having been educated in the city school system. She has been particularly active in her church.

Keenly interested in many civic and charitable institutions, Mrs. Kaplan served as a member of the Monroe Public library for many years and also was secretary-treasurer of the Ladies' Aid and Temple Sisterhood of B'Nai Israel for 17 years. She also served on the board of directors of B'Nai Israel temple. She is a member of the Business and Professional Women's club.

MANY ATTEND W. M. S. MEETING AT CLARKS

CLARKS, La., Oct. 14.—(Special)—The largest crowd on record as having attended a quarterly meeting of the Baptist Women's Missionary union in Caldwell parish was present at the all-day meeting held at the Baptist church in Clarks on Wdnesday. The delegations represented four churches, Columbia, Grayson, Clarks and Kelly, and included more than 76 persons.

The guest speakers were Mr. and Mrs. F. A. R. Morgan, Baptist missionaries to Sao Paulo, Brazil, South America, who are on a leave of absence from Brazil.

The morning program of the meeting featured "The Golden Jubilee Period, in charge of Mrs. Paul Jones of Clarks. This program commemorated the 50th anniversary of the organization.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Mrs. H. C. Bridger of Columbia, superintendent; Mrs. E. B. Cottingham of Kelly, associate superintendent; Mrs. Clayton James of Columbia, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. J. C. Hines of Grayson, mission study chairman; Mrs. W. P. Banks of Clarks, stewardship chairman; Mrs. M. D. Ballard of Clarks, Margaret fund and training school chairman; Mrs. Ray Phillips of Kelly, young people's leader; Mrs. W. D. McSween of Columbia, personal service chairman, and Mrs. W. I. Meredith of Grayson, children's home chairman.

The next quarterly meeting will be held in January at the Baptist church in Kelly.

MONROE FURNITURE CO. EXECUTIVE

Mrs. Ida I. Kaplan, above, has been elected secretary-treasurer of the Monroe Furniture company, it was announced yesterday.

Maternity Welfare Clinic Valuable Asset To Monroe

Organized in February, 1937, under sponsorship of the local chapter of Catholic Daughters of America, the Monroe Maternity Welfare clinic has broadened its service to such an extent that it may now be classed as one of the educational institutions of the Twin Cities.

The vital importance of pre-natal and post-natal care has been one of the principal educational factors stressed by the clinic, and mothers from families in straightened circumstances who has placed themselves under the care of the clinic have aided greatly in spreading this educational program to include expectant mothers who are their friends or acquaintances.

Having begun its existence as a weakling infant with virtually no financial backing, without even the aim of acquiring finances, the maternity clinic is now a lusty youngster among the civic-humanitarian institutions of Monroe and West Monroe. Returning to its portals now are women who soon will bear their second babies under care of the clinic.

Wherever they reside in Monroe and West Monroe, mothers who have received medical care and instruction from the clinic have carried to other women the word that pre-natal and post-natal care is so important that it may mean life or death for mother or infant, or for both.

That the clinic has undoubtedly saved lives of some mothers and babies in cases where no payment was forthcoming and where none was expected, is shown in the fact that hospitalization has been provided in cases where the expectant mothers would not have known, had they not placed themselves under the care of the clinic, that hospitalization would be urgently required when the time came for them to "go down into the valley." Where there is a will to do a service to humanity, there seems always a way provided. Arrangements have been made so that these mothers could enter the St. Francis sanitarium or go to the Charity hospital at Shreveport to bring their babies into the world.

The maternity clinic holds as part of its creed that every mother should have medical care at least before the fifth month of pregnancy, and for some weeks after the birth of her child. In addition to the service of licensed physicians, mothers who go to the clinic for advice and aid in preparing themselves for their "time," receive the services of the graduate and experienced nurses of the Ouachita parish health unit.

Located in a frame building at the northeast corner of the St. Francis sanitarium grounds, the clinic is open to visits of white expectant mothers on Mondays at 8 a.m., and is open to visits of negro expectant mothers on Thursdays at 8 a.m. No patients who already have placed themselves under care of outside physicians are accepted at the clinic unless they bear written requests from these physicians asking that the clinic receive them.

A complete physical examination is given each patient at the clinic. Blood pressure, urinalysis, weight, temperature, fetal movement, signs of any abnormalities and many other details are made or observed. Special instructions are given relative to correct diet, clothing, posture, elimination, fresh air, exercise, bathing and correction of any abnormal mental attitudes.

During the expectant mother's first visit at the clinic, she is given a Wassermann test. If the test is positive, she receives treatment at the venereal clinic of the parish health unit. After birth of the baby, the mother and infant continue to receive this treatment.

Since the opening of the maternity clinic, 278 mothers have placed themselves under its care. A total of 1,174 visits to the clinic have been made by these mothers.

Six weeks after the birth of her baby, each mother is requested to return to the clinic for post-partum examination. One hundred and sixty such visits have been made, some of the mothers in the 126 cases of delivery at home having made more than one return visit.

The territorial area served by the maternity clinic embraces only Monroe and West Monroe, but expectant mothers residng outside of this area may obtain pre-natal and post-natal care by visiting the clinic, and may make other arrangements for delivery. If these patients are able to establish residence, temporary or otherwise, in Monroe and West Monroe, they may receive delivery service. The limited personnel of the clinic staff does not, at this time, permit delivery service outside of the Twin Cities.

Operated on a non-profit basis, the clinic charges a small fee to pay operating expenses. In indigent cases, no fee is charged. The most important phase of the clinic service, from the viewpoint of the clinic sponsors and personnel, is that every expectant mother in Monroe and West Monroe should be provided with medical advice and care before and after birth of her infant, no matter what her financial condition may be. When lives are saved and when mothers are enabled to bear healthy babies without undue suffering and complications, the clinic sponsors and personnel feel that their efforts are well rewarded.

Statistics from over the nation show, according to the clinic sponsors, that between one-half and one-third of maternal deaths are preventable and that maternal mortality goes hand in hand with infant mortality—especially with stillbirths and deaths of infants during the first two months of life. Further than believing that good pre-natal and post-natal care, and the service of a licensed physician during delivery, will save lives, the maternity clinic now has definitely carried out this idea in actual service.

Dr. William F. Guerriero and Dr. C. P. Gray, Jr., have served as physicians of the clinic since its organization, although Dr. Guerriero at this time is completing a course in advanced obstetrics at New Orleans. Dr. R. M. Simonton is giving his services during the absence of Dr. Guerriero.

Miss Lucille Woodville of the parish health unit is the nurse-supervisor of the maternity work. Nurses of the unit work under her supervision in the clinic service.

Working in a spirit of enthusiasm and cooperation, each of the individuals and organizations conducting the work of the clinic believes that it will continue to grow and will give a constantly broadening educational and medical service. Figures and statistics of the clinic service cannot reveal the scope of its influence because the dissemination of its educational program by word of mouth from one expectant mother to another is not measured; nor is there any measure of the number of mothers who, having been impressed by the clinic with the importance of pre-natal and post-natal care, go to private physicians when their financial conditions have improved and when they again are to bear an infant.

MAYOR PROCLAIMS FILM OBSERVANCE

'Motion Pictures' Greatest Year' Being Celebrated This Fall

A proclamation of Mayor Harvey H. Benoit yesterday set October 17 to December 31 for special observance in celebration of "motion pictures' greatest year."

The proclamation was issued in connection with the campaign sponsored by producers, exhibitors and picture executives generally to bring before the public the contribution being made by the industry for entertainment through outstanding films this fall. The industry is sponsoring a $250,000 "movie quiz" contest in connection with the campaign.

Mayor Benoit's proclamation follows:

"Aggressive action has ever been the tradition in the film industry. It is therefore particularly fitting that the industry assume leadership at this time and display its confidence in general business conditions by presenting this series of unusually fine productions.

"I am glad to urge the people of our city to participate in fullest measure in the fall celebration and presentation of pictures which will be shown in the Paramount and Capitol theaters to make this motion pictures' greatest year.

"For years the motion picture has played an important part in American life. It has widened the horizon of the average citizen and has given him a broader concept of living conditions in all walks of life and all parts of the world.

"The motion picture has provided an emotional outlet for countless millions and has placed a fine, educational entertainment within the reach of most persons.

"In view of these sentiments, now, therefore, I, Harvey H. Benoit, mayor of the city of Monroe, Louisiana, do hereby proclaim October 17, through December 31, 1938, set aside by me for special observance of the citizens of the city of Monroe in celebration of motion pictures' greatest year, and I do officially urge the citizens of Monroe to participate in fullest measure in this fall celebration and presentation of the splendid pictures which have been prepared by the motion picture studios in their avowed purpose of demonstrating that 'motion pictures are your best entertainment'."

NORMAL STUDENTS WILL ATTEND FAIR

NATCHITOCHES, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—Plans were completed for the entire student body and faculty of the Louisiana State Normal college to attend the opening day of the state fair in Shreveport on October 22, President Albert A. Fredericks announced.

A special train has been chartered over the Texas and Pacific railroad for the excursion, and arrangements are being made to accommodate the resident student body, local high school and elementary school pupils. Blanket tickets covering the train fare, entrance into the exposition grounds and the Normal-Tech game will be placed on sale here next week, officials stated.

Headed by the college concert band, cheering squad and Purple Jacket organization, the students will stage a pep parade before the game through the main streets of Shreveport, according to tentative plans announced today.

Miss Helen D'Abadie of New Roads, "sweetheart of the football team," will be presented along with her court of 10 coeds in the stadium of the fair grounds before the Demon-Bulldog game. The college band will stage a demonstration between the halves of the contest as a special feature.

BROWNLOW HASTINGS TO PREACH HERE TODAY

Brownlow Hastings, son of Rev. and Mrs. L. T. Hastings of Monroe, student in a Texas divinity school, will occupy the pulpit of his father's church, the First Baptist here, twice today.

The pastor will be absent from the city, as he is conducting a series of revivals in Rochelle, in which he is assisting Rev. Charles Freeman, pastor of the Baptist church there.

Young Hastings served as acting pastor here some weeks ago, during the observance of youth week. He has a wide circle of friends and it is expected that a large assemblage will be present at both morning and evening services today.

A public address system has been specially installed in the church so that all will be able to hear the services.

Mrs. Kaplan spent her girlhood in Monroe and has been actively associated with numerous worthwhile projects ever since. She is particularly noted for her philanthropic activities. During her residence here for more than 40 years, she has watched Monroe grow from a small town to a thriving city. She attended public school here, having been educated in the city school system. She has been particularly active in her church.

Keenly interested in many civic and charitable institutions, Mrs. Kaplan served as a member of the Monroe Public library for many years and also was secretary-treasurer of the Ladies' Aid and Temple Sisterhood of B'Nai Israel for 17 years. She also served on the board of directors of B'Nai Israel temple. She is a member of the Business and Professional Women's club.

Maternity Welfare Clinic Valuable Asset To Monroe

Organized in February, 1937, under sponsorship of the local chapter of Catholic Daughters of America, the Monroe Maternity Welfare clinic has broadened its service to such an extent that it may now be classed as one of the educational institutions of the Twin Cities.

The vital importance of pre-natal and post-natal care has been one of the principal educational factors stressed by the clinic, and mothers from families in straightened circumstances who has placed themselves under the care of the clinic have aided greatly in spreading this educational program to include expectant mothers who are their friends or acquaintances.

Having begun its existence as a weakling infant with virtually no financial backing, without even the aim of acquiring finances, the maternity clinic is now a lusty youngster among the civic-humanitarian institutions of Monroe and West Monroe. Returning to its portals now are women who soon will bear their second babies under care of the clinic.

Wherever they reside in Monroe and West Monroe, mothers who have received medical care and instruction from the clinic have carried to other women the word that pre-natal and post-natal care is so important that it may mean life or death for mother or infant, or for both.

That the clinic has undoubtedly saved lives of some mothers and babies in cases where no payment was forthcoming and where none was expected, is shown in the fact that hospitalization has been provided in cases where the expectant mothers would not have known, had they not placed themselves under the care of the clinic, that hospitalization would be urgently required when the time came for them to "go down into the valley." Where there is a will to do a service to humanity, there seems always a way provided. Arrangements have been made so that these mothers could enter the St. Francis sanitarium or go to the Charity hospital at Shreveport to bring their babies into the world.

The maternity clinic holds as part of its creed that every mother should have medical care at least before the fifth month of pregnancy, and for some weeks after the birth of her child. In addition to the service of licensed physicians, mothers who go to the clinic for advice and aid in preparing themselves for their "time," receive the services of the graduate and experienced nurses of the Ouachita parish health unit.

Located in a frame building at the northeast corner of the St. Francis sanitarium grounds, the clinic is open to visits of white expectant mothers on Mondays at 8 a.m., and is open to visits of negro expectant mothers on Thursdays at 8 a.m. No patients who already have placed themselves under care of outside physicians are accepted at the clinic unless they bear written requests from these physicians asking that the clinic receive them.

A complete physical examination is given each patient at the clinic. Blood pressure, urinalysis, weight, temperature, fetal movement, signs of any abnormalities and many other details are made or observed. Special instructions are given relative to correct diet, clothing, posture, elimination, fresh air, exercise, bathing and correction of any abnormal mental attitudes.

During the expectant mother's first visit at the clinic, she is given a Wassermann test. If the test is positive, she receives treatment at the venereal clinic of the parish health unit. After birth of the baby, the mother and infant continue to receive this treatment.

Since the opening of the maternity clinic, 278 mothers have placed themselves under its care. A total of 1,174 visits to the clinic have been made by these mothers.

Six weeks after the birth of her baby, each mother is requested to return to the clinic for post-partum examination. One hundred and sixty such visits have been made, some of the mothers in the 126 cases of delivery at home having made more than one return visit.

The territorial area served by the maternity clinic embraces only Monroe and West Monroe, but expectant mothers residng outside of this area may obtain pre-natal and post-natal care by visiting the clinic, and may make other arrangements for delivery. If these patients are able to establish residence, temporary or otherwise, in Monroe and West Monroe, they may receive delivery service. The limited personnel of the clinic staff does not, at this time, permit delivery service outside of the Twin Cities.

Operated on a non-profit basis, the clinic charges a small fee to pay operating expenses. In indigent cases, no fee is charged. The most important phase of the clinic service, from the viewpoint of the clinic sponsors and personnel, is that every expectant mother in Monroe and West Monroe should be provided with medical advice and care before and after birth of her infant, no matter what her financial condition may be. When lives are saved and when mothers are enabled to bear healthy babies without undue suffering and complications, the clinic sponsors and personnel feel that their efforts are well rewarded.

Statistics from over the nation show, according to the clinic sponsors, that between one-half and one-third of maternal deaths are preventable and that maternal mortality goes hand in hand with infant mortality—especially with stillbirths and deaths of infants during the first two months of life. Further than believing that good pre-natal and post-natal care, and the service of a licensed physician during delivery, will save lives, the maternity clinic now has definitely carried out this idea in actual service.

Dr. William F. Guerriero and Dr. C. P. Gray, Jr., have served as physicians of the clinic since its organization, although Dr. Guerriero at this time is completing a course in advanced obstetrics at New Orleans. Dr. R. M. Simonton is giving his services during the absence of Dr. Guerriero.

Miss Lucille Woodville of the parish health unit is the nurse-supervisor of the maternity work. Nurses of the unit work under her supervision in the clinic service.

Working in a spirit of enthusiasm and cooperation, each of the individuals and organizations conducting the work of the clinic believes that it will continue to grow and will give a constantly broadening educational and medical service. Figures and statistics of the clinic service cannot reveal the scope of its influence because the dissemination of its educational program by word of mouth from one expectant mother to another is not measured; nor is there any measure of the number of mothers who, having been impressed by the clinic with the importance of pre-natal and post-natal care, go to private physicians when their financial conditions have improved and when they again are to bear an infant.

MAYOR PROCLAIMS FILM OBSERVANCE

'Motion Pictures' Greatest Year' Being Celebrated This Fall

A proclamation of Mayor Harvey H. Benoit yesterday set October 17 to December 31 for special observance in celebration of "motion pictures' greatest year."

The proclamation was issued in connection with the campaign sponsored by producers, exhibitors and picture executives generally to bring before the public the contribution being made by the industry for entertainment through outstanding films this fall. The industry is sponsoring a $250,000 "movie quiz" contest in connection with the campaign.

Mayor Benoit's proclamation follows:

"Aggressive action has ever been the tradition in the film industry. It is therefore particularly fitting that the industry assume leadership at this time and display its confidence in general business conditions by presenting this series of unusually fine productions.

"I am glad to urge the people of our city to participate in fullest measure in the fall celebration and presentation of pictures which will be shown in the Paramount and Capitol theaters to make this motion pictures' greatest year.

"For years the motion picture has played an important part in American life. It has widened the horizon of the average citizen and has given him a broader concept of living conditions in all walks of life and all parts of the world.

"The motion picture has provided an emotional outlet for countless millions and has placed a fine, educational entertainment within the reach of most persons.

"In view of these sentiments, now, therefore, I, Harvey H. Benoit, mayor of the city of Monroe, Louisiana, do hereby proclaim October 17, through December 31, 1938, set aside by me for special observance of the citizens of the city of Monroe in celebration of motion pictures' greatest year, and I do officially urge the citizens of Monroe to participate in fullest measure in this fall celebration and presentation of the splendid pictures which have been prepared by the motion picture studios in their avowed purpose of demonstrating that 'motion pictures are your best entertainment'."

NORMAL STUDENTS WILL ATTEND FAIR

NATCHITOCHES, La., Oct. 15.—(Special)—Plans were completed for the entire student body and faculty of the Louisiana State Normal college to attend the opening day of the state fair in Shreveport on October 22, President Albert A. Fredericks announced.

A special train has been chartered over the Texas and Pacific railroad for the excursion, and arrangements are being made to accommodate the resident student body, local high school and elementary school pupils. Blanket tickets covering the train fare, entrance into the exposition grounds and the Normal-Tech game will be placed on sale here next week, officials stated.

Headed by the college concert band, cheering squad and Purple Jacket organization, the students will stage a pep parade before the game through the main streets of Shreveport, according to tentative plans announced today.

Miss Helen D'Abadie of New Roads, "sweetheart of the football team," will be presented along with her court of 10 coeds in the stadium of the fair grounds before the Demon-Bulldog game. The college band will stage a demonstration between the halves of the contest as a special feature.

BROWNLOW HASTINGS TO PREACH HERE TODAY

Brownlow Hastings, son of Rev. and Mrs. L. T. Hastings of Monroe, student in a Texas divinity school, will occupy the pulpit of his father's church, the First Baptist here, twice today.

The pastor will be absent from the city, as he is conducting a series of revivals in Rochelle, in which he is assisting Rev. Charles Freeman, pastor of the Baptist church there.

Young Hastings served as acting pastor here some weeks ago, during the observance of youth week. He has a wide circle of friends and it is expected that a large assemblage will be present at both morning and evening services today.

A public address system has been specially installed in the church so that all will be able to hear the services.

Impressive Ceremony Marks Marriage Of Miss Guerriero And Daniel Dunnet

Bride's Home Scene Of Charming Event

Informal Reception Held; Couple Will Make Home In Oklahoma City Following Honeymoon

Claiming prominence among the season's nuptial events was the wedding of Miss Dorothy Guerriero, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Guerriero, Sr., of this city, and Mr. Daniel R. Dunnet, son of Mr. Ray M. Dunnet of Oklahoma City and Mrs. A. J. Agrece of Beverly Hills, Calif., on Saturday, October 15, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the home of the bride on Washington street.

An improvised altar reared in one section of the reception suite against a solid curtain of southern smilax. Marie Antoinette baskets overflowing with superb golden-hued chrysanthemums, flanked the altar where a gold cross gleamed in the midst of flaming cathedral tapers.

An aisle, leading from the stairway to the altar, was formed by low white standards holding sprays of yellow pom-pom chrysanthemums, linked together with wide gold colored satin ribbons.

The lighting of the tapers by the two young girls, Joann Guerriero in Dudonnet crepe model, and Gloria Cooper in teal blue crepe with gold accessories was a distinctive and impressive ceremony.

A pre-nuptial concert rendered by Mrs. Raymond Spence, pianist, and Miss Thelma Hargus, soloist, featured several beautiful numbers from the classics, including "Moonlight Sonata," "I Love You Truly," "Because" and the wedding march from Lohengrin.

Rev. Father M. J. Walsh, in ecclesiastical robes, officiated in the presence of intimate friends and relatives who were seated in the enclosure. Mr. Dunnet, attended by Mr. Jack Miller of Oklahoma, awaited his bride at the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Charles Guerriero, Jr., wore a distinctive alix model of teal blue, wool material with short, tight fitting jacket with handsome silver fox collar. A charming little hat of blue suede cloth with a flattering duchonnet veil was worn. A corsage of orchids completed the smart ensemble. For something old she wore the handsome antique brooch worn by her mother on her wedding day.

The bride's attendant, Mrs. William Guerriero, of New Orleans, wore a black crepe Patau model with short coat and handsome Kolinsky fur collar. She carried a muff fashioned of bronze colored chrysanthemums.

Immediately following the ceremony an informal reception was held with Mrs. Shantley Hodges, sister of the bride, wearing a slate blue crepe model with corsage of Token roses, orchids and valley lilies, assisting in the courtesies.

Miss Sara Marie Batten of Oklahoma City, was introduced at this time. She wore a beautiful wine-colored velvet model.

In the dining room, banked with bronze colored chrysanthemums, the guests were served champagne punch, individual wedding cakes embossed in valley lilies and leas. Mrs. Garnett Anderson, Mrs. L. B. Owens, Miss Sara Larche, Miss Lallage Feazel and Mrs. C. C. Bell, Jr., in handsome semi-evening models, offered courtesies.

The bride's table, overlaid with handsome Renaissance lace, had for central decor the beautfully embossed wedding cake. It was a circular confection with a crystallized vase overflowing with with crystallized valley lilies rising from the center. At the four corners of the table handsome silver candelabra supported tall white tapers. Silver compotes held wedding ring mints.

The beautiful gifts of spode china, rock crystal, silver in the Romantique pattern, linens and other gifts of a more personal nature were on display in the library.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunnet left in their automobile for Oklahoma City, where they will in the future be at home to their friends. Mr. Dunnet is associated with the Phillips Petroleum company in the capacity of engineer.

The bride, one of the most popular members of the younger set, is a graduate of Northeast Center of L. S. U. and the University of Oklahoma. She is a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority.

Mr. Dunnet was graduated from New Mexico Military academy and the Oklahoma State university. He is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were the bridegroom's father Mr. Ray Dunnet and Mrs. Dunnet, Miss Sara Marie Batten of Oklahoma City, Mr. and Mrs. J. U. Morrison of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. William Guerriero of New Orleans, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Smith of Vicksburg and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cooper of Little Rock.

Conspicuous among the beautiful pre-nuptial courtesies complimenting Miss Dorothy Guerriero, whose wedding on Saturday was one of the outstanding events of the early winter season, was the luncheon in the Cameo room of the Virginia hotel on Friday with Miss Lallage Feazel and Mrs. Garnett Anderson the hostesses.

A charming interlude, in the attractive lounge, preceded the luncheon hour with Miss Guerriero in a smart black velvet tailleur with small, close-fitting hat of black velvet and a corsage of white carnations and valley lilies, a gift from her hostesses, the central figure.

Luncheon was served at a circular table overlaid with handsome damask and developed in a rose-orchid color motif. The central decor was an immense circular piaque of pyramid formation, fashioned of rose-orchid dahlias. Sprays of valley lilies were placed among the dahlias and formed a narrow border above the base fringed with maiden hair fern fronds. Rose-orchid ribbons attached to dahlias fluted with lace paper, led from the plaque to each cover. These were the favors for each guest.

Orchid flower sprinkled Havilland service plates, rock crystal water goblets and wine glasses added distinction to a most attractive luncheon table.

Several specialties, planned by the maitre d'hotel, were served. Following the luncheon hour the hostesses poured coffee from a handsome silver service placed on a low coffee table.

Among the guests in addition to Miss Guerriero were Mrs. H. G. Cooper, Mrs. Stanley Hodges, Mrs. Charles Guerriero, Jr., Mrs. Earl Long, Mrs. W. C. Feazel, Miss Martha Owens, Miss Alma Guerriero, Miss Thelma Hodges and Miss Sara Marie Batten.

American Indian Book Club Subject

The American Indian, Oklahoma region, supplied a colorful topic for the program Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. Charles Swain entertained 40 members of the Welcome Branch Book club and their guests, with Mrs. J. R. White as co-hostess.

The reception suite was decorated with gold and lavender daisies of pronounced beauty.

The president, Mrs. J. R. White, presided over the brief business session and called for reports of the club institute held in Ruston. Those who attended were Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. F. H. Peterson, Mrs. J. Noble White, Mrs. Warren Gregory, Mrs. Dean Selig, Mrs. Louis Langford, Mrs. J. R. White, Mrs. H. D. Holland, Mrs. Charles Swain, Mrs. M. R. Hausherr, Mrs. H. T. Collins and Mrs. Zell Smith.

Mrs. Dudley Stone reported plans were under way for the tea next month, the object being to furnish books for the invalid patients who will enjoy the library at the Cooley tuberculosis sanatorium. This has become a yearly project for this club.

Mrs. Harry A. Moore in reading a regional poem said in part: "All the cultural affiliations of the Iroquois were with the southeast, and with the descendants of the mound builders. The remarkable position held by the women of this tribe in their league and the elaborate condolence ceremony given on the occasion of the death of a chief and the installation of his successor were reckoned by the determined female descent among the primitive people.

"In the condolence ceremony we are told, 'He who has worked for us has gone afar off, and he also will in time take with him the whole body of warriors and also the whole body of men, they will go with him. But it is still harder when the woman dies because with her the line is lost. What is unique here among the Iroquois is the formal manner in which this estimation was expressed for a woman's right. When she happened to be the oldest matron in the family of one of the more important grades of chiefs, she selects a successor of a deceased chief of that family.' They erected defenses around the old cultural heritage, and no wonder the condolence ceremony was the woman's chant—'I come to greet and thank the league; I come to greet and thank the kindred; I come to greet and thank the warriors; I come to greet and thank the women; my forefathers—what they established—my forefathers—hearken to them!'"

Mrs. C. H. Dunnaway said of the Oklahoma Indians: "The student today is dependent upon archeology to uncover vestiges of the early culture of the Pueblo Indians because these early Americans lived a wholesome migratory life.

"The ownership of all land was vested in the tribe rather than in the individual. The early settlers were numerically weak and they maintained friendly relations with the Indians. But as the new world became known, the colonists increased and among the arrivals was a class of aggressive adventurers with no regard for the rights of others. Massasoit, chief of the Wampanoogs, having declared friendship to the governor of Plymouth, scrupulously kept his obligations. He joined in the life of the whites by celebrating the first Thanksgiving with the Pilgrim fathers in the autumn of 1621."

Mrs. Harold Deloney in reviewing the book, "Then Came Oil," by C. B. Glasscock, said:

"The story begins with 'The Trail of Tears,' about the Indian village of Echota, Georgia capital of the civilized Cherokee nation a century ago and a land of exile hundreds of miles away in the western wilderness near the Arkansas river.

"The Cherokee had become civilized, had built homes, improved lands, bought slaves and the United States government had arranged to let them stay in Georgia. Then gold was discovered near their capital. The Georgians insisted that they be moved, so, breaking his promise to the red man, President Jackson forced him to move to Oklahoma in 1838.

"The government was 'broke' and failed to give the Indians seed to plant and supplies they had promised, so war was in their blood. General Custer was sent to punish the Cheyennes for fighting among themselves. In the dead of winter, when the Indian never fought, Custer with well fed troops, attacked their starving village. It was a massacre. The village was burned to the ground. Yet in history it is known as the victory of Washita. That keeps us from feeling so bad about Custer's massacre a little later.

"This practically ended the Indian wars and cleared the way for the end of the lost frontier."

Miss Murphy And Hill Stancil Wed

Interest is centered in the following announcement of the marriage of Mr. Hill Stancil, son of Mrs. A. L. Stancil, of this city:

"A recent wedding characterized by charm and simplicity was that of Miss Inez Murphy of Homer, La., to Mr. Hill Stancil on Saturday, October 8, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Kennebrew.

"The impressive ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. B. C. Taylor, pastor of the Methodist church, in the presence of the immediate family and a close circle of friends.

"Preceding the ceremony, Judge John S. Richardson played 'Annie Laurie' and 'Love's Endearing Young Charms.'

"The lovely bride, an attractive blonde, wore a new fall coat dress of rust color wool crepe, trimmed in brown lapin, with accessories in harmonizing color of brown. She wore a small corsage of dwarf chrysanthemum in brown and yellow.

"Mr. and Mrs. Stancil left for a short trip to Baton Rouge, New Orleans and other points in south Louisiana, after which they will return to Homer to reside.

"Both bride and groom are members of prominent north Louisiana families. Mrs. Stancil is a native of Bienville parish and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Kenneth Murphy of Arcadia.

"Mr. Stancil is a native of Union parish, born and reared at Farmerville."

The Sundial

Dost thou love life? Then do not squander time, for that is the stuff life is made of.—Benj. Franklin.

By Eve C. Bradford

"OCTOBER flaunts a new array of gay autumnal clothes and trails the scent of burning leaves on every wind that blows. Her polka dotted gown is trimmed with shocks of golden corn and yellow pumpkins make the chain which round her throat is worn. Her petticoats and lingerie she shows with wanton pride, when dancing down the wooded lanes of every countryside. She wears a scarf of bittersweet, a cloak of sumac red and for the evening silver frost adorns her lovely head. And yet despite her gaudy things, she really is quite trim and when Man Winter comes along she's stepping out with him."

The Indian for whom this blessed portion of the year was named is Canantowan, the great god of the southwest wind in the mythology of the old Narragansett tribe. His warm breath comes to put the finishing touch of ripeness upon squashes and maize and to turn the corn fields into Indian villages where tepees sway in the breeze. There are those who firmly believe the haze on the far horizon is the smoke from the pipes of Indians who come back every year along about this time to dance in the mellow sunshine.

In the bright lexicon of youth, October means only one thing—football. The youngster's report card now does a nose dive as he concentrates on the Saturday sandlot gigantics. Big sister can't sleep nights thinking about the big handsome man who plays tackle for her favorite team. Big brother won't let a living soul touch the Sunday morning paper until he has consumed and digested the football scores. Mother doesn't know the difference between an off-tackle smash and a place kick, but the terrific enthusiasm of the other members of the family keeps her keyed up despite her apparent ignorance. Off for the Tulane-Rice game in New Orleans were Monroe's most ardent football fans, D. Y. and Crary Smith, Morris and Daisy Haas, Enola and Jack Rogers. Others who seldom miss a game in Baton Rouge or New Orleans are Joe and Vera Brown, William and Marie Bendel, John and Helen Sherrouse and Charles and Mable Wallace.

While one half of the population is seized with football hysteria, the other half goes blithely along pursuing the even tenor of their way. Socially, Monroe is now exceedingly gay with brides-to-be treading on air as they go from one lovely affair to another, all wrapped up in lovely trousseau gowns. Dorothy Guerriero was wearing a black velvet tailleur at the luncheon presided over by Mrs. W. C. Feazel and her two daughters, Lallage and Gertrude Anderson. Looking chic and distinguished among the guests was Mrs. Earl Long in black tailleur with a severe black hat, rather high as to crown and a short nose veil. Mrs. Feazel, looking as young as her daughters, was wearing a black velvet hat with bright colored feather and smart black crepe gown with gold accessories. Gertrude was wearing black with high crowned black velvet hat and Lallage was wearing a black velvet skirt and jacket with ivory satin blouse and a doll hat with a feather upon it.

Not satisfied with only enough French to enable them to order an appetizing de jeuner, several society matrons are taking time off from luncheons, bridges and club programs to take up the study of French at Northeast Center. They are now entering their second year of study and have gone a long way since the time they greeted each other with bon jour or bon nuit. They can now carry on an animated conversation. If you happen to see Frances McHenry, Leslie Garrett, Alita Frizzell, Louise Cook, Jennie Mitchell and Belle Oakley gesticulating wildly, in the French manner, rest assured they are conversing in this language and find it much easier to do so when they bring their hands into play.

The T. L. Morris home on Calypso is all wrapped up in Rosa d'Montana these lovely October days. So much loveliness is rare indeed at this time when beauty fades and the old world, weary of his job, is content to sleep in the warm sun. It clings enchantedly on the dim, old walls of this home, one of the oldest in the city and within whose walls Lizzie Morris first saw the light of day. All the joys and sorrows of her life are confined to the four walls where she has passed her entire life. Each returning autumn she finds the Rosa d'Montana lovelier than the year before and the old home sweeter by far with the passing years.

Perfume from the night blooming jasmine in Elma Sullivan's gardens now permeates the air with its heavy fragrance. It is the sweetest, most heavenly odor imaginable—the fragrance has never been captured, so the only time you can breathe deep of the intriguing odor is in October when the nights are cool and moist and the jasmine unfolds its feathery petals.

Herman and Rose Masur, home from Norway, Sweden, Belgium, Holland and France, speak of the glorious country known as the land of the midnight sun, but Rose was particularly pleased with Paris this year. Never, she said, has Paris been so lovely and so elegant. At the French opera everyone was in toilette du soir including Rose who wore the gown she purchased at Paquin's. Americans were all flitting home like frightened birds even though the threat of war had been lifted. The American embassy foyer was a great sight. Hardly could one get in or out for those who were yearning for home sweet home and milling madly about. The ministere des affaires etrangeres assured everyone the Normandie would sail, rain or shine, hail or snow, peace or war, so the frantic ones settled down to enjoy some of the elegance that is Paris.

No sooner had Baskin Wright established himself in his hotel in Seattle where he will make his home for the next five months while engaged in work for the federal government than Lambda Chi fraternity brothers descended upon him and lifted him bodily, bag and baggage, out of the hotel and into their fraternity house. Even so, his loneliness increased, so Jean and son, John Dryburgh, will be off tomorrow for the four-day journey. Jean had planned to be with her parents until Christmas—it must be love.

Today we have an excellent recipe for home happiness cake. It might be well for everyone to try it. First take one cupful of common sense, one-half cupful justice, one and one-half cupfuls of love sifted with one-half teaspoon mutual confidence; add two large portions of sense of humor beaten separately, spice to taste with wit and nonsense; bake in a moderate oven of warm approval then ice with generous appreciation.

Miss Billie Buatt Weds N. H. Sawyer

A wedding of recent date which claimed widespread interest was that of Miss Billie Buatt and Mr. N. H. Sawyer, both of Bonita.

The couple were married in a double ring ceremony read by Rev. I. L. Yeager last Saturday night October 8, at 8 o'clock.

The wedding ceremony was performed at the home of Rev. Yeager in Monroe.

The bride, lovely in a chic fall model of rust color, made a beautiful picture against the background of the improvised altar of ferns and rust colored autumn flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Arnold, of Monroe, served as maid-of-honor and best man. Mrs. W. G. Renfrow, also of Monroe, served as the bride's other attendant.

After the wedding ceremony the bride and groom were honored with a wedding supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold.

Mr. Sawyer graduated from Louisiana Tech last year and the bride, a member of next year's graduating class, at Tech will continue her studies at the college.

V. F. W. Auxiliary Holds Meeting

The ladies auixiliary to the Rodney J. Hobbs post, Veterans of Foreign Wars met in regular session Thursday night at the club rooms on DeSiard street with 22 members present.

The president, Mrs. Blackwell, presided over the meeting and considerable business was taken care of. The welfare report for the month amounted to $86.92. The auxiliary voted to purchase medicine for the wife of a disabled veteran and also voted to pledge the sum of $25 toward the completion of the community center building at the V. F. W. national home at Eaton Rapids, Mich. Each auxiliary is being asked to make this pledge that the building may be completed and presented to the children of the V. F. W. home for Christmas.

The months ahead are to be busy ones for the auxiliary members. Plans are being made for the armistice dance, which will be given for the benefit of the V. F. W. national home, the net proceeds to be shared by the post and auxiliary and the entire sum to go to this fund. The post and auxiliary feel that nothing could be more appropriate than a dance on this particular date for such a worthy cause and one that is very close to the heart of every member: The care of these orphaned children of veterans. A nice sum was reported from the weekly benefit parties.

All proceeds from the parties will be sent to Mrs. Mildred Duggan, department hospital chairman of Alexandria, to be used for the patients at the veterans hospital in Alexandria. This work is never neglected by the auxiliary. It is considered a privilege to be able to help provide these little necessities which mean so much in the life of the patients, many of whom are entirely dependent on the gifts provided them. A check for $50 was presented at this meeting to be used by the auxiliary in their Christmas work and for which plans are already being discussed. Members are anticipating with pleasure the benefit party to be given Tuesday night by Mrs. H. L. Logan at her home on DeSiard road. It will be a "tacky" party and all who attend are asked to come in costume. The auxiliary is accomplishing a great deal with the proceeds from these weekly parties and President Blackwell urges all members to attend.

Sayde Lou Peters Is Widely Entertained

Mrs. Joseph Anders And Miss Walsworth Among Those Giving Parties For Popular Bride-Elect

Highlighting last week's numerous social affairs was the beautifully appointed tea in the home of Mrs. Joseph Anders on Stubbs avenue with Miss Sayde Lou Peters, a lovely bride-to-be, the guest of honor.

Miss Peters, wearing a distinctive black velvet model, stood in the flower banked reception suite with her hostess, who wore a floor-length black lace model, to receive the guests who called between the hours of 4 and 6.

Mrs. A. L. Peters, mother of the honor guest, assisting in receiving, wore a rose-colored taffeta, semi-evening model. Mrs. A. B. Calhoun of Bastrop, who was introduced at this time, wore a periwinkle blue model.

Mrs. Victor Sackett and Mrs. J. B. Swanson presided over the handsome silver coffee and tea urns gracing either end of the lace-draped refreshment table in the dining room.

Superb yellow chrysanthemums in low plaque formation running down the full length of the table, formed the floral note and inspired the golden color theme reflected in every detail.

Luscious confections were passed among the guests on silver trays, by a coterie of girls, Miss Snow Drew, Miss Gladys Emma Whitfield, Miss Virginia Brown and Miss Mary Eleanor Coverdale.

One of the loveliest compliments bestowed upon Miss Peters was the luncheon with Miss Barrier Mae Walsworth as hostess at the home of her parents on Park avenue.

Pink Radiance roses overflowed from a wide spreading silver basket centering the beautifully appointed luncheon table. Wedding ring place cards at each cover sustained the bridal theme.

A delicious four-course luncheon with wedding bell ices featuring the dessert course was served.

Miss Walsworth's gift to Miss Peters was a handsome crystal and silver candelabra.

The guests in addition to Miss Peters were Miss Josephine McCranie, Miss Ella Rose Crawford, Miss Mary Mulhern, Miss Sara Elizabeth Moffett and Miss Alice Daniels.

This week's calendar is brimming with interesting pre-nuptial affairs for Miss Peters. On Monday Mrs. Irving Wolff will entertain at luncheon in the Cameo room of the Virginia hotel. On Thursday Mrs. A. B. Calhoun will entertain with a tea at her home in Bastrop. On Friday Mrs. Charles Swain will entertain during the coffee hour at her home on Grand street. Tuesday, October 25, Mrs. John Pracher will entertain at bridge-luncheon at her home in Fairview.

Impressive Ceremony Marks Marriage Of Miss Guerriero And Daniel Dunnet

Bride's Home Scene Of Charming Event

Informal Reception Held; Couple Will Make Home In Oklahoma City Following Honeymoon

Claiming prominence among the season's nuptial events was the wedding of Miss Dorothy Guerriero, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Guerriero, Sr., of this city, and Mr. Daniel R. Dunnet, son of Mr. Ray M. Dunnet of Oklahoma City and Mrs. A. J. Agrece of Beverly Hills, Calif., on Saturday, October 15, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon at the home of the bride on Washington street.

An improvised altar reared in one section of the reception suite against a solid curtain of southern smilax. Marie Antoinette baskets overflowing with superb golden-hued chrysanthemums, flanked the altar where a gold cross gleamed in the midst of flaming cathedral tapers.

An aisle, leading from the stairway to the altar, was formed by low white standards holding sprays of yellow pom-pom chrysanthemums, linked together with wide gold colored satin ribbons.

The lighting of the tapers by the two young girls, Joann Guerriero in Boudonnet crepe model, and Gloria Cooper in teal blue crepe with gold accessories, was a distinctive and impressive ceremony.

A pre-nuptial concert rendered by Mrs. Raymond Spence, pianist, and Miss Thelma Hargus, soloist, featured several beautiful numbers from the classics, including "Moonlight Sonata," "I Love You Truly," "Because" and the wedding march from Lohengrin.

Rev. Father M. J. Walsh, in ecclesiastical robes, officiated in the presence of intimate friends and relatives who were seated in the enclosure. Mr. Dunnet, attended by Mr. Jack Miller of Oklahoma, awaited his bride at the altar.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Charles Guerriero, Jr., wore a distinctive alix model of teal blue, wool material with short, tight fitting jacket with handsome silver fox collar. A charming little hat of blue suede cloth with a flattering duchonnet veil was worn. A corsage of orchids completed the smart ensemble. For something old she wore the handsome antique brooch worn by her mother on her wedding day.

The bride's attendant, Mrs. William Guerriero, of New Orleans, wore a black crepe Patau model with short coat and handsome Kolinsky fur collar. She carried a muff fashioned of bronze colored chrysanthemums.

Immediately following the ceremony an informal reception was held with Mrs. Shantley Hodges, sister of the bride, wearing a slate blue crepe model with corsage of Token roses, orchids and valley lilies, assisting in the courtesies.

Miss Sara Marie Batten of Oklahoma City, was introduced at this time. She wore a beautiful wine-colored velvet model.

In the dining room, banked with bronze colored chrysanthemums, the guests were served champagne punch, individual wedding cakes embossed in valley lilies and ices. Mrs. Garnett Anderson, Mrs. L. B. Owens, Miss Sara Larche, Miss Lallage Feazel and Mrs. C. C. Bell, Jr., in handsome semi-evening models, offered courtesies.

The bride's table, overlaid with handsome Renaissance lace, had for central decor the beautfully embossed wedding cake. It was a circular confection with a crystallized vase overflowing with with crystallized valley lilies rising from the center. At the four corners of the table handsome silver candelabra supported tall white tapers. Silver compotes held wedding ring mints.

The beautiful gifts of spode china, rock crystal, silver in the Romantique pattern, linens and other gifts of a more personal nature were on display in the library.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunnet left in their automobile for Oklahoma City, where they will in the future be at home to their friends. Mr. Dunnet is associated with the Phillips Petroleum company in the capacity of engineer.

The bride, one of the most popular members of the younger set, is a graduate of Northeast Center of L. S. U. and the University of Oklahoma. She is a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority.

Mr. Dunnet was graduated from New Mexico Military academy and the Oklahoma State university. He is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were the bridegroom's father Mr. Ray Dunnet and Mrs. Dunnet, Miss Sara Marie Batten of Oklahoma City, Mr. and Mrs. J. U. Morrison of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. William Guerriero of New Orleans, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Smith of Vicksburg and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cooper of Little Rock.

Conspicuous among the beautiful pre-nuptial courtesies complimenting Miss Dorothy Guerriero, whose wedding on Saturday was one of the outstanding events of the early winter season, was the luncheon in the Cameo room of the Virginia hotel on Friday with Miss Lallage Feazel and Mrs. Garnett Anderson the hostesses.

A charming interlude, in the attractive lounge, preceded the luncheon hour with Miss Guerriero in a smart black velvet tailleur with small, close-fitting hat of black velvet and a corsage of white carnations and valley lilies, a gift from her hostesses, the central figure.

Luncheon was served at a circular table overlaid with handsome damask and developed in a rose-orchid color motif. The central decor was an immense circular piaque of pyramid formation, fashioned of rose-orchid dahlias. Sprays of valley lilies were placed among the dahlias and formed a narrow border above the base fringed with maiden hair fern fronds. Rose-orchid ribbons attached to dahlias fluted with lace paper, led from the plaque to each cover. These were the favors for each guest.

Orchid flower sprinkled Havilland service plates, rock crystal water goblets and wine glasses added distinction to a most attractive luncheon table.

Several specialties, planned by the maitre d'hotel, were served. Following the luncheon hour the hostesses poured coffee from a handsome silver service placed on a low coffee table.

Among the guests in addition to Miss Guerriero were Mrs. H. G. Cooper, Mrs. Stanley Hodges, Mrs. Charles Guerriero, Jr., Mrs. Earl Long, Mrs. W. C. Feazel, Miss Martha Owens, Miss Alma Guerriero, Miss Thelma Hodges and Miss Sara Marie Batten.

American Indian Book Club Subject

The American Indian, Oklahoma region, supplied a colorful topic for the program Thursday afternoon, when Mrs. Charles Swain entertained 40 members of the Welcome Branch Book club and their guests, with Mrs. J. R. White as co-hostess.

The reception suite was decorated with gold and lavender daisies of pronounced beauty.

The president, Mrs. J. R. White, presided over the brief business session and called for reports of the club institute held in Ruston. Those who attended were Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mrs. F. H. Peterson, Mrs. J. Noble White, Mrs. Warren Gregory, Mrs. Dean Selig, Mrs. Louis Langford, Mrs. J. R. White, Mrs. H. D. Holland, Mrs. Charles Swain, Mrs. M. R. Hausherr, Mrs. H. T. Collins and Mrs. Zell Smith.

Mrs. Dudley Stone reported plans were under way for the tea next month, the object being to furnish books for the invalid patients who will enjoy the library at the Cooley tuberculosis sanatorium. This has become a yearly project for this club.

Mrs. Harry A. Moore in reading a regional poem said in part: "All the cultural affiliations of the Iroquois were with the southeast, and with the descendants of the mound builders. The remarkable position held by the women of this tribe in their league and the elaborate condolence ceremony given on the occasion of the death of a chief and the installation of his successor were reckoned by the determined female descent among the primitive people.

"In the condolence ceremony we are told, 'He who has worked for us has gone afar off, and he also will in time take with him the whole body of warriors and also the whole body of men, they will go with him. But it is still harder when the woman dies because with her the line is lost. What is unique here among the Iroquois is the formal manner in which this estimation was expressed for a woman's right. When she happened to be the oldest matron in the family of one of the more important grades of chiefs, she selects a successor of a deceased chief of that family.' They erected defenses around the old cultural heritage, and no wonder the condolence ceremony was the woman's chant—'I come to greet and thank the league; I come to greet and thank the kindred; I come to greet and thank the warriors; I come to greet and thank the women; my forefathers—what they established—my forefathers—hearken to them!'"

Mrs. C. H. Dunnaway said of the Oklahoma Indians: "The student today is dependent upon archeology to uncover vestiges of the early culture of the Pueblo Indians because these early Americans lived a wholesome migratory life.

"The ownership of all land was vested in the tribe rather than in the individual. The early settlers were numerically weak and they maintained friendly relations with the Indians. But as the new world became known, the colonists increased and among the arrivals was a class of aggressive adventurers with no regard for the rights of others. Massasoit, chief of the Wampanoogs, having declared friendship to the governor of Plymouth, scrupulously kept his obligations. He joined in the life of the whites by celebrating the first Thanksgiving with the Pilgrim fathers in the autumn of 1621."

Mrs. Harold Deloney in reviewing the book, "Then Came Oil," by C. B. Glasscock, said:

"The story begins with 'The Trail of Tears,' about the Indian village of Echota, Georgia capital of the civilized Cherokee nation a century ago and a land of exile hundreds of miles away in the western wilderness near the Arkansas river.

"The Cherokee had become civilized, had built homes, improved lands, bought slaves and the United States government had arranged to let them stay in Georgia. Then gold was discovered near their capital. The Georgians insisted that they be moved, so, breaking his promise to the red man, President Jackson forced him to move to Oklahoma in 1838.

"The government was 'broke' and failed to give the Indians seed to plant and supplies they had promised, so war was in their blood. General Custer was sent to punish the Cheyennes for fighting among themselves. In the dead of winter, when the Indian never fought, Custer with well fed troops, attacked their starving village. It was a massacre. The village was burned to the ground. Yet in history it is known as the victory of Washita. That keeps us from feeling so bad about Custer's massacre a little later.

"This practically ended the Indian wars and cleared the way for the end of the lost frontier."

Miss Murphy And Hill Stancil Wed

Interest is centered in the following announcement of the marriage of Mr. Hill Stancil, son of Mrs. A. L. Stancil, of this city:

"A recent wedding characterized by charm and simplicity was that of Miss Inez Murphy of Homer, La., to Mr. Hill Stancil on Saturday, October 8, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Kennebrew.

"The impressive ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. B. C. Taylor, pastor of the Methodist church, in the presence of the immediate family and a close circle of friends.

"Preceding the ceremony, Judge John S. Richardson played 'Annie Laurie' and 'Love's Endearing Young Charms.'

"The lovely bride, an attractive blonde, wore a new fall coat dress of rust color wool crepe, trimmed in brown lapin, with accessories in harmonizing color of brown. She wore a small corsage of dwarf chrysanthemum in brown and yellow.

"Mr. and Mrs. Stancil left for a short trip to Baton Rouge, New Orleans and other points in south Louisiana, after which they will return to Homer to reside.

"Both bride and groom are members of prominent north Louisiana families. Mrs. Stancil is a native of Bienville parish and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Kenneth Murphy of Arcadia.

"Mr. Stancil is a native of Union parish, born and reared at Farmerville."

"OCTOBER flaunts a new array of gay autumnal clothes and trails the scent of burning leaves on every wind that blows. Her polka dotted gown is trimmed with shocks of golden corn and yellow pumpkins make the chain which round her throat is worn. Americans were all flitting home like frightened birds even though the threat of war had been lifted. The American embassy foyer was a great sight. Hardly could one get in or out for those who were yearning for home sweet home and milling madly about. The ministere des affaires etrangeres assured everyone the Normandie would sail, rain or shine, hail or snow, peace or war, so the frantic ones settled down to enjoy some of the elegance that is Paris.

No sooner had Baskin Wright established himself in his hotel in Seattle where he will make his home for the next five months while engaged in work for the federal government than Lambda Chi fraternity brothers descended upon him and lifted him bodily, bag and baggage, out of the hotel and into their fraternity house. Even so, his loneliness increased, so Jean and son, John Dryburgh, will be off tomorrow for the four-day journey. Jean had planned to be with her parents until Christmas—it must be love.

Today we have an excellent recipe for home happiness cake. It might be well for everyone to try it. First take one cupful of common sense, one-half cupful justice, one and one-half cupfuls of love sifted with one-half teaspoon mutual confidence; add two large portions of sense of humor beaten separately, spice to taste with wit and nonsense; bake in a moderate oven of warm approval then ice with generous appreciation.

Miss Billie Buatt Weds N. H. Sawyer

A wedding of recent date which claimed widespread interest was that of Miss Billie Buatt and Mr. N. H. Sawyer, both of Bonita.

The couple were married in a double ring ceremony read by Rev. I. L. Yeager last Saturday night October 8, at 8 o'clock.

The wedding ceremony was performed at the home of Rev. Yeager in Monroe.

The bride, lovely in a chic fall model of rust color, made a beautiful picture against the background of the improvised altar of ferns and rust colored autumn flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Arnold, of Monroe, served as maid-of-honor and best man. Mrs. W. G. Renfrow, also of Monroe, served as the bride's other attendant.

After the wedding ceremony the bride and groom were honored with a wedding supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Anold.

Mr. Sawyer graduated from Louisiana Tech last year and the bride, a member of next year's graduating class, at Tech will continue her studies at the college.

V. F. W. Auxiliary Holds Meeting

The ladies auixiliary to the Rodney J. Hobbs post, Veterans of Foreign Wars met in regular session Thursday night at the club rooms on DeSiard street with 22 members present.

The president, Mrs. Blackwell, presided over the meeting and considerable business was taken care of. The welfare report for the month amounted to $86.92. The auxiliary voted to purchase medicine for the wife of a disabled veteran and also voted to pledge the sum of $25 toward the completion of the community center building at the V. F. W. national home at Eaton Rapids, Mich. Each auxiliary is being asked to make this pledge that the building may be completed and presented to the children of the V. F. W. home for Christmas.

The months ahead are to be busy ones for the auxiliary members. Plans are being made for the armistice dance, which will be given for the benefit of the V. F. W. national home, the net proceeds to be shared by the post and auxiliary and the entire sum to go to this fund. The post and auxiliary feel that nothing could be more appropriate than a dance on this particular date for such a worthy cause and one that is very close to the heart of every member: The care of these orphaned children of veterans. A nice sum was reported from the weekly benefit parties.

All proceeds from the parties will be sent to Mrs. Mildred Duggan, department hospital chairman of Alexandria, to be used for the patients at the veterans hospital in Alexandria. This work is never neglected by the auxiliary. It is considered a privilege to be able to help provide these little necessities which mean so much in the life of the patients, many of whom are entirely dependent on the gifts provided them. A check for $50 was presented at this meeting to be used by the auxiliary in their Christmas work and for which plans are already being discussed. Members are anticipating with pleasure the benefit party to be given Tuesday night by Mrs. H. L. Logan at her home on DeSiard road. It will be a "tacky" party and all who attend are asked to come in costume. The auxiliary is accomplishing a great deal with the proceeds from these weekly parties and President Blackwell urges all members to attend.

Sayde Lou Peters Is Widely Entertained

Mrs. Joseph Anders And Miss Walsworth Among Those Giving Parties For Popular Bride-Elect

Highlighting last week's numerous social affairs was the beautifully appointed tea in the home of Mrs. Joseph Anders on Stubbs avenue with Miss Sayde Lou Peters, a lovely bride-to-be, the guest of honor.

Miss Peters, wearing a distinctive black velvet model, stood in the flower banked reception suite with her hostess, who wore a floor-length black lace model, to receive the guests who called between the hours of 4 and 6.

Mrs. A. L. Peters, mother of the honor guest, assisting in receiving, wore a rose-colored taffeta, semi-evening model. Mrs. A. B. Calhoun of Bastrop, who was introduced at this time, wore a periwinkle blue model.

Mrs. Victor Sackett and Mrs. J. B. Swanson presided over the handsome silver coffee and tea urns gracing either end of the lace-draped refreshment table in the dining room.

Superb yellow chrysanthemums in low plaque formation running down the full length of the table, formed the floral note and inspired the golden color theme reflected in every detail.

Luscious confections were passed among the guests on silver trays, by a coterie of girls, Miss Snow Drew, Miss Gladys Emma Whitfield, Miss Virginia Brown and Miss Mary Eleanor Coverdale.

One of the loveliest compliments bestowed upon Miss Peters was the luncheon with Miss Barrier Mae Walsworth as hostess at the home of her parents on Park avenue.

Pink Radiance roses overflowed from a wide spreading silver basket centering the beautifully appointed luncheon table. Wedding ring place cards at each cover sustained the bridal theme.

A delicious four-course luncheon with wedding bell ices featuring the dessert course was served.

Miss Walsworth's gift to Miss Peters was a handsome crystal and silver candelabra.

The guests in addition to Miss Peters were Miss Josephine McCranie, Miss Ella Rose Crawford, Miss Mary Mulhern, Miss Sara Elizabeth Moffett and Miss Alice Daniels.

This week's calendar is brimming with interesting pre-nuptial affairs for Miss Peters. On Monday Mrs. Irving Wolff will entertain at luncheon in the Cameo room of the Virginia hotel. On Thursday Mrs. A. B. Calhoun will entertain with a tea at her home in Bastrop. On Friday Mrs. Charles Swain will entertain during the coffee hour at her home on Grand street. Tuesday, October 25, Mrs. John Pracher will entertain at bridge-luncheon at her home in Fairview.

Business And Professional Women's Club Joins In National Celebration

Miss Wright Presides At Brilliant Affair

Dinner Given In Cameo Room At Virginia Hotel; City Commissioners Among Those Attending

Dinner in the Cameo room of the Virginia hotel Friday night climaxed a week overflowing with activity for members of the Business and Professional Women's club who observed National Business Women's week with interesting and constructive programs under the leadership of the local president, Miss Bernice Wright.

Business and professional women, organized as they are, primarily are concerned with all that is directed toward economics. Forced into the business world, usually, they are the bravest of all club women. In a survey made last year to determine the question, "Why Women Work," it was discovered that most women, like most men, work because they must. It was also revealed that women work to support themselves and those depending upon them.

Miss Wright, wearing a lovely white crepe evening model with corsage of crimson roses, presided most graciously over the long, beautifully appointed dinner table. Her remarks were concise and illumi ting. She traced the history of the organization since the year 1919 when it first came into being and spoke of the steady advancement in the cause of the employed woman, "To help women fit themselves for employment and to find employment suitable to their talents is one of the principal objectives of the federation. Broader objectives look toward the solution of general economic problems which will assure to men and women the opportunity to work."

Miss Wright introduced the guests of the evening and the speakers who paid a glowing tribute to this army of business women, the only group in the city, by the way, who own and maintain their own clubhouse.

Mayor Harvey Benoit responded to the introduction with a tribute to the local organization. He pledged his support and assured members of the club of his great interest in the cause and in the work they are accomplishing.

Mrs. E. B. Stover, head of the department of English at the Ouachita Parish High school, was an outstanding speaker of the evening. She talked on the subject of "Vocational Adjustments in a Changing World." Much food for thought was contained in her talk delivered in gracious manner.

Mr. C. R. Tidwell, city commissioner of streets and parks, Mr. William Rodriguez, commissioner of public utilities and Mrs. Daisy Terzia, member of the Ouachita parish school board, were introduced.

Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, president of the Fifth District Federated clubs of Louisiana and one of the outstanding members of the Business and Professional Women's club, spoke in characteristic, glowing manner on the strength and power of organized women. It was nineteen years ago, she said, when the first club was organized with a membership of 200. The federation now numbers 68,000 members in 1,546 clubs in the 48 states, the Hawaiian islands and Alaska. Mrs. Tisdale's horizon was broadened recently when she attended the national convention of the American Legion and auxiliary in Los Angeles. Her constant touch with club women throughout the state makes her an invaluable member of the local Business and Professional Women's club.

The serving of the delicious, four-course dinner, wes punctuated with several song numbers, rendered in beautiful voice by Miss Johnette Register, accompanied by Miss Mack Fay Hammonds, pianist.

Among those present were: Miss Maible Hood, Mrs. Dora Anish, Mrs. Johnnie Smith Elbert, Miss Florence Powers, Mrs. Jennie Thornton, Mrs. Clara Dennis, Mrs. Effie Allen, Mrs. Ethel Reims, Miss Mamie Ober, Miss Alice Baur, Miss Mary O'Kelly, Mrs. Acele Smith, Miss Hazel Wakefield, Miss Harriet Hirsch, Mrs. Mabel Fisher, Mrs. Blanche Pharr, Mrs. Albert Trotter, Mrs. Daisy Terzia, Mrs. Ross Coates, Mrs. Carl Stillman, Mrs. Doris Sutton, Mrs. Blanche Colvin, Mrs. C. H. Modes, Mr. C. H. Modes, Mrs. Newt V. Mills, Mrs. Abe Arant, Mrs. D. I. Hirsch, Mrs. Lena Griffis, Mrs. Margaret Coenen, Mrs. Ida Kaplan, Mrs. T. L. Morris, Mrs. Allen Ritter, Mr. Allen Ritter, Miss Ivo Wilson, Miss Mamie McNeill, Mrs. R. L. McHenry, Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, Mrs. George V. Lofton, Miss Johnnette Register, Miss Mack Fay Hammonds, Mrs. E. B. Stover, Miss Eve Bradford, Mrs. D. A. Bradford, Miss Bernice Wright, Mayor H. H. Benoit, Mr. W. D. H. Rodriguez, Mr. C. R. Tidwell and Mrs. John M. McBryde, New Orleans.

Luncheon Given At McGuire Golf Club

Charming hospitality was extended members of McGuire Golf club during the luncheon hour on ladies' day by the three hostesses, Mrs. O. A. Evans, Mrs. W. C. Fisher and Mrs. Lloyd Warren.

A conversational hour was enjoyed in the flower-adorned lounge before luncheon was announced.

COPY OF FAMOUS HOOKED RUG WILL BE SHOWN IN MONROE

Making Hooked Rugs To Be Demonstrated

Noted Expert Will Be Guest Of Mrs. F. C. Holden To Show Details Of Almost Lost Art

Have you ever made a hooked rug? If not, you have missed one of life's real thrills, according to Mrs. F. C. Holden, who has turned a hobby into something more tangible.

Mrs. Holden has become so interested in the art of hooked rug making that she prevailed upon Mrs. Harry King of Hoxie, Ark., one of the most famous hooked rug makers and instructors in the country, to visit her so that they might discuss the hooked rug she recently completed and that has gained nation-wide recognition. Mrs. King recently built a new home of early American architecture and above all else she wanted a hooked rug of an authentic early American pattern. She wanted especially a rug like the one she saw in the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. She finally became obsessed with the idea and resolved to go to New York and obtain a permit from the authorities to photograph the rug so that she might make a drawing of it, cut a stencil on burlap and then proceed to hook the rug. As a result she has a rug identical in pattern and color to the one in the Metropolitan museum.

Mrs. King will bring this rug and many others to Monroe and will display them to the women of this community who are extended an invitation from Mrs. Holden who will sponsor this exhibit at the Virginia hotel.

If you are interested in hooked rug making you will thrill to the privilege of meeting this famous weaver who has, within a period of five years, made a drawing of every rug in the Metropolitan museum. In addition she has countless patterns and drawings from other museums as well as private collections. Doors, closed to the average rug enthusiast, open wide to Mrs. King whose fame now reaches from coast to coast.

She has been the guest of groups of women in many cities throughout the country, taking her patterns with her. In Washington there is a group composed largely of senators' wives. There's a hooking club in Shreveport and Jonesboro.

The pattern making goes through six separate stages. First, Mrs. King must make or buy a photograph of the rug. Then with the use of magnifying glasses, she makes an enlarged copy or drawing of the picture on paper the size she desires the rug to be. The copy must be traced on a stencil board, then cut and painted from the stencil onto burlap with black oil paint. And finally free hand touches must be added.

After the pattern, there's the matter of putting the colors into the rug. That's where the creative art comes in. In color is where Mrs. King's daughter, Carol, is an expert. Mrs. King makes the drawing and Carol, with a keen sense of color, assists her mother in this phase of the art.

The first hooked rug that Mrs. King has been able to find a picture of was made some time between the third and the seventh centuries by the Copts, descendants of the ancient Egyptians.

So the art of hooking is not original with America, though America has done more with its development than any other country.

Today hooking is a fashionable hobby that's sweeping the country, as America revives early American tastes.

Sororities At Tech Close Rush Season

Forty-Eight Rushees Pledged To Greek Letter Organizations During The Past Week

Sororities at Louisiana Tech closed their rush season last week with 48 rushees pledged to the three sororities, Kappa Delta, Theta Upsilon and Theta Sigma Nu, Greek letter social organizations.

Kappa Delta pledges: Joy Gibson, Bossier City; Mary Holt Barnes, Ruston; Mary Blume, Shreveport; Eva Caldwell, Bossier City; Johnile Curry, Rayville; Caroline Ford, Homer; Jane Ford, Searcy, Ark.; Wanda Hewitt, Oakdale; Frances McDonald, Shreveport.

Lillie Clara McKinney, Hosston; Margaret Mulhearn, Monroe; Mignon Terrill, Farmerville; Marie Tousley, Arcadia; Mary Elizabeth Taylor, Thelma Branch, Winnfield; Helen Alford, Arcadia; Edwina Wade, Farmerville; Leda Marie Jones, Ruston; Alexa Lawler, Ruston.

Theta Sigma Nu pledges: Elaine McDonald, Jonesboro; Sara D. Bridendahl, Alexandria; Myrtle Killian, Monroe; Virginia Palmer, Homer; Margaret Templeton, Athens; Edith LaBlanche, Ruston; Grace Richardson, Minden; Bonnie Thrasher, Arcadia; Rose Mary Wurster, Jonesville; Margaret Funderburk, Ruston; Barbara Poteet, Ruston; Vernie Deen Lowe, Haynesville; Pauline Phillips, Jonesville; Margaret Miller, Haynesville; Joyce Nolan, Mer Rouge; Juanita Jones, Hodge; Lucy Nell Wainwright, Farmerville; Johnny Ruth Cottingham, Columbia.

Theta Upsilon pledges: Elizabeth Allen, Bastrop; Nancy Orr, Bastrop; Mary Janet Thomas, Bastrop; Cathryn Mullins, Monroe; Louise Baline, Shreveport; Ernestine Gulley, Marion; Janice Tarpley, Shreveport; Lois Stokes, Bunkie; Eva Gay Penton, Bastrop; Madelyn Maddocks, Ruston.

Two of the outstanding rush parties at Tech last week, honoring this season's rushees, were the informal and formal parties given by the active members of Theta Upsilon sorority.

The informal party was a colorful event which took the form of a gala Mexican fiesta at the home of Mrs. R. L. Vining. The note of gaiety was carried out with beautiful and elaborate costumes worn by the rushees.

Mexican music was heard throughout the afternoon. Miss Dorothy Harris proved the highlight of the party when she sang two vocals in Spanish, "Mariache Estralita" and "Glonni Mai."

Later Miss Louise Freeman entertained with a rhumba.

Mexican tea and hot tamales were served the guests by Mrs. Vining at the conclusion of the entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Miller and son, Frank, have returned from a visit in Kentucky, Tennessee and Oklahoma.

Miss Humphries Weds Robert M. Harvey

Miss Clotile Humphries, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Humphries of Monroe, and Robert M. Harvey, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Harvey of Tallulah, were married Sunday, October 9, at the Methodist parsonage in Tallulah.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. W. Poole, in the presence of a few friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey will reside in Monroe, where Mr. Harvey is employed.

Fine Arts Club Holds Meeting

The Fine Arts club resumed activities Monday evening in the home of Mrs. C. C. Carroll, with Misses Eleona Brinsmade, May Read and Rosalia Kuhn as co-hostesses.

This was in the nature of a business and social meeting. An interesting program under the direction of Miss Ladelle Duke was presented as follows:

"Current Events in the Musical and Artistic Worlds," Mrs. B. L. Mulhern.

Piano solo, "Fur Elise," Beethoven, Leon Hammond.

Cornet solo, "Intermezzo, Cavaliera Rusticanna," Charles Gaushell.

Talk, "The Simpler Rules of Parliamentary Procedure," Mrs. Ben Stern.

Piano solo, "Rondo Gavotte," John Sebastian Bach, "Winter Time," Robert Schuman, Mrs. Dean Selig.

Following the program the members enjoyed a delightful conversational hour in the dining room, where fruit frappe and cakes were served. Members present were Miss Eleona Brinsmade, Joe Craig, Miss Hadelle Duke, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gaushell, Mrs. Nell Grigsby, Leon Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Barlow Inabnet, Mrs. Henry Mayo, Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Newman, Miss Cliffie Olmstead, Miss May Read, Mr. Fred Rosenbaum, Mrs. Dean Selig, Mrs. George Wesley Smith, Mrs. Ben Stern Mrs. Fred Thatcher, and a guest, Mrs. Horning.

Miss Vivian Voges, Bride-Elect, Feted

Miss Vivian Voges was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous "shower" in the home of Miss Leona Biggar, where intimate friends responded to the invitation.

The gifts, beautifully wrapped, were presented by Miriam Biggar, dressed as a negro mammy.

Miss Voges, whose marriage to Mr. Harry Wilson of Shreveport, will take place October 22, was the central figure in this group of intimates.

Miss Biggar was assisted in extending courtesies by Miss Frances Spriggs, co-hostess.

The invited guests were Mesdames P. H. Wentworth, N. E. Edelen, Lenora Shafet, E. B. Pounds, Joe Massart, G. H. McCallum, Harold Breard, Dick Dean, R. L. Davis, S. E. Hodges, L. Peters, G. K. COPY OF FAMOUS HOOKED RUG WILL BE SHOWN IN MONROE

Making Hooked Rugs To Be Demonstrated

Noted Expert Will Be Guest Of Mrs. F. C. Holden To Show Details Of Almost Lost Art

Have you ever made a hooked rug? If not, you have missed one of life's real thrills, according to Mrs. F. C. Holden, who has turned a hobby into something more tangible.

Mrs. Holden has become so interested in the art of hooked rug making that she prevailed upon Mrs. Harry King of Hoxie, Ark., one of the most famous hooked rug makers and instructors in the country, to visit her so that they might discuss the hooked rug she recently completed and that has gained nation-wide recognition. Mrs. King recently built a new home of early American architecture and above all else she wanted a hooked rug of an authentic early American pattern. She wanted especially a rug like the one she saw in the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York. She finally became obsessed with the idea and resolved to go to New York and obtain a permit from the authorities to photograph the rug so that she might make a drawing of it, cut a stencil on burlap and then proceed to hook the rug. As a result she has a rug identical in pattern and color to the one in the Metropolitan museum.

Mrs. King will bring this rug and many others to Monroe and will display them to the women of this community who are extended an invitation from Mrs. Holden who will sponsor this exhibit at the Virginia hotel.

If you are interested in hooked rug making you will thrill to the privilege of meeting this famous weaver who has, within a period of five years, made a drawing of every rug in the Metropolitan museum. In addition she has countless patterns and drawings from other museums as well as private collections. Doors, closed to the average rug enthusiast, open wide to Mrs. King whose fame now reaches from coast to coast.

She has been the guest of groups of women in many cities throughout the country, taking her patterns with her. In Washington there is a group composed largely of senators' wives. There's a hooking club in Shreveport and Jonesboro.

The pattern making goes through six separate stages. First, Mrs. King must make or buy a photograph of the rug. Then with the use of magnifying glasses, she makes an enlarged copy or drawing of the picture on paper the size she desires the rug to be. The copy must be traced on a stencil board, then cut and painted from the stencil onto burlap with black oil paint. And finally free hand touches must be added.

After the pattern, there's the matter of putting the colors into the rug. That's where the creative art comes in. In color is where Mrs. King's daughter, Carol, is an expert. Mrs. King makes the drawing and Carol, with a keen sense of color, assists her mother in this phase of the art.

The first hooked rug that Mrs. King has been able to find a picture of was made some time between the third and the seventh centuries by the Copts, descendants of the ancient Egyptians.

So the art of hooking is not original with America, though America has done more with its development than any other country.

Today hooking is a fashionable hobby that's sweeping the country, as America revives early American tastes.

Sororities At Tech Close Rush Season

Two of the outstanding rush parties at Tech last week, honoring this season's rushees, were the informal and formal parties given by the active members of Theta Upsilon sorority.

The informal party was a colorful event which took the form of a gala Mexican fiesta at the home of Mrs. R. L. Vining. The note of gaiety was carried out with beautiful and elaborate costumes worn by the rushees.

Mexican music was heard throughout the afternoon. Miss Dorothy Harris proved the highlight of the party when she sang two vocals in Spanish, "Mariache Estralita" and "Gionni Mai."

Later Miss Louise Freeman entertained with a rhumba.

Mexican tea and hot tamales were served the guests by Mrs. Vining at the conclusion of the entertainment.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Miller and son, Frank, have returned from a visit in Kentucky, Tennessee and Oklahoma.

Wedding Of Miss Virginia Smith And Frank Yelton Solemnized At Farmerville

Ceremony Conducted At Home Of The Bride

Young Couple Leave On Honeymoon In Florida, Cuba And Carolina; Pre-Nuptial Affairs Given

Claiming prominence among the autumn weddings was that of Miss Virginia Smith, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Smith of Farmerville, and Mr. Frank H. Yelton, Saturday, October 8, at the home of the bride's parents with Rev. M. A. Treadwell, pastor of the Farmerville Baptist church, officiating.

The bridal party entered to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march rendered by Mrs. Fenner W. Murphy.

Miss Eilyn Baughman, maid of honor, and Mrs. Mike Smith, matron of honor, wore handsome gowns of black velvet with corsages of pink carnations. The bride was lovely in an early fall model of "Boy Blue" with accessories of dubonnet. A corsage of dubonnet carnations and lilies of the valley added a distinctive touch to the beautiful ensemble. The groom, his best man, Lieutenant William Pope, the groomsman, Mr. Wilbur Smith, of El Dorado, and the minister wore boutonnieres of white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Yelton left by automobile for a honeymoon trip to Florida, Cuba and South Carolina. Mrs. Yelton, a young woman of charming personality, is an accomplished musician. After graduating from high school at El Dorado, she became a private pupil of Helene Butler, retired German concert artist. She studied theater organ and is a member of the Junior Music league. For the last few years she has resided in Farmerville, where she has endeared herself to a host of friends. Mr. Yelton is the son of Mr. W. M. Yelton of Columbia, S. C. He is a graduate of the University of South Carolina and attended the University of Michigan. He is a member of Alpha Epsilon Delta fraternity and is at present educational advisor at the civilian conservation corps camp near Farmerville.

Culminating the many charming affairs inspired by the engagement of Miss Virginia Smith was a tea and shower given on Thursday afternoon between the hours of 4 and 6 in the home of Mrs. Mike Smith of Farmerville, with Mrs. W. C. Tugwell, cohostess.

The guests were welcomed by Mrs. F. T. Preaus. In the receiving line with the hostesses and the honoree were her mother, Mrs. W. C. Smith, her sister-in-law, Mrs. Wilbur Smith, of El Dorado, Miss Eilyn Baughman and Mrs. H. M. O'Donnel, all wearing semi-evening floor-length models. Miss Smith wore a model of hyacinth blue taffeta with ornaments and accessories of gold. The beautifully appointed lace-draped table had for central decor an artistic arrangement of marigolds and lupin, surrounded by pink tapers in green crystal holders. Radiance roses were placed at vantage points throughout the reception suite. Miss Faye Baughman, wearing an attractive semi-evening model of dubonnet taffeta, poured coffee from a handsome silver service, and Mrs. Guy McDonald, of Bernice, in a pink chiffon evening model, presided over the tea service. Delectable open-faced sandwiches and dainty confections, including pink and green mints, were passed among the guests by Mrs. J. F. Boughton, Mrs. Stein Baughman, Mrs. O. O. Cummings and Mrs. Edward Everett, Jr. Many lovely gifts of silver, crystal, china, linens and various other articles showered on the popular honoree were on display in the dining room.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Ferguson graciously entertained at a buffet supper Friday evening complimentary to Miss Smith. Chinese checkers were played during the evening, and Mrs. C. W. Kennedy and Mr. Ferguson were awarded Halloween favors. Those enjoying this charming affair were Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Dawkins, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey L. Barr, Mr. and Mrs. John Hogan, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. O'Donnell, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Petrie, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Upshaw, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Ludwig, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Kennedy and Mrs. Jesse Rabb.

Mrs. C. W. Oseland Fetes Opera Club

Mrs. C. W. Oseland entertained members of the Opera club in her home in Fairview Thursday morning, with Mrs. D. G. Nichols as co-hostess. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Paul Newman, Mrs. J. N. Coon presided over the business meeting.

The opera of the month and a brief story of the composer was given by Mrs. J. C. Kramer, who selected "Madam Butterfly," by Giacomo Puccini, for her subject.

In speaking of Puccini Mrs. Kramer said: "A great success is often the result of many failures. Such was the case of Giacomo Puccini, composer of some of our most popular operas."

Placing his birth in Lucca, Italy in 1858, the story of his life, eventful in failures that held in check the gift that was later to develop and place him as a star in Italy's firmament of composers, was described in interesting manner.

In the opera, "Madam Butterfly," Mrs. Kramer developed the three points of the play; the beginning, the climax, the finale. Mrs. E. C. Gibson defined each point. Mrs. J. N. Coon sang very beautifully "One Fine Day," which tells of the love, fidelity and philosophy of the little Japanese girl-wife of the dashing American officer. Mrs. Warren Gregory led in the round table discussion.

At the conclusion of the program the hostesses served delicious refreshments to the following members: Mrs. Walter Scott, Mrs. Elma Hinkle, Mrs. B. B. Martin, Mrs. Elliott Thompson, Mrs. Henry Hinkle, Mrs. Marvyn Johnson, Mrs. Paul Herron, Mrs. L. V. Tarver, Mrs. Warren Gregory, Mrs. J. C. Kramer, Mrs. S. O. Grubbs, Mrs. J. N. Coon, Mrs. E. C. Gibson, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, and Mrs. Charles Gaushell.

Neville

Approximately one hundred parents and teachers attended the Neville Parent-Teacher meeting Monday evening to hear Principal Paul Neal, who made an address on "The School As A Partner In Progress."

He spoke in part as follows

"A new day is dawning in American education. There is ample reason to believe that our schools are being revitalized and are starting on an upward curve to a new appraisal of American democracy.

"A flood of new literature has been pouring forth from the great educational centers of this country. On one point all our great leaders agree—namely, that the rule of the majority is at the cross-roads and that American democracy is worth saving.

"A brilliant record was made by the German schools during the period of academic freedom for teachers, but what an enduring contribution might they not have made, had students as well as teachers been academically free? Hitler did not produce the Germanic mind. He found it ready made, the product of a formal and militaristic school, trained as a group to follow a leader—a striking example of national, but not individual integration, both of which are essential to intelligent behavior.

"To inculcate authoritarian beliefs, fixed rules of conduct, unreasoned and therefore stubborn attitudes, is to set our youth in futile and fatal conflict with the forces of modern life. By meeting situations, modifying conditions and adapting themselves to the unchangeable, our boys and girls will learn to live in a dynamic and evolving world.

"Is it not fair to assume that violations of academic freedom in this country would set the stage for a scene which has already been enacted in Europe. We have failed to build in our students a resistance sufficient to withstand the strain and stress of open and frank discussion. Our schools have been autocratic rather than democratic institutions. An implicit, blind and regimented obedience has become a boomerang for our own control.

"With the phenomenal growth of American mass production came the unprecedented peace-time problem of handling armies of men in American industry. So in casting about for an efficient pattern that would reduce the pain of thinking, the rugged industrialist hit upon the department of war and adopted the army procedure of the battle front, lock, stock and barrel—in the line, staff, discipline, dictatorial methods, courtmartial and firing squad, with no apparent regard for the fact that it was not suited entirely for the purpose which it was expected to serve.

"Along with the industries grew the need for schools. So the rugged individual in charge of industry set up a board with himself as president, hired himself a school master, handed the pedagogue the line, staff, discipline, dictatorial methods, courtmartial, and firing squad of the military industrial plan of operation, and had himself a school—a school to train people for a better and bigger industry, a better and bigger dividend. Though this example is imaginary, it illustrates the actual evolution. We are all familiar with the mushroom growth of industry and the mushroom growth of mass production in our schools. The agriculturists of the south, the miners of the west, the sea-faring people of the east, and the stock raisers of the north, all copied this plan—and thus was born a novel system to a free people. Mass production in education, a product of the common school for the common people, and for all the heterogeneous children of the common people was exceeded only by the mass production of the parent organization--American industry."

A delightful social hour followed in which the hospitality committee, consisting of two teachers, Mrs. Aubrey Boyd and Miss Boyle together with two parents, Mrs. R. Davis and Mrs. Silverstein served punch and cakes.

District Meeting Held By Federated Groups

Club Women Of Area Meet At Ruston; Several Outstanding Leaders Appear On The Program

Can organized women work effectively on any problem and achieve results? The answer is most emphatically, yes!

A meeting in Ruston last Wednesday of Fifth District Federated club women of Louisiana brings to mind the realization that it will be the women who will be ready to cope with any dread chaos, revolution, war, disease and myriad other horrors, if the time comes when trained minds and keen wit are necessary.

Three women, prominent in the fifth district club work, are Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, president, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, state chairman of club institutes, and Mrs. Addison Thompson of Ruston, former state publicity chairman. They presided over the meeting in Ruston and gave the assemblage the benefit of their experience in club work.

The meeting, in the form of a club institute, was opened with the singing of "America" with Mrs. Dean Selig, pianist.

Mr. H. L. McKnight, in his welcoming address, commended club women for their splendid achievements in these busy times. Mrs. F. J. Petterson of Monroe gave the response.

Before going into the regular session Mrs. Coon gave the purpose of holding club institutes. The morning session was given over to the discussion of the club officers; their duties, and the duties of the committee chairmen. Mrs. A. R. Holloway of Monroe conducted an interesting discussion on elections.

Qualifications of officers was ably discussed by Mrs. J. G. Durrett of Monroe.

Duties and responsibilities of officers was presented by Mrs. D. C. Metcalf of West Monroe.

Mrs. J. G. Holland of Monroe presented her idea of the ideal presiding officer. The keynote of Mrs. Holland's talk was, "The one who serves best profits most."

In presenting the ideal committee chairman, Mrs. Walter Rhodes of Monroe said, "The club is a controlling power and the committee is the tool."

In presenting the work of the department chairmen, Mrs. Leola Nixon of Ruston spoke on American citizenship.

Mrs. J. R. White, chairman of press and publicity, announced the winners in the Fifth district year book contest. The Welcome Branch Book club of Monroe won in the first division. The program chairman of this year book was Mrs. Warren Gregory. The Child Study club of Ruston won in the second division. Mrs. D. P. Noah was the year book chairman. The Miro Book club of Monroe, with Mrs. J. M. Russell, chairman, received honorable mention. The Fifth district was proud to have as judge in the year book contest Miss Sue Hefley, librarian of Northeast Center.

Mrs. White also spoke on the importance of having a well-trained reporter for every club and at this time introduced the characters that took part in presenting a little skit entitled, "A Society Editor's Morning," which was given in an effective manner by Mrs. Zell Smith, Mrs. Warren Gregory, and Mrs. H. V. Collins, all of Monroe, and members of Welcome Branch Book club.

Mrs. C. C. Colvert, chairman of education in Fifth district, impressed the club women of the importance of character education.

The district and state chairman of music, Mrs. Noble Hatch, spoke on the importance of music in the home.

Mrs. W. D. Cotton, district and state chairman of junior clubs, spoke of the progress that's being made in Fifth district in the organization of junior clubs. Mrs. Cotton is confident that several will be organized during this club year.

A musical number by a men's quartet from Louisiana Tech was the highlight of the morning session. Lenord Jenkins, John Bennett, Billie Thurmond and Russell Burk sang "Just a Weary'in for You."

"Gypsy Love Song" by Victor Herbert was beautifully rendered as a duet by Mrs. John Thurmon and Mrs. G. W. McGinty with Mrs. Harvey Nelson accompanying them.

The lovely hospitality offered during the coffee hour and throughout the day by the Ruston ladies added greatly to the day's pleasure.

Waterproof

Mrs. W. H. Martien entertained the Thursday Night Bridge club. After the usual number of games prizes were awarded as follows: Mrs. Sterling Greaves, first; Mrs. Ben Johnson, second; Miss Camilla Massony, third; Mrs. R. N. Hunter, consolation.

Refreshments were served to Misses Rose Guice, Lucille Barlow, Rosy Massony, Camilla Massony, Marjorie Fulton, and Mesdames Kirk, T. Hazlip, N. J. Dreyfus, P. B. Hays, J. W. Brown, Charles Testa, Myrtle Collins and Ray McGehee.

Mrs. Carrie Davis of Newellton and Misses Lucille Barlow and Frances Miller spent a week-end in Baton Rouge and attended a football game there.

Dr. Ehlert and Mrs. Ehlert and son, Jimmy spent several days in New Orleans.

Miss Anna L. Rogillio spent several days in Baton Rouge.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Long was the scene of a reception given in honor of Rev. and Mrs. S. N. Harris on the eve of their departure for their new home in Fayette, Miss. They were presented with salad forks in their chosen silver pattern, a gift from the auxiliary.

Mr. Robert James Lancaster, who is attending school at Ruston, spent a week-end at home.

Mrs. Lucille Hopkins and son, Mack, spent several days in Baton Rouge as the guests of her daughter, Lucille, who is attending L. S. U.

Ruston

Miss Helen Graham entertained Theta Upsilon rushees with a formal dinner at her home recently.

After the introduction of the rushees Miss Jeanette Goodwin sang "Theta Upsilon Girl."

An interesting social event of last week was the Baptist Student union luncheon at the First Baptist church held for the initial meeting with the B. S. U. council. Miss Nan Morgan, state B. S. U. director and graduate of Louisiana Tech, acted as master of ceremonies, presiding over a program of music and fun.

The feature of the entertainment was a one-act play written by Miss Morgan and presented by Tech students, including Dean Stokes, Eugene Ball, Cleonis Fowler and Ralph Allen.

Table decorations consisted of toy buses on a tiny road winding down the tables among bowls of flowers. Significance of the road was heightened by making plans for the transportation of the entire group to the all-southern student conference in Memphis, Tenn., on October 27-30.

Wedding Of Miss Virginia Smith And Frank Yelton Solemnized At Farmerville

Ceremony Conducted At Home Of The Bride

Young Couple Leave On Honeymoon In Florida, Cuba And Carolina; Pre-Nuptial Affairs Given

Claiming prominence among the autumn weddings was that of Miss Virginia Smith, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Smith of Farmerville, and Mr. Frank H. Yelton, Saturday, October 8, at the home of the bride's parents with Rev. M. A. Treadwell, pastor of the Farmerville Baptist church, officiating.

The reception suite was massed with beautiful flowers for this event, characterized by lovely simplicity.

The bridal party entered to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march rendered by Mrs. Fenner W. Murphy.

Miss Ellyn Baughman, maid of honor, and Mrs. Mike Smith, matron of honor, wore handsome gowns of black velvet with corsages of pink carnations. The bride was lovely in an early fall model of "Boy Blue" with accessories of dubonnet. A corsage of dubonnet carnations and lilies of the valley added a distinctive touch to the beautiful ensemble. The groom, his best man, Lieutenant William Pope, the groomsman, Mr. Wilbur Smith, of El Dorado, and the minister wore boutonnieres of white carnations.

Mr. and Mrs. Yelton left by automobile for a honeymoon trip to Florida, Cuba and South Carolina. Mrs. Yelton, a young woman of charming personality, is an accomplished musician. After graduating from high school at El Dorado, she became a private pupil of Helene Butler, retired German concert artist. She studied theater organ and is a member of the Junior Music league. For the last few years she has resided in Farmerville, where she has endeared herself to a host of friends. Mr. Yelton is the son of Mr. W. M. Yelton of Columbia, S. C. He is a graduate of the University of South Carolina and attended the University of Michigan. He is a member of Alpha Epsilon Delta fraternity and is at present educational advisor at the civilian conservation corps camp near Farmerville.

Culminating the many charming affairs inspired by the engagement of Miss Virginia Smith was a tea and shower given on Thursday afternoon between the hours of 4 and 6 in the home of Mrs. Mike Smith of Farmerville, with Mrs. W. C. Tugwell, cohostess.

The guests were welcomed by Mrs. F. T. Preaus. In the receiving line with the hostesses and the honoree were her mother, Mrs. W. C. Smith, her sister-in-law, Mrs. Wilbur Smith, of El Dorado, Miss Ellyn Baughman and Mrs. H. M. O'Donnel, all wearing semi-evening floor-length models. Miss Smith wore a model of hyacinth blue taffeta with ornaments and accessories of gold. The beautifully appointed lace-draped table had for central decor an artistic arrangement of marigolds and lupin, surrounded by pink tapers in green crystal holders. Radiance roses were placed at vantage points throughout the reception suite. Miss Faye Baughman, wearing an attractive semi-evening model of dubonnet taffeta, poured coffee from a handsome silver service, and Mrs. Guy McDonald, of Bernice, in a pink chiffon evening model, presided over the tea service. Delectable open-faced sandwiches and dainty confections, including pink and green mints, were passed among the guests by Mrs. J. F. Boughton, Mrs. Stein Baughman, Mrs. O. O. Cummings and Mrs. Edward Everett, Jr. Many lovely gifts of silver, crystal, china, linens and various other articles showered on the popular honoree were on display in the dining room.

Mrs. C. W. Oseland Fetes Opera Club

Mrs. C. W. Oseland entertained members of the Opera club in her home in Fairview Thursday morning, with Mrs. D. G. Nichols as co-hostess. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Paul Newman, Mrs. J. N. Coon presided over the business meeting.

The opera of the month and a brief story of the composer was given by Mrs. J. C. Kramer, who selected "Madam Butterfly," by Giacomo Puccini, for her subject.

In speaking of Puccini Mrs. Kramer said: "A great success is often the result of many failures. Such was the case of Giacomo Puccini, composer of some of our most popular operas."

Placing his birth in Lucca, Italy in 1858, the story of his life, eventful in failures that held in check the gift that was later to develop and place him as a star in Italy's firmament of composers, was described in interesting manner.

In the opera, "Madam Butterfly," Mrs. Kramer developed the three points of the play; the beginning, the climax, the finale. Mrs. E. C. Gibson defined each point. Mrs. J. N. Coon sang very beautifully "One Fine Day," which tells of the love, fidelity and philosophy of the little Japanese girl-wife of the dashing American officer. Mrs. Warren Gregory led in the round table discussion.

At the conclusion of the program the hostesses served delicious refreshments to the following members: Mrs. Walter Scott, Mrs. Elma Hinkle, Mrs. B. B. Martin, Mrs. Elliott Thompson, Mrs. Henry Hinkle, Mrs. Marvyn Johnson, Mrs. Paul Herron, Mrs. L. V. Tarver, Mrs. Warren Gregory, Mrs. J. C. Kramer, Mrs. S. O. Grubbs, Mrs. J. N. Coon, Mrs. E. C. Gibson, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, and Mrs. Charles Gaushell.

Neville

Approximately one hundred parents and teachers attended the Neville Parent-Teacher meeting Monday evening to hear Principal Paul Neal, who made an address on "The School As A Partner In Progress."

He spoke in part as follows

"A new day is dawning in American education. There is ample reason to believe that our schools are being revitalized and are starting on an upward curve to a new appraisal of American democracy.

"A flood of new literature has been pouring forth from the great educational centers of this country. On one point all our great leaders agree—namely, that the rule of the majority is at the cross-roads and that American democracy is worth saving.

"A brilliant record was made by the German schools during the period of academic freedom for teachers, but what an enduring contribution might they not have made, had students as well as teachers been academically free? Hitler did not produce the Germanic mind. He found it ready made, the product of a formal and militaristic school, trained as a group to follow a leader—a striking example of national, but not individual integration, both of which are essential to intelligent behavior.

"To inculcate authoritarian beliefs, fixed rules of conduct, unreasoned and therefore stubborn attitudes, is to set our youth in futile and fatal conflict with the forces of modern life. By meeting situations, modifying conditions and adapting themselves to the unchangeable, our boys and girls will learn to live in a dynamic and evolving world.

"Is it not fair to assume that violations of academic freedom in this country would set the stage for a scene which has already been enacted in Europe. We have failed to build in our students a resistance sufficient to withstand the strain and stress of open and frank discussion. Our schools have been autocratic rather than democratic institutions. An implicit, blind and regimented obedience has become a boomerang for our own control.

"With the phenomenal growth of American mass production came the unprecedented peace-time problem of handling armies of men in American industry. So in casting about for an efficient pattern that would reduce the pain of thinking, the rugged industrialist hit upon the department of war and adopted the army procedure of the battle front, lock, stock and barrel—in the line, staff, discipline, dictatorial methods, courtmartial and firing squad, with no apparent regard for the fact that it was not suited entirely for the purpose which it was expected to serve.

"Along with the industries grew the need for schools. So the rugged individual in charge of industry set up a board with himself as president, hired himself a school master, handed the pedagogue the line, staff, discipline, dictatorial methods, courtmartial, and firing squad of the military industrial plan of operation, and had himself a school—a school to train people for a better and bigger industry, a better and bigger dividend. Though this example is imaginary, it illustrates the actual evolution. We are all familiar with the mushroom growth of industry and the mushroom growth of mass production in our schools. The agriculturists of the south, the miners of the west, the sea-faring people of the east, and the stock raisers of the north, all copied this plan—and thus was born a novel system to a free people. Mass production in education, a product of the common school for the common people, and for all the heterogeneous children of the common people was exceeded only by the mass production of the parent organization--American industry."

A delightful social hour followed in which the hospitality committee, consisting of two teachers, Mrs. Aubrey Boyd and Miss Boyle together with two parents, Mrs. R. Davis and Mrs. Silverstein served punch and cakes.

District Meeting Held By Federated Groups

Club Women Of Area Meet At Ruston; Several Outstanding Leaders Appear On The Program

Can organized women work effectively on any problem and achieve results? The answer is most emphatically, yes!

A meeting in Ruston last Wednesday of Fifth District Federated club women of Louisiana brings to mind the realization that it will be the women who will be ready to cope with any dread chaos, revolution, war, disease and myriad other horrors, if the time comes when trained minds and keen wit are necessary.

Three women, prominent in the fifth district club work, are Mrs. A. D. Tisdale, president, Mrs. J. Norman Coon, state chairman of club institutes, and Mrs. Addison Thompson of Ruston, former state publicity chairman. They presided over the meeting in Ruston and gave the assemblage the benefit of their experience in club work.

The meeting, in the form of a club institute, was opened with the singing of "America" with Mrs. Dean Selig, pianist.

Mr. H. L. McKnight, in his welcoming address, commended club women for their splendid achievements in these busy times. Mrs. F. J. Petterson of Monroe gave the response.

Before going into the regular session Mrs. Coon gave the purpose of holding club institutes. The morning session was given over to the discussion of the club officers; their duties, and the duties of the committee chairmen. Mrs. A. R. Holloway of Monroe conducted an interesting discussion on elections.

Qualifications of officers was ably discussed by Mrs. J. G. Durrett of Monroe.

Duties and responsibilities of officers was presented by Mrs. D. C. Metcalf of West Monroe.

Mrs. J. G. Holland of Monroe presented her idea of the ideal presiding officer. The keynote of Mrs. Holland's talk was, "The one who serves best profits most."

In presenting the ideal committee chairman, Mrs. Walter Rhodes of Monroe said, "The club is a controlling power and the committee is the tool."

In presenting the work of the department chairmen, Mrs. Leola Nixon of Ruston spoke on American citizenship.

Mrs. J. R. White, chairman of press and publicity, announced the winners in the Fifth district year book contest. The Welcome Branch Book club of Monroe won in the first division. The program chairman of this year book was Mrs. Warren Gregory. The Child Study club of Ruston won in the second division. Mrs. D. P. Noah was the year book chairman. The Miro Book club of Monroe, with Mrs. J. M. Russell, chairman, received honorable mention. The Fifth district was proud to have as judge in the year book contest Miss Sue Hefley, librarian of Northeast Center.

Mrs. White also spoke on the importance of having a well-trained reporter for every club and at this time introduced the characters that took part in presenting a little skit entitled, "A Society Editor's Morning," which was given in an effective manner by Mrs. Zell Smith, Mrs. Warren Gregory, and Mrs. H. V. Collins, all of Monroe, and members of Welcome Branch Book club.

Mrs. C. C. Colvert, chairman of education in Fifth district, impressed the club women of the importance of character education.

The district and state chairman of music, Mrs. Noble Hatch, spoke on the importance of music in the home.

Mrs. W. D. Cotton, district and state chairman of junior clubs, spoke of the progress that's being made in Fifth district in the organization of junior clubs. Mrs. Cotton is confident that several will be organized during this club year.

A musical number by a men's quartet from Louisiana Tech was the highlight of the morning session. Lenord Jenkins, John Bennett, Billie Thurmond and Russell Burk sang "Just a Weary'in for You."

"Gypsy Love Song" by Victor Herbert was beautifully rendered as a duet by Mrs. John Thurmon and Mrs. G. W. McGinty with Mrs. Harvey Nelson accompanying them.

The lovely hospitality offered during the coffee hour and throughout the day by the Ruston ladies added greatly to the day's pleasure.

Waterproof

Mrs. W. H. Martien entertained the Thursday Night Bridge club. After the usual number of games prizes were awarded as follows: Mrs. Sterling Greaves, first; Mrs. Ben Johnson, second; Miss Camilla Massony, third; Mrs. R. N. Hunter, consolation.

Refreshments were served to Misses Rose Guice, Lucille Barlow, Rosy Massony, Camilla Massony, Marjorie Fulton, and Mesdames Kirk, T. Hazlip, N. J. Dreyfus, P. B. Hays, J. W. Brown, Charles Testa, Myrtle Collins and Ray McGehee.

Mrs. Carrie Davis of Newellton and Misses Lucille Barlow and Frances Miller spent a week-end in Baton Rouge and attended a football game there.

Dr. Ehlert and Mrs. Ehlert and son, Jimmy spent several days in New Orleans.

Miss Anna L. Rogillio spent several days in Baton Rouge.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Long was the scene of a reception given in honor of Rev. and Mrs. S. N. Harris on the eve of their departure for their new home in Fayette, Miss. They were presented with salad forks in their chosen silver pattern, a gift from the auxiliary.

Mr. Robert James Lancaster, who is attending school at Ruston, spent a week-end at home.

Mrs. Lucille Hopkins and son, Mack, spent several days in Baton Rouge as the guests of her daughter, Lucille, who is attending L. S. U.

Ruston

Miss Helen Graham entertained Theta Upsilon rushees with a formal dinner at her home recently.

After the introduction of the rushees Miss Jeanette Goodwin sang "Theta Upsilon Girl."

An interesting social event of last week was the Baptist Student union luncheon at the First Baptist church held for the initial meeting with the B. S. U. council. Miss Nan Morgan, state B. S. U. director and graduate of Louisiana Tech, acted as master of ceremonies, presiding over a program of music and fun.

The feature of the entertainment was a one-act play written by Miss Morgan and presented by Tech students, including Dean Stokes, Eugene Ball, Cleonis Fowler and Ralph Allen.

Table decorations consisted of toy buses on a tiny road winding down the tables among bowls of flowers. Significance of the road was heightened by making plans for the transportation of the entire group to the all-southern student conference in Memphis, Tenn., on October 27-30.

Sonja Henie's Latest Picture At The Paramount Friday

'My Lucky Star' Here For 3 Days

Stellar Supporting Cast Included In New Hit Of Skating Star

WHEN a personality such as Sonja Henie achieves overnight stardom with one picture—as she did less than two years ago with "One In A Million"—the temptation is strong on the part of Hollywood's movie makers to be satisfied with merely repeating the picture formula which won such sensational acclaim. This probably would have worked out all right in Sonja's case—except for Sonja herself.

Far from being satisfied with that first brilliant success, the miraculous skating star set about to surpass it in every way—and did—with "Thin Ice" and "Happy Landing." And so it is easy to understand the widely enthusiastic advance reports concerning Sonja's newest 20th Century-Fox triumph, "My Lucky Star," which opens next Friday at the Paramount theater.

For one thing, "My Lucky Star" presents Sonja in an entirely new setting, far removed from Switzerland's Alpine peaks and Norway's remote peasant villages.

A radiant modern girl, having a modern good time on a co-ed campus, wearing swank clothes, having swell dates—that's Sonja as you'll see her now, against a background as American as a college yell.

Sharing star honors with her is Richard Greene, handsome young British actor who gave such a splendid account of himself in "Four Men And A Prayer," while Joan Davis, Cesar Romero and Buddy Ebsen promise much in the way of comedy in their featured roles.

The story, according to Director Roy Del Ruth, opens with Sonja enrolling as a student at Plymouth college, where she is to model the smart sports clothes of Romero's (or rather, his father's) Fifth avenue store. In the school's annual ice carnival Sonja is so sensational that a picture magazine publishes her photograph on its cover. Romero's alimony-minded wife uses this to create a newspaper scandal between her husband and Sonja, forcing Sonja's resignation from school.

To clear her own name so that she will be free to continue her romance with Richard, and to help Romero raise the money to settle with his wife, Sonja agrees to stage her ice carnival in the Fifth avenue store. It is here that Sonja performs her magnificent "Alice In Wonderland" ice ballet, one of the six big skating ensembles in the picture and a thing which has made audiences cry out in wonder and delight.

Director Del Ruth claims to have perfected some startling technical innovations in photographing Sonja's ice ensembles, for which Gordon and Revel have written several delightful new melodies.

The supporting cast includes Arthur Treacher, George Barbier, Louise Hovick, Billy Gilbert, Patricia Wilder and Paul Hurst. Darryl F. Zanuck was in charge of production, with Harry Joe Brown as associate producer.

"My Lucky Star" is one of the Movie Quiz $250,000 contest pictures.

Norma Shearer and Tyrone Power in a scene from "Marie Antoinette," which is having its final showing today at the Paramount theater.

The famous "Dead End" Kids, sensational newcomers to the screen, are featured in "Little Tough Guys," which plays Wednesday and Thursday at the Paramount theater.

Dazzling Sonja Henie is starred in "My Lucky Star," with Richard Greene It plays next Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Paramount theater.

Suspicion rears its head as Warren William looks at William Lundigan and Gail Patrick in "Wives Under Suspicion," playing Thursday at the Capitol theater.

200 TEND GAS MASKS

Two hundred men are to be employed permanently in the new large warehouse, formerly a banana storage place, in Saint Ouen, which has been taken over by the Paris air raid precaution department. They will care for the 40 motor vehicles and buses and the huge stock of gas masks housed there.

Employment in Denmark is greater than a year ago, and is expected to continue its increase.

QUEEN WAVES TO BOY

Of 235,209 people who cheered Queen Mary when she made her third visit to the Glasgow exhibition in Scotland, one small boy received a farewell from her. He ran alongside her car during most of her tour, and gave a last frantic wave as she left the grounds. Touched by his loyalty, the queen leaned forward to the window of her machine and called out, "Goodbye, little boy."

Thrill Film Returns To Local Screen

'Dracula,' With Bela Lugosi In Starring Role, Shows At Capitol

A STRANGE, weird motion picture that outdoes all previous mysteries of the screen is "Dracula," the startling Universal production which opens an engagement at the Capitol theater today.

It may safely be said that this story is distinctly in a class by itself, and that its subject matter is absolutely unique among film productions. For "Dracula," which was adapted from Bram Stoker's famous novel of the same name, deals with human vampires, which ancient superstition describes as horrible "undead" creatures who rise from their graves at night.

Whether or not you believe in this major premise of the story, you will be enthralled by its presentation on the screen. The entire picture is done with such artistry and such compelling sincerity that while the story is unfolding on the screen one can hardly fail to regard its incidents as true representations of actual occurrences. It is as powerful in its effect on the emotions of the audience as any picture we can recall.

Great is the power of illusion. This was never better illustrated than in "Dracula."

On leaving the theater the audience knows that it cannot be true, and yet while the story is unfolding on the screen the spectators sit enthralled by its gruesome horrors. Their belief, temporary though it may be, is indicated by the powerful manner in which the picture affects them. Indeed, it is stated that no other motion picture ever made equals this in its hold on the emotions of the audience—which, perhaps, is a compliment to the artistry with which the film was produced.

Scenically, "Dracula" is magnificent, and its settings fully preserve the thrillingly uncanny atmosphere of the story.

The title role of Count Dracula is played with remarkable effect by Bela Lugosi, who created the same part in the stage play, and who delivers an arresting performance as the sinister vampire who is the central character of the story. Helen Chandler is altogether charming and capable in the principal feminine part, and David Manners, as her fiance, does the type of work which has made him one of the most popular of leading men.

A radiant modern girl, having a modern good time on a co-ed campus, wearing swank clothes, having swell dates—that's Sonja as you'll see her now, against a background as American as a college yell.

Sharing star honors with her is Richard Greene, handsome young British actor who gave such a splendid account of himself in "Four Men And A Prayer," while Joan Davis, Cesar Romero and Buddy Ebsen promise much in the way of comedy in their featured roles.

The story, according to Director Roy Del Ruth, opens with Sonja enrolling as a student at Plymouth college, where she is to model the smart sports clothes of Romero's (or rather, his father's) Fifth avenue store. In the school's annual ice carnival Sonja is so sensational that a picture magazine publishes her photograph on its cover. Romero's alimony-minded wife uses this to create a newspaper scandal between her husband and Sonja, forcing Sonja's resignation from school.

To clear her own name so that she will be free to continue her romance with Richard, and to help Romero raise the money to settle with his wife, Sonja agrees to stage her ice carnival in the Fifth avenue store. It is here that Sonja performs her magnificent "Alice In Wonderland" ice ballet, one of the six big skating ensembles in the picture and a thing which has made audiences cry out in wonder and delight.

Director Del Ruth claims to have perfected some startling technical innovations in photographing Sonja's ice ensembles, for which Gordon and Revel have written several delightful new melodies.

The supporting cast includes Arthur Treacher, George Barbier, Louise Hovick, Billy Gilbert, Patricia Wilder and Paul Hurst. Darryl F. Zanuck was in charge of production, with Harry Joe Brown as associate producer.

Norma Shearer and Tyrone Power in a scene from "Marie Antoinette," which is having its final showing today at the Paramount theater.

Suspicion rears its head as Warren William looks at William Lundigan and Gail Patrick in "Wives Under Suspicion," playing Thursday at the Capitol theater.

The famous "Dead End" Kids, sensational newcomers to the screen, are featured in "Little Tough Guys," which plays Wednesday and Thursday at the Paramount theater.

Dazzling Sonja Henie is starred in "My Lucky Star," with Richard Greene It plays next Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Paramount theater.

Ann Sheridan, recently chosen by a continental expert as the "perfect American girl figure," will be seen in "Mystery House," playing Tuesday at the Capitol theater.

QUEEN WAVES TO BOY

Of 235,209 people who cheered Queen Mary when she made her third visit to the Glasgow exhibition in Scotland, one small boy received a farewell from her. He ran alongside her car during most of her tour, and gave a last frantic wave as she left the grounds. Touched by his loyalty, the queen leaned forward to the window of her machine and called out, "Goodbye, little boy."

200 TEND GAS MASKS

Two hundred men are to be employed permanently in the new large warehouse, formerly a banana storage place, in Sairt Ouen, which has been taken over by the Paris air raid precaution department. They will care for the 40 motor vehicles and buses and the huge stock of gas masks housed there.

Employment in Denmark is greater than a year ago, and is expected to continue its increase.

Thrill Film Returns To Local Screen

'Dracula,' With Bela Lugosi In Starring Role, Shows At Capitol

A STRANGE, weird motion picture that outdoes all previous mysteries of the screen is "Dracula," the startling Universal production which opens an engagement at the Capitol theater today.

It may safely be said that this story is distinctly in a class by itself, and that its subject matter is absolutely unique among film productions. For "Dracula," which was adapted from Bram Stoker's famous novel of the same name, deals with human vampires, which ancient superstition describes as horrible "undead" creatures who rise from their graves at night.

Whether or not you believe in this major premise of the story, you will be enthralled by its presentation on the screen. The entire picture is done with such artistry and such compelling sincerity that while the story is unfolding on the screen one can hardly fail to regard its incidents as true representations of actual occurrences. It is as powerful in its effect on the emotions of the audience as any picture we can recall.

Great is the power of illusion. This was never better illustrated than in "Dracula."

On leaving the theater the audience knows that it cannot be true, and yet while the story is unfolding on the screen the spectators sit enthralled by its gruesome horrors. Their belief, temporary though it may be, is indicated by the powerful manner in which the picture affects them. Indeed, it is stated that no other motion picture ever made equals this in its hold on the emotions of the audience—which, perhaps, is a compliment to the artistry with which the film was produced.

Scenically, "Dracula" is magnificent, and its settings fully preserve the thrillingly uncanny atmosphere of the story.

The title role of Count Dracula is played with remarkable effect by Bela Lugosi, who created the same part in the stage play, and who delivers an arresting performance as the sinister vampire who is the central character of the story. Helen Chandler is altogether charming and capable in the principal feminine part, and David Manners, as her fiance, does the type of work which has made him one of the most popular of leading men.

MONROE
A CITY ALL CAN SERVE

IT takes more than a few boosters to make a good town. The writer recently spent several years in Tulsa, Okla. Tulsa is one of the nation's fine cities. No one who has lived in Tulsa has ever had anything but a good word for it. Meet a Tulsan and he will invariably tell you what a good town Tulsa is. As a booster, he is far more proficient than a native Californian.

Monroe needs its boosters. It has able citizens, leaders in public affairs, men who are working for a greater Monroe. These men, however, can't do it all. The aid of the rank and file is needed. Everyone can do his part. Everyone can boost. If a town is good enough to live in, it is good enough to be boosted in an effort to make it better. The late Theodore Roosevelt once said that everyone owes something to the upbuilding or improvement of the business or profession from which he makes his living. Likewise, everyone owes something to the upbuilding of his community. We can't let others do all the work and complain if the results aren't satisfactory.

Every man and woman in Monroe owes it to the community to help make Monroe a better city. All can not build factories, serve civic organizations or hold public offices. All, however, can boost. All can help establish in the public mind that Monroe is a good town. They need only recognize and keep instilling a truth: Monroe is a good town. This series has already brought forth contentions that there isn't a better city of its size in the country. Travel anywhere, live in any city, and the truth is realized. Don't let people tell you Monroe is dead, that nothing ever happens here. Just as much happens in Monroe as anywhere.

Monroe people are just as alert and progressive as people found anywhere. They are just as advanced in culture and refinement of living as those any place under the sun. If that doesn't count, then nothing counts. Monroe has the advantage of extraordinary natural resources. It knows the fineness of large enterprise. It also has fine stores and a model business district. You can buy anything in Monroe you can buy anywhere; and you have the advantage of trading with your courteous, friendly neighbor.

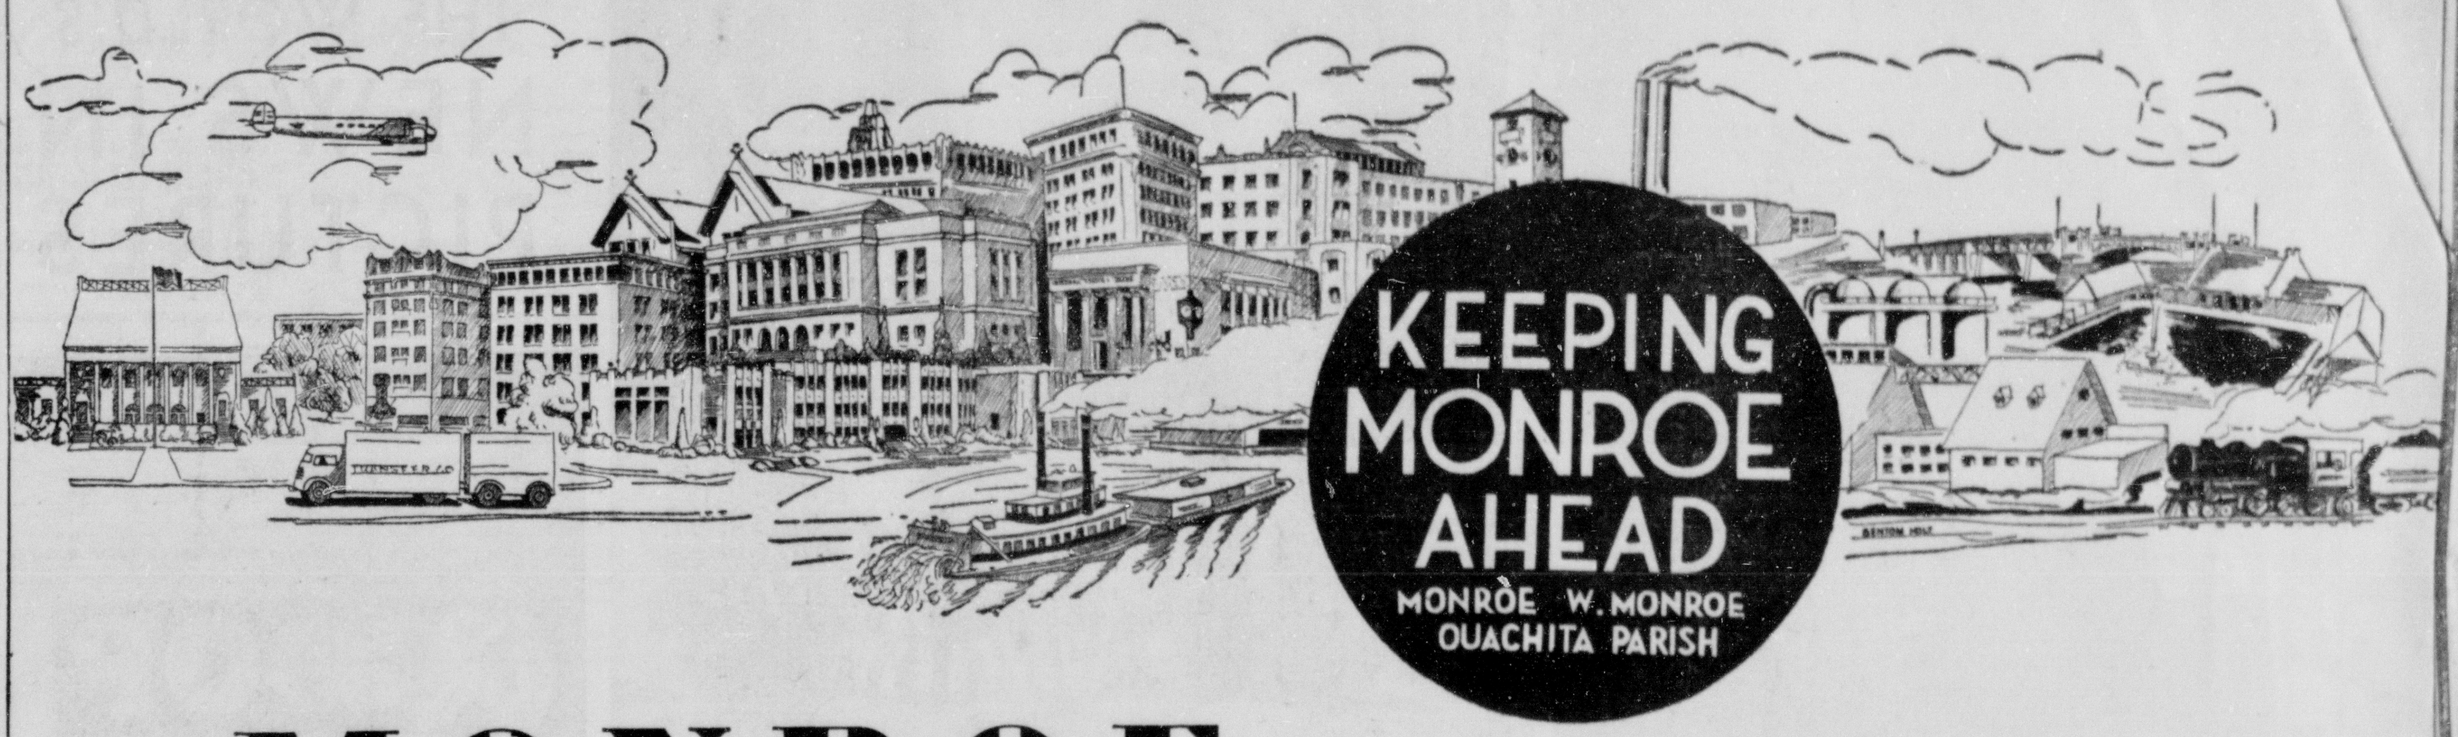

Monroe doesn't pretend to be an Athens, but it does stand out as a decent American city where art and education have recognition and are something for more than the few. Monroe has always had good schools. It has highly representative service clubs, fine musical organizations and a very keen relish for sports. Championship teams of Northeast Center, Ouachita Parish High School, Neville High School and the Monroe Baseball Club indicate the type of town it is, a leading community.

Monroe is going ahead. Whether in sympathy with government projects, no one can deny the fact that public improvements and PWA work cannot but make for cleaner and better towns. Beauty is something that is now being brought to American cities. A united citizenship, striving for greater cleanliness, beauty and charm, will make Monroe a better city. Let everyone do his part.

FHA SEES BOOM BUILDING YEAR

Construction Shows Steady Increase This Year Through Federal Plan

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 15.—(Special)—Federal Housing administration officials today declared present residential building trends indicated last year's record—the best since 1931—would be surpassed in 1938.

In 1937 the residential construction peak was reached in April and was followed by a sharp decline beginning with July and continuing throughout the remaining months.

In contrast, however, 1938 has shown a steadily increasing trend, beginning last March, the first full operative period under the February amendments broadening and liberalizing the national housing act. Each month has shown gains over the preceding months.

In some localities, private residential construction during the first half year has surpassed such construction in the similar period of 1937. The bureau of labor statistics, for instance, lists 17 states in this group, namely, New Hampshire, New York, Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Georgia, Maryland, North Carolina, Virginia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Texas, Nevada, Wyoming and Washington.

The volume trend of new construction is further portrayed by F. W. Dodge corporation statistics just released which show an 8.7 per cent increase in the value of contracts signed in July as compared with the same month last year and an increase of 21.5 per cent in the value of one and two family dwellings for which contracts were awarded.

Gross business of the Federal Housing administration has shown a percentage increase each month since the signing of the amendments to the national housing act in February. In July small home mortgages selected for appraisal actually showed a 100 per cent increase over July, 1937.

Repairs, additions and alterations to home, business structures and other buildings has paced this trend under the property improvement credit plan of the Federal Housing administration, with many thousands of dollars in such small installment notes finding their way into business and employment channels in varying amounts.

HOME MORTGAGE METHODS RELATED

Federal Housing Official Explains Procedure Of Eligibility

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 15.—(Special)—Home mortgage selection methods in which the ratio of the mortgage loan to the value of the property becomes the sole test of eligibility provide an inadequate measure of the risk involved in mortgage lending, according to Frederick M. Babcock, deputy administrator and director of the Federal Housing administration's underwriting division.

While loan-value ratios are one of the most important factors to be considered in rating mortgage loans, he said, they should not be considered as the sole test of worth. Mortgage loan experience has not shown any close correlation between high loan-value ratio mortgages and defaults, indicating that other factors play an equally important part in the transaction.

Risk rating procedures adopted by the FHA for the insurance of home mortgages have been devised to reflect this experience and to give mortgage loan-value ratios their proper place as one factor in the risk rating procedure. Under the FHA system, the capacity of the borrower to repay his obligations, the soundness of the physical structure, the character of the neighborhood, the conformance of the property to others in the neighborhood, and other similar factors assume a role equal in importance.

"Mortgage loans are extremely involved transactions, and any tendency to stress one phase of the problem at the expense of another is dangerous," Mr. Babcock said. "Loan-value ratios, by themselves, do not provide lending institutions with an accurate basis for approving or rejecting a loan proposition.

"It is obvious, for example, that loan-value ratios do not supply an answer to the question of whether the borrower is capable of repaying his mortgage obligation, although they do give one of the clues with which to work. We have been forced to reject many cases in which the loan represents only say 60 per cent of the value of the property, because it was obvious that the borrower was over-buying and over-borrowing. And yet, we have been able to insure loans of 75, 80 or 90 per cent of the value where it was quite as obvious that the borrower was undertaking a transaction which he would be able to carry out.

"We have had the experience also of rejecting one or two loans of equal amounts and equal loan-value ratio, and equal as to the acceptability of the borrower, because the term of one mortgage was too short. In one case, the payments, spread over a longer period, made a desirable transaction, while in the other, the shorter term and larger payments rendered the mortgage ineligible for insurance.

"Given two applications involving transactions identical in every respect except for different loan-value ratios, we would not necessarily accept only the application involving the smaller ratio. Naturally, we would give the smaller ratio loan a higher rating, and we might find that the other loan would have to be rejected or modified before acceptance. However, it is possible that both loans might be accepted.

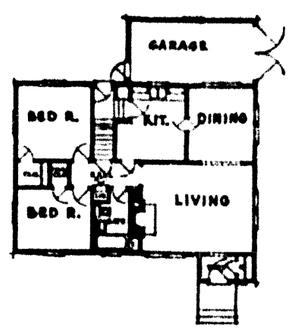

"Under our system, the acceptance of the loan is based upon the analysis of every factor affecting the transaction, and final approval is given only where study of the results reveals that the transaction is well balanced and sound in every respect."

Spacious—Inexpensive

The two-story and basement house located in Omaha, Nebr., as shown in the above picture, was financed by a $4,000 mortgage insured by the Federal Housing Administration. The FHA appraised the property at $5,000.

By taking full advantage of the topography of the site, it was possible to provide a basement and garage without adding appreciably to the cost of construction. A feature of the home is the fireplace that serves as a focal point in the living room. Each room is provided with ample closet space.

Questions And Answers

Q. What is meant by a "laundry tray"?

A. It is merely another name for a laundry tub.

Q. The baseboard in some of our rooms has pulled away from the floor, and shows a big crack; can you suggest a remedy?

A. If there is no molding at the junction of the baseboard and the floor, have one installed, and be sure that it is nailed through to the under flooring. If there is such molding already, have it taken off and properly installed.

Q. Is it necessary to line the back of book shelves with wood?

A. No, it is not; just set the skeleton frame against the interior finish of the wall.

Q. The ceilings of our house, which is old, have been patched and repatched so many times that they are disgraceful looking. Is there any way that a smooth surface can be applied without having to take down the old plaster?

A. Yes; there is a simple way of getting a fine smooth ceiling without disturbing the old. Stretch decorators' canvas across the entire ceiling just far enough below it to escape the lowest point and fasten it to the walls with a molding. When painted this will be taut and smooth and will look well. You must be sure, however, that the old plaster is not loose. If it is, it will probably fall on the canvas and spoil the smooth effect. Better remove the loose plaster first.

Q. The floor of my living room is almost always cold. We have a cellar under the room. The floor is a single one, and the beams are open in the cellar. If I put a ceiling in the cellar, would that help eliminate the coldness of the living-room floor?

A. Yes; it should help a great deal. Be sure, however, that the space between the beams at the outside walls is well insulated and that there are fire stops between the studs of the outside walls to stop drafts.

The first underwater highway tunnel in America was built under the Chicago river during 1866-69. It had two roadways and a footpath, but now is used for surface cars only.

The first charter granted in America to a mutual life insurance company was issued to New England Mutual in 1835. During the 103 years since then, New England Mutual has successfully weathered every social, political and economic change. It has emerged from America's seven major depressions with increased strength, with improved facilities for providing the security guaranteed by the principle of mutual life insurance. This pioneer company wrote more insurance during 1937 than in any previous year of its existence. Its assets are higher today than ever before. Insurance in force has reached $1,500,000,000.

Proud of this record, New England Mutual is also proud to announce the opening of an office in the city of Monroe, here under the direction of Mr. D. P. Gerald, formerly of Shreveport, La. It seeks the opportunity of extending its services to the people of Monroe and the adjoining parishes.

FHA SEES BOOM BUILDING YEAR

Construction Shows Steady Increase This Year Through Federal Plan

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 15.—(Special)—Federal Housing administration officials today declared present residential building trends indicated last year's record—the best since 1931—would be surpassed in 1938.

In 1937 the residential construction peak was reached in April and was followed by a sharp decline beginning with July and continuing throughout the remaining months.

In contrast, however, 1938 has shown a steadily increasing trend, beginning last March, the first full operative period under the February amendments broadening and liberalizing the national housing act. Each month has shown gains over the preceding months.

In some localities, private residential construction during the first half year has surpassed such construction in the similar period of 1937. The bureau of labor statistics, for instance, lists 17 states in this group, namely, New Hampshire, New York, Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Georgia, Maryland, North Carolina, Virginia, Kentucky, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Texas, Nevada, Wyoming and Washington.

The volume trend of new construction is further portrayed by F. W. Dodge corporation statistics just released which show an 8.7 per cent increase in the value of contracts signed in July as compared with the same month last year and an increase of 21.5 per cent in the value of one and two family dwellings for which contracts were awarded.

Gross business of the Federal Housing administration has shown a percentage increase each month since the signing of the amendments to the national housing act in February. In July small home mortgages selected for appraisal actually showed a 100 per cent increase over July, 1937.

Repairs, additions and alterations to home, business structures and other buildings has paced this trend under the property improvement credit plan of the Federal Housing administration, with many thousands of dollars in such small installment notes finding their way into business and employment channels in varying amounts.

HOME MORTGAGE METHODS RELATED

Federal Housing Official Explains Procedure Of Eligibility

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 15.—(Special)—Home mortgage selection methods in which the ratio of the mortgage loan to the value of the property becomes the sole test of eligibility provide an inadequate measure of the risk involved in mortgage lending, according to Frederick M. Babcock, deputy administrator and director of the Federal Housing administration's underwriting division.

While loan-value ratios are one of the most important factors to be considered in rating mortgage loans, he said, they should not be considered as the sole test of worth. Mortgage loan experience has not shown any close correlation between high loan-value ratio mortgages and defaults, indicating that other factors play an equally important part in the transaction.

Risk rating procedures adopted by the FHA for the insurance of home mortgages have been devised to reflect this experience and to give mortgage loan-value ratios their proper place as one factor in the risk rating procedure. Under the FHA system, the capacity of the borrower to repay his obligations, the soundness of the physical structure, the character of the neighborhood, the conformance of the property to others in the neighborhood, and other similar factors assume a role equal in importance.

"Mortgage loans are extremely involved transactions, and any tendency to stress one phase of the problem at the expense of another is dangerous," Mr. Babcock said. "Loan-value ratios, by themselves, do not provide lending institutions with an accurate basis for approving or rejecting a loan proposition.

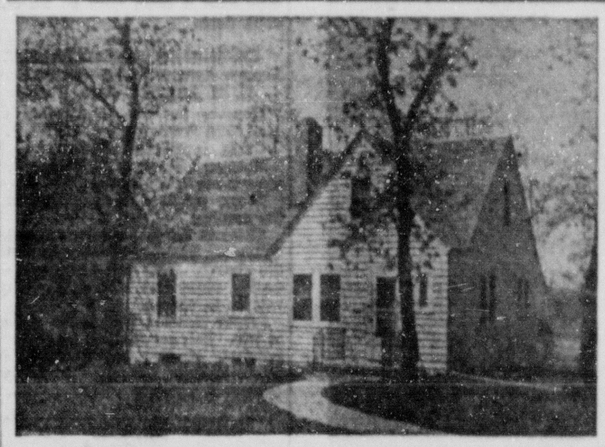

"It is obvious, for example, that loan-value ratios do not supply an answer to the question of whether the borrower is capable of repaying his mortgage obligation, although they do give one of the clues with which to work. We have been forced to reject many cases in which the loan represents only say 60 per cent of the value of the property, because it was obvious that the borrower was overbuying and over-borrowing. And yet, we have been able to insure loans of 75, 80 or 90 per cent of the value where it was quite as obvious that the borrower was undertaking a transaction which he would be able to carry out.

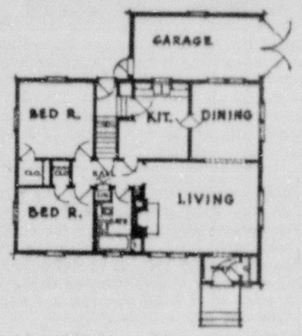

"We have had the experience also of rejecting one or two loans of equal amounts and equal loan-value ratio, and equal as to the acceptability of the borrower, because the term of one mortgage was too short. In one case, the payments, spread over a longer period, made a desirable transaction, while in the other, the shorter term and larger payments rendered the mortgage ineligible for insurance.

"Given two applications involving transactions identical in every respect except for different loan-value ratios, we would not necessarily accept only the application involving the smaller ratio. Naturally, we would give the smaller ratio loan a higher rating, and we might find that the other loan would have to be rejected or modified before acceptance. However, it is possible that both loans might be accepted.

"Under our system, the acceptance of the loan is based upon the analysis of every factor affecting the transaction, and final approval is given only where study of the results reveals that the transaction is well balanced and sound in every respect."

MUSIC LOVERS TO HEAR KRYL

Art's Appearance In Monroe Sponsored By Local Booster Organization

Announcement made the past week to the effect that Bohumir Kryl and his world famous orchestra will appear in Monroe on November 22 has caused unusual interest in music circles throughout north Louisiana. Critics throughout the world are quite unanimous in their statements that Kryl is the greatest cornetist of the present day. An outstanding feature of the mastery of this instrument is his ability to play two full octaves below any other cornetist, thus performing what has previously been regarded as impossible.

The career of this celebrated conductor reads like a chapter from almost unbelievable fiction. Born in Prague, Bohemia, the son of a sculptor, he ran away from home when 11 years old and joined a circus then traveling Europe, acting as an acrobat during the shows and playing his horn in the parade. For two years he cavorted through the air on a trapeze, tumbling and jumping over elephants, and other various antics of the circus tent. But a fateful day arrived when in jumping he met with an accident and walked over 200 miles to his home town, forever quitting circus life.

Less than six months after the circus accident, Kryl was on his way to America, paying for his passage by playing his violin. Some 10 years later, Sousa heard of a young cornetist who was working as sculptor at Crawfordsville, Ind., engaged in doing a likeness of General Lew Wallace and hearing him play, persuaded him to lay down his chisel and become cornet soloist with his band. A few years, under Sousa and other noted band masters of that time, young Kryl was ready to take his place with his symphonic band in the halls of music throughout America. He filled long engagements in Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Cincinnati, as well as the yearly tours when he crossed and re-crossed the continent playing to packed houses and was welcomed as the "picturesque bandmaster," and spoken of frequently as that "cornetist with the golden tone."

Thousands of listeners have likened his concerts to great pipe organs, so perfect is the musicianship of his group, and so perfect his control over his players.

It is only through chance that Monroe music lovers have an opportunity to hear this famed orchestra, an open date for a single night, being the reason. The appearance here will be sponsored by the Missouri Pacific Booster club.

HUGE GORILLA WITH CIRCUS HERE WEDNESDAY

Pug-ugly. The lad's name is Gargantua the Great and he is reputed the world's most terrifying living creature. In any case he'll pay Monroe a one-day visit Wednesday as the super attraction of the Al G. Barnes and Sells-Floto combined circus. The awesome primate came to the Barnes organization when it was augmented with Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey. He lives and is exhibited in a steel and glass air-conditioned cage weighing nine tons. Bring 'Em Back Alive Frank Buck who introduces the big fellow estimates he has the strength of 27 men. He allows no one to come near him and even his keeper, who has fed him since he was two months old, can't make friends with him. Gargantua is now between 7 and 8 years of age and weighs 450 pounds. He has an arm spread of 9 feet and is still cutting his baby teeth, using an automobile tire as a teething ring.

J. M. Alford, Pastor

The Gordon avenue church (Dixie and Gordon) will begin a week or ten days' revival meeting next Sunday. The pastor will have charge of the services at both hours (11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.) and during the week he will be assisted by local pastors of the city and others near by. The singing and music will be led by local talent, and all the departments of the church will cooperate in these evangelistic services. Last Sunday was another good day with good average congregations and the Sunday school still registering more than one hundred present. Both leagues are putting on good programs and the Intermediate league will have the entire membership of the church as its guests Sunday evening at 6:45 o'clock. Last Sunday was Orphanage day and a substantial sum was realized as a "Harvest day offering."

The pastor will use as his subject at the morning service: "The Need of a Revival and How to Get It." At the evening hour a discourse will be dellvered on "The Prodigal Son." The Missionary society will meet at the church next Tuesday afternoon (3:00) for their regular monthly program work.

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH
The Church With The Lighted Steeple
Jackson At Wood Street
Walter C. Scott, Minister

That this church may be a house of prayer for all peoples that love the Lord Christ and desire to learn of Him, who is the Way, the Truth and the Life, we bid you welcome to the work and worship of this congregation. Sunday services at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The minister has chosen as his sermon theme for the morning service "The Cross as the Disclosure of Love," based on the 16th verse of the third chapter of John. At the evening hour the service will be given over to the presentation of a playlet entitled "The Choice," in observance of Childhood and Youth week, which is a time when parents and all other adults of the church have brought to their attention some specific phases of their responsibility to growing life in the home and in the community. The theme for 1938 will focus attention upon the need of satisfying ideas of God our Father, with emphasis on "A Growing Understanding of God."

The Woman's Missionary society will meet at the church on Tuesday at 3 p.m. for the monthly program meeting.

Only four more Sundays in our church year, which ends with the convening of the Conference on November 16. Let us make the most of the month that is left by attending as many services as possible and by assuming our part of the financial program. We have paid all of our indebtedness on our real estate this year, and we must go to the Conference with a clean slate on all other obligations.

The day's public worship begins with Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. Delivery of message by the pastor, at 11 o'clock. Christian Endeavor at 6:45 p.m. Miss Gertye Mae Brashier will direct the service. Evening service at 7:30. Circle meetings Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. Midweek prayer service Thursday evening at 7:30. Activities of the week-end will marke the close of the annual conference year, which terminates the pastor's eighth consecutive year of service with the Stone Avenue congregation. At the last quarterly conference, which was held Thursday evening, 6th inst., W. W. McDonald was elected as delegate to the annual conference, which convenes at Grayson, La., October 21 at 10 a.m. An invitation is extended to you to worship with us. May we make these last services the best of all previous services.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont At Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

A school will hold its first session in our church Sunday afternoon, October 23, at 3 o'clock. The leaders are Mrs. W. F. O'Kelley of Minden, Mrs. Alwn Stokes of Winnfield, Robert McGehee of Alexandria, and Dr. F. B. Gear of Southwestern university, Memphis. Courses are to be offered which deal with the psychology of youth and adults. The Bible unit will be taught by Dr. Gear. The subject matter is the "Prophets of the Old Testament and Their Messages." The congregations of our faith in this section will cooperate. "Our Calling" and "What Became of His Body?" are the subjects of our meditations. A welcome awaits you.

Although circuses gave fewer performances in Denmark last season, they paid the government more in taxes than ever before.

GIVES TALK ON SUMMER DRAMAS

Miss Sue Hefley Is Guest Speaker At College Speech Club Meeting

The Northeast Center Speech club had as guest speaker Miss Sue Hefley, college librarian, at its meeting last week.

Miss Hefley gave an interesting talk of her experiences as member the past summer of a stock company, The New London Players, at New London, N. H., where she spent eight weeks.

One play was given each week with performances on Thursday, Friday and Saturday night, and an occasional Sunday matinee. The most outstanding plays of the summer were: "Night Must Fall" and "Stage Door." The last named play established a new high attendance record for the company.

Members of the cast attended to all company activities which included everything from sweeping back-stage, ushering and supervising properties, to acting. The plays were all presented in an old barn, typical of summer stock companies.

One of the most interesting events of the summer was the arrival of Beatrice Terry, a Broadway player who was a guest star for a production by the company. Word that a movie scout was in the audience also gave a thrill to all players.

Miss Hefley said that this sort of work is probably the hardest to be found anywhere.

Upon the resignation of Thomas Gilhula, treasurer, DeWitt Chandler was elected to fill the vacancy. John Semago was elected chairman of the lights committee.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Miss Barbara Butler.

Argentina may establish educational programs to be broadcast by radio.

MUSIC LOVERS TO HEAR KRYL

Art's Appearance In Monroe Sponsored By Local Booster Organization

Announcement made the past week to the effect that Bohumir Kryl and his world famous orchestra will appear in Monroe on November 22 has caused unusual interest in music circles throughout north Louisiana. Critics throughout the world are quite unanimous in their statements that Kryl is the greatest cornetist of the present day. An outstanding feature of the mastery of this instrument is his ability to play two full octaves below any other cornetist, thus performing what has previously been regarded as impossible.

The career of this celebrated conductor reads like a chapter from almost unbelievable fiction. Born in Prague, Bohemia, the son of a sculptor, he ran away from home when 11 years old and joined a circus then traveling Europe, acting as an acrobat during the shows and playing his horn in the parade. For two years he cavorted through the air on a trapeze, tumbling and jumping over elephants, and other various antics of the circus tent. But a fateful day arrived when in jumping he met with an accident and walked over 200 miles to his home town, forever quitting circus life.

Less than six months after the circus accident, Kryl was on his way to America, paying for his passage by playing his violin. Some 10 years later, Sousa heard of a young cornetist who was working as sculptor at Crawfordsville, Ind., engaged in doing a likeness of General Lew Wallace and hearing him play, persuaded him to lay down his chisel and become cornet soloist with his band. A few years, under Sousa and other noted band masters of that time, young Kryl was ready to take his place with his symphonic band in the halls of music throughout America. He filled long engagements in Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Cincinnati, as well as the yearly tours when he crossed and re-crossed the continent playing to packed houses and was welcomed as the "picturesque bandmaster," and spoken of frequently as that "cornetist with the golden tone."

Thousands of listeners have likened his concerts to great pipe organs, so perfect is the musicianship of his group, and so perfect his control over his players.

It is only through chance that Monroe music lovers have an opportunity to hear this famed orchestra, an open date for a single night, being the reason. The appearance here will be sponsored by the Missouri Pacific Booster club.

HUGE GORILLA WITH CIRCUS HERE WEDNESDAY

Pug-ugly. The lad's name is Gargantua the Great and he is reputed the world's most terrifying living creature. In any case he'll pay Monroe a one-day visit Wednesday as the super attraction of the Al G. Barnes and Sells-Floto combined circus. The awesome primate came to the Barnes organization when it was augmented with Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey. He lives and is exhibited in a steel and glass air-conditioned cage weighing nine tons. Bring 'Em Back Alive Frank Buck who introduces the big fellow estimates he has the strength of 27 men. He allows no one to come near him and even his keeper, who has fed him since he was two months old, can't make friends with him. Gargantua is now between 7 and 8 years of age and weighs 450 pounds. He has an arm spread of 9 feet and is still cutting his baby teeth, using an automobile tire as a teething ring.

CHURCHES

ASSEMBLY OF GOD,
West Monroe
E. L. Tanner, Pastor

Sunday school meets at 9:45 a.m. D. O. McDaniel, superintendent. Morning worship 11 o'clock. Christ Ambassador class meets at 6:30 p.m. Evening service 7:30 p.m. Prayer service is being held each night during the week in preparation of the revival that is to begin on October 27. Rev. L. L. Riley of Russellville, Ark., will be the evangelist for the revival.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
L. T. Hastings, Pastor
D. C. Black, Pastor's Assistant

Rev. Brownlow Hastings, son of the pastor, will preach twice on Sunday and it is expected that there will be large audiences present at all services. He served as "acting pastor" of this church during "Youth Week" and because of his father's absence Sunday, being engaged in a revival at Rochelle, the young minister will supply the pulpit.

Sound equipment will be installed in the church so that all can hear this popular and consecrated young man who is now pursuing a course in a Texas divinity school.

Mrs. P. J. Newman, Choir Director

Church school at 9:45 a.m. Help us reach our goals for this quarter by coming every Sunday.

Worship service at 10:50 a.m. In the absence of the minister the pulpit will be occupied by George Holland, secretary of the Monroe Chamber of Commerce. We are glad to have Mr. Holland speak to us. He is a forceful and enthusiastic speaker, and above all—a Christian gentleman. Let us all come out to hear him.

Intermediate C. E. society will meet at 6:30 p.m.

Young People's society will meet at 6:30 p.m. Hodge Mason will be the leader.

Instead of our usual evening service, a musical program will be presented at 7:30. This will be a very high type program. Among the musical numbers there will be many furnished by guests, such as the Ouachita Parish High School Glee club, under the direction of Mrs. George Moffett; Mrs. J. Norman Coon, Mr. Guy Corley, radio soloist; Mrs. Watson, Mrs. Dorsch, Mr. and Mrs. Wamsley; and others. Mrs. P. J. Newman, our choir director will be in charge. Come and enjoy this musical feast.

Choir practice will be held Friday evening at 7:45, at the church.

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, October 16, 1938. Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Woe unto you, scribes and pharisees, hypocrites! for ye pay tithe of mint, and anise, and cummin, and have omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy and faith." (Matt. 23.) The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Atonement is the exemplification of man's unity with God, whereby man reflects divine truth, life and love." (p. 18.)

GORDON AVENUE METHODIST
J. M. Alford, Pastor

The Gordon avenue church (Dixie and Gordon) will begin a week or ten days' revival meeting next Sunday. The pastor will have charge of the services at both hours (11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m.) and during the week he will be assisted by local pastors of the city and others near by. The singing and music will be led by local talent, and all the departments of the church will cooperate in these evangelistic services. Last Sunday was another good day with good average congregations and the Sunday school still registering more than one hundred present. Both leagues are putting on good programs and the Intermediate league will have the entire membership of the church as its guests Sunday evening at 6:45 o'clock. Last Sunday was Orphanage day and a substantial sum was realized as a "Harvest day offering."

The pastor will use as his subject at the morning service: "The Need of a Revival and How to Get It." At the evening hour a discourse will be delivered on "The Prodigal Son." The Missionary society will meet at the church next Tuesday afternoon (3:00) for their regular monthly program work.

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH
C. Karlos Smith, Pastor-Evangelist
West Monroe

We welcome you in attendance upon the worship services at our church at all times. Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. every Sunday. Preaching services at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Special music at every service under the direction of G. C. Williams, assisted by Miss Madia McClendon at the piano.

The conference year will soon come to a close and we are urging all our people to attend every service from now until the closing of this year's work. If you attend our services one time you will come back again. The public is welcome to every service in our church and to take part in every phase of our worship services.

"The Church With a Welcome."

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH
The Church With The Lighted Steeple
Jackson At Wood Street
Walter C. Scott, Minister

That this church may be a house of prayer for all peoples that love the Lord Christ and desire to learn of Him, who is the Way, the Truth and the Life, we bid you welcome to the work and worship of this congregation. Sunday services at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The minister has chosen as his sermon theme for the morning service "The Cross as the Disclosure of Love," based on the 16th verse of the third chapter of John. At the evening hour the service will be given over to the presentation of a playlet entitled "The Choice," in observance of Childhood and Youth week, which is a time when parents and all other adults of the church have brought to their attention some specific phases of their responsibility to growing life in the home and in the community. The theme for 1938 will focus attention upon the need of satisfying ideas of God our Father, with emphasis on "A Growing Understanding of God."

The Woman's Missionary society will meet at the church on Tuesday at 3 p.m. for the monthly program meeting.

Only four more Sundays in our church year, which ends with the convening of the Conference on November 16. Let us make the most of the month that is left by attending as many services as possible and by assuming our part of the financial program. We have paid all of our indebtedness on our real estate this year, and we must go to the Conference with a clean slate on all other obligations.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

DINNY DOINGS

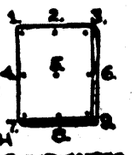

A LITTLE "THOUGHT TRANSFERENCE"
SUBMITTED BY: RALPH ORENSTEIN, CHICAGO.

HERE'S HOW IT IS DONE!

1. 2. 3.
4. 5. 6.
7. 8. 9.

PLACE 9 BOOKS ON THE FLOOR--YOUR CONFEDERATE LEAVES THE ROOM. SOME ONE IN CROWD CHOOSES A BOOK. YOUR CONFEDERATE RETURNS AND YOU POINT TO VARIOUS BOOKS ASKING, "IS IT THIS ONE?" WHEN YOU POINT TO THE RIGHT ONE HE ANSWERS, "YES".

THIS → REPRESENTS THE FIRST BOOK YOU PLACE POINTER ON...

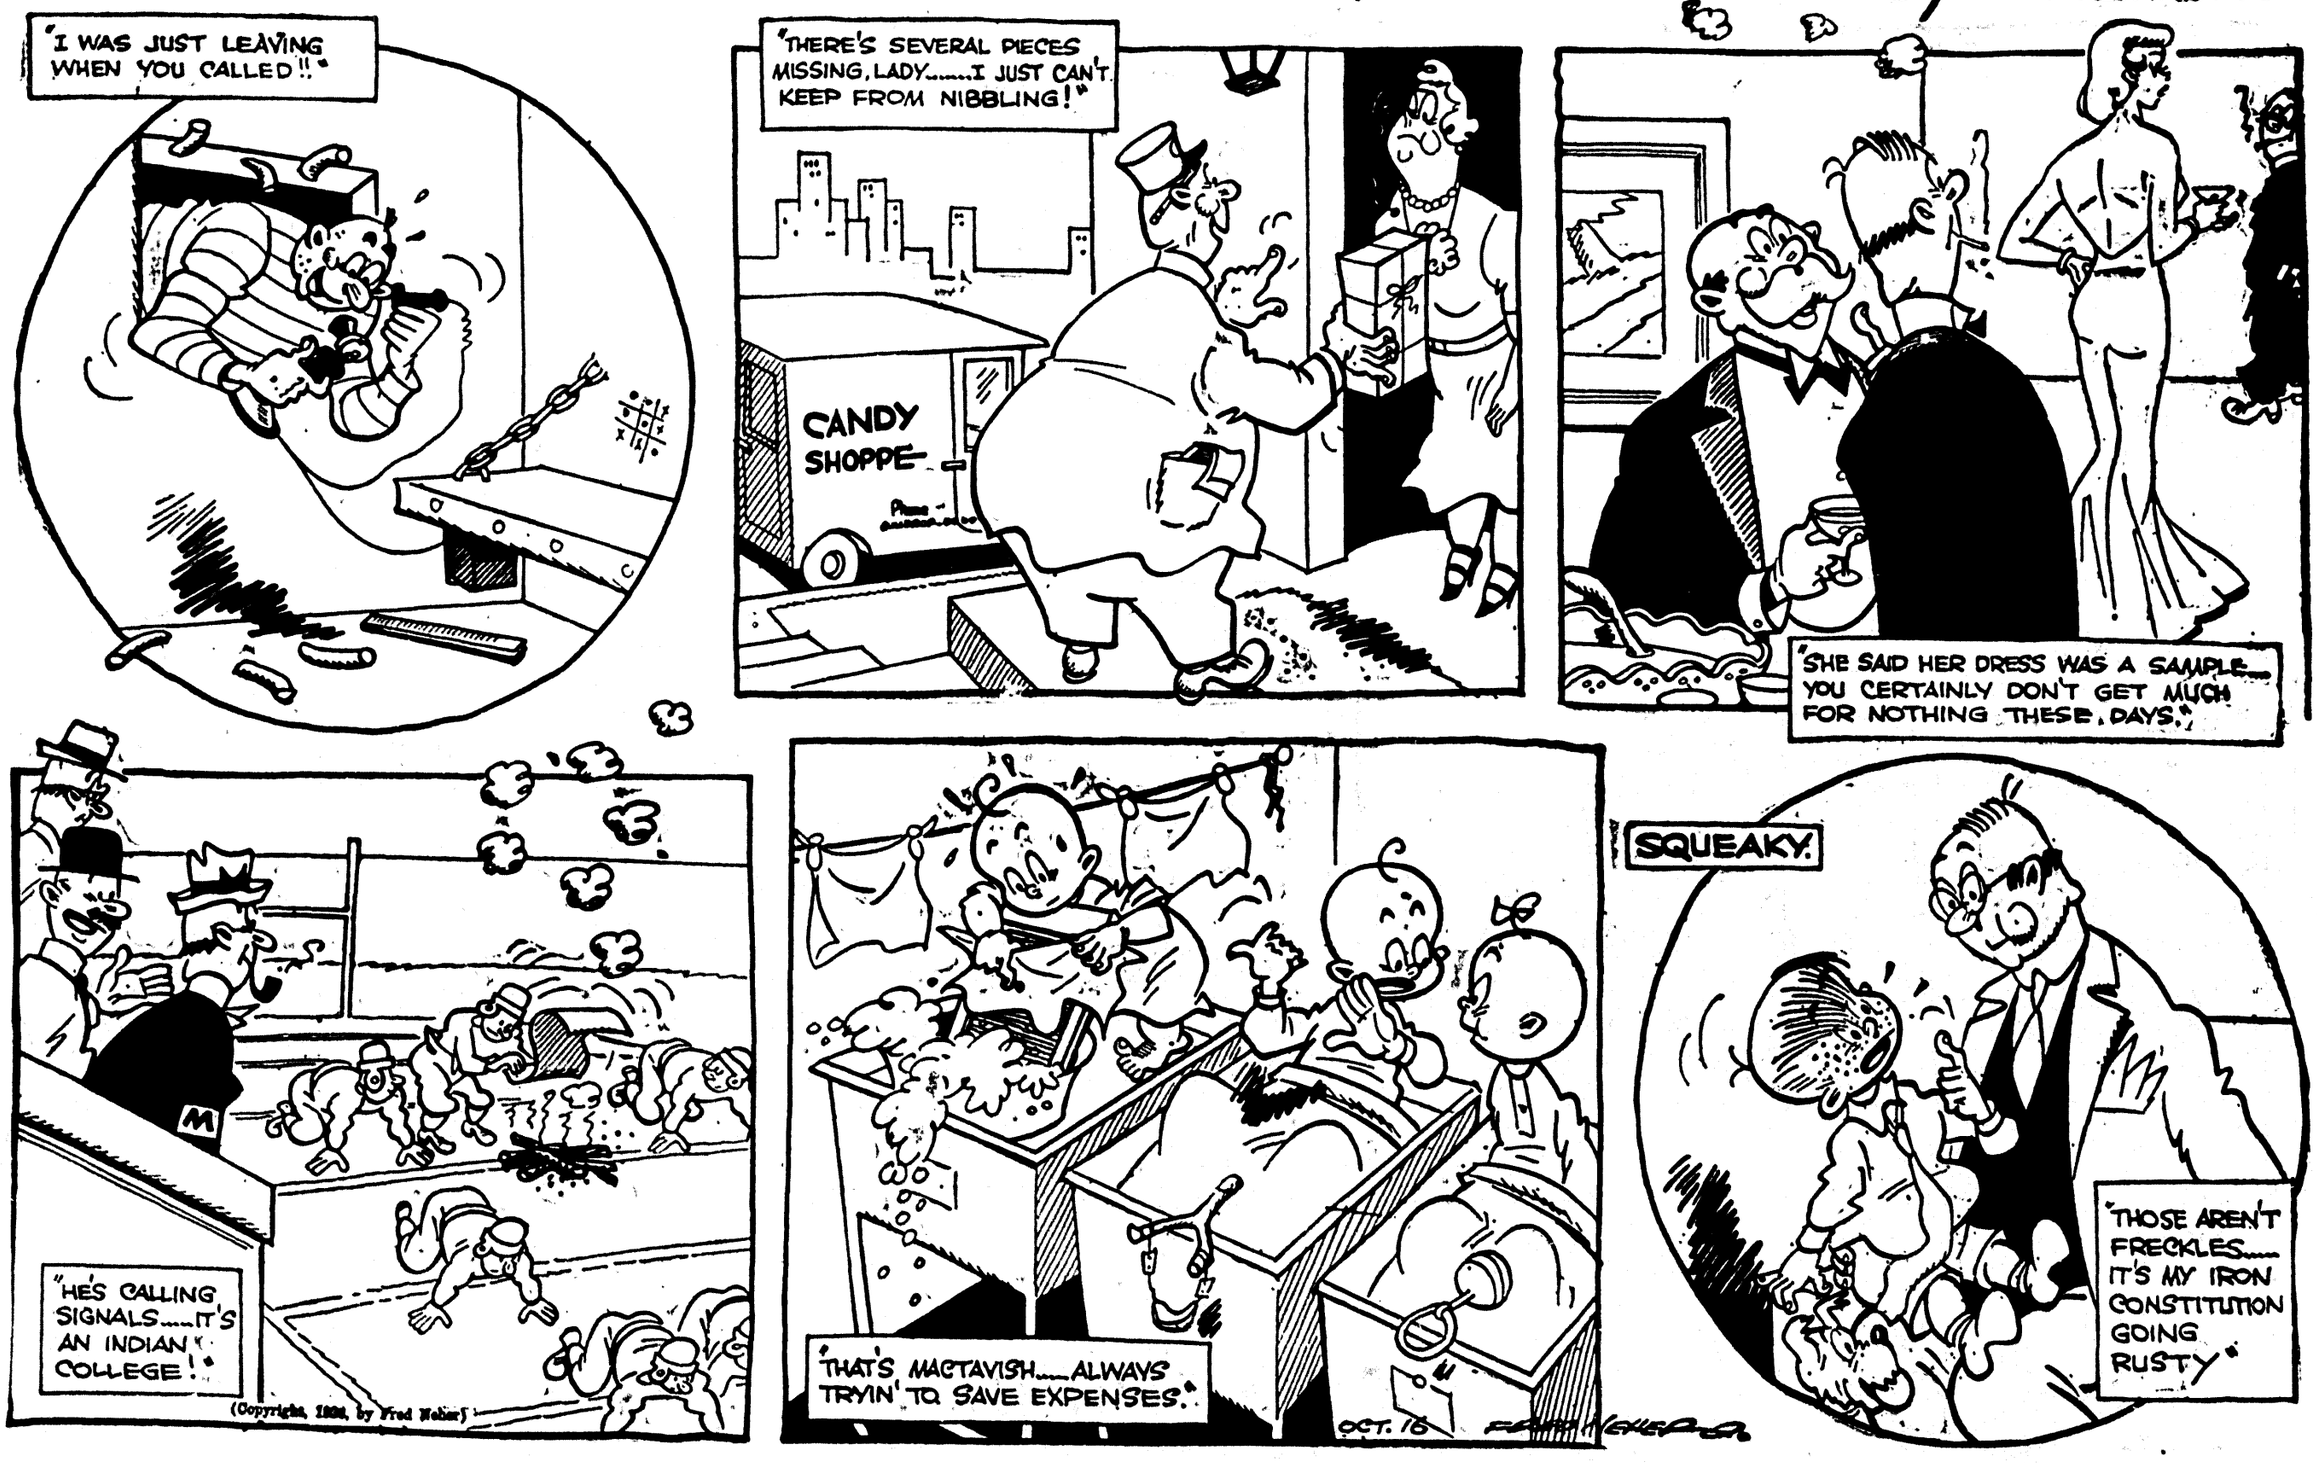

THE SPOT ON WHICH YOU PLACE POINTER INDICATES LOCATION OF CHOSEN BOOK TO YOUR CONFEDERATE.

SUPPOSE CENTER BOOK (#5) IS CHOSEN. YOU MAY FIRST POINT TO #7 BUT YOU PLACE POINTER IN CENTER OF BOOK WHICH TELLS HIM #5 IS IT.....IF UPPER RIGHT BOOK IS CHOSEN YOU'D PLACE POINTER ON #3 POSITION OF FIRST BOOK YOU POINT TO. ETC.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

WHEN I ATTENDED THE BARBERS' COLLEGE I PLAYED FIRST BASE AND WE TRIMMED TH' BEST SEMI-PRO CLUBS AROUND TOWN, BUT WE HAD SOME CLOSE SHAVES — HAW-HAWP! NOT BAD!

MY FIRST SHAVE WAS — SPFF! BLUB! FOOF!

MAJOR HOOPLE

JUST A LITTLE SOAP — IF I'D A-FOLLOWED UP MY BASEBALL, ALL MY FRIENDS TELL ME I'D OF MADE A FIRST BASE BERTH IN TH' BIG LEAGUES — I'M LEFT HANDED, YOU KNOW — HAIR TRIM?

UMF-KUMFF! NO, MY MAN! THAT IS ALL!

CONFOUND IT! A PLAGUE TO HIM AND HIS BABBLING!

BAR

BARBER

MAJOR, HERE'S A CUSTOMER WHO WANTS TO RENT A NEST IN THIS CUCKOO HATCH!

FOLLOW ME, SIR!

THIS ROOM WILL DO — I AM A BARBER AND WORK LATE, SO —

ULP! A BARBER DID YOU SAY?

EGAD! I MUST GET RID OF HIM AT ANY COST — HM —

IDEA

OOOOOO OOOO OOOORK RORK-ACK UNK-WUNK GASP! WOOF WOOF

WHAT HAPPENED? ARE YOU ALL RIGHT?

MY WORD, SIR, I AM SORRY! I AM SUBJECT TO FITS OF THIS KIND, BUT I AM PERFECTLY HARMLESS DURING THE DAY TIME — JUST LOCK YOUR DOORS AND WINDOWS AT NIGHT AND DON'T LEAVE ANY HATCHETS AROUND!

WHEE-OO! I'M GLAD I'M OUT OF THAT BATTY BUNGALOW — I WOULDN'T WANT TO BE PACKED IN TH' SAME CRATE WITH THAT EGG!

COPR. NEA SERVICE, INC. 10-16

ALLEY OOP

THIS BEIN' A FUGITIVE IS A PAIN IN' TH' NECK — IN THESE WOODS, IT'S LONESOME AS HECK!

AN' GITTIN' FOOD, THAT'S TH' RUB — EXCEPT FOR FISHIN' I'M JUST A DUB ---

WELL, HERE'S A PLACE TO FISH — AS GOOD AS ANY-ONE COULD WISH —

NOW IF I CAN FIND SOME BAIT, I CAN GIT T' WORK WITHOUT A WAIT -- HEY, HEY, AND A BIG HOT DOG!! TH' BEST THERE IS, A NICE FAT FROG!

CUTE LI'L FELLER - AN' HE SEEMED QUITE TAME - T'PUT A HOOK THRU HIM SEEMS JUST A SHAME! HAH, I KNOW OF JUST TH' THING - IF I CAN FIND A PIECE OF STRING -

THERE, BY GUM, THAT DID TH' TRICK. 'STEADA PUNCHIN' IT'S HIDE WITH THAT SHARP STICK —

SUPPOSIN' I DID GET IN OL' GUZ'S HAIR — SHUX AN' STUFF, WHAT DO I CARE? WITH BOUNDLESS NATURE IN WHICH T'ROAM, THIS BEATS JUS' LAVIN' AROUND AT HOME

WITH A NICE FAT FROG TH' FISH TO LURE, FISH FOR DINNERS A CINCH FOR SURE -- NOW, LESSEE, WILL I FRY OR BAKE - OR MEBBE BROIL 'EM ON A STAKE?

QUITE SOME TIME LATER

JUST LOOKIT THOSE FISH, THEY'RE EVERY-WHERE, A-SPLASHIN' AN' JUMPIN' UP IN THE AIR — YET I FISH AND FISH BUT NARY A BITE - I'M BEGINNIN' TO BELIEVE THAT SUMPIN AIN'T RIGHT!

ONE OF US IS CRAZY - I AIN'T SURE WHO -- BUT I KNOW ONE THING, I SURE DO -- NO SELF-RESPECTING FISH WOULD BITE ON YOU!

SNAP

YUM!

Easy to see why so many women buy SNOWDRIFT for all baking and frying

SNOWDRIFT IS ALWAYS CREAMY

Easy to Use

Snowdrift is always so creamy—it's delightfully easy to use. You start making your cake in a jiffy with Snowdrift. For Snowdrift is creamy whether you take it from your refrigerator or a hot kitchen shelf. Snowdrift's just-right creaminess blends with your sugar in quick, easy stirs—saving you time and effort.

Snowdrift
FOR Cake
Biscuit
Pastry
Frying

ACTUAL SIZE

Easy to Digest

Snowdrift is a pure, all-vegetable shortening with its freshness protected by the air-tight "goodness" seal. You can heat Snowdrift to proper frying temperatures without smoking or burning. So whether you bake or fry with Snowdrift, you'll have the joy of serving foods your family will relish for their good taste and digestibility.

Easy to Get—

THIS LOVELY Original Wm. Rogers SILVERWARE

Ask your grocer for Snowdrift, today. When you open the can, cut the word GOODNESS from the strip that locks in Snowdrift's creamy purity and freshness. Mail it with 50c (in coin, carefully wrapped) — and your name and address—to Louisiane Silver Service, P. O. Box 239, Wallingford, Conn. (or to the Wesson Oil & Snowdrift People, New Orleans, La.). You will receive this exquisite Original Wm. Rogers Serving Set (fork and spoon) postpaid, with guarantee, and folder showing how you can get other groups of this exclusive Louisiane pattern in magnificent, heavily-plated silverware—knives, forks, salad forks, teaspoons, tablespoons, soup spoons, coffee spoons and other units—under the same money-saving offer. So—get a can of Snowdrift from your grocer, today, and mail the word GOODNESS from the strip that locks its freshness in—and only 50c.

LOUISIANE SILVER SERVICE
